

Iran Aid Rife With Errors, Probers Find

$209 Million Project
'Irregularities' Told
Over 4-Yr. Period

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators say they have found many "deficiencies" and "irregularities" in the multi-million-dollar U. S. program for Iran.

This report by the General Accounting Office (GAO), covering mainly the four fiscal years ended last June 30, was sent to Vice President Nixon and House Speaker Rayburn March 15. It was made available to a reporter Saturday.

The GAO study is expected to be the cornerstone of a forthcoming investigation by a House International Operations subcommittee headed by Rep. Hardy (D-Va.).

AMERICAN ECONOMIC help to the Middle Eastern country bordering Russia totaled 1.4 million dollars in fiscal 1951. It ballooned after Iran got into financial trouble in nationalizing its rich oil resources. The GAO report, dealing with 209 million dollars in aid over the four years, does not include approximately 70 millions scheduled for the current 12-month period.

Hardy says the GAO investigation and a parallel committee study under way have apparently turned up "major deficiencies" which "apparently have resulted in uncontrolled spending of U. S. tax dollars without a compensatory gain for the Iranian economy."

THE 106-PAGE GAO report praised some parts of the Iran aid program and said the International Cooperation Administration (ICA) has successfully overcome some "significant administrative deficiencies" of past.

Mother of 5 Widowed by Car Mishap

A Long Beach mother of five young children broke down and sobbed Saturday during a Chicago coroner's inquest into the death of her husband, killed by an automobile involved in a police chase.

Mrs. Margaret Henderson, 39, of 2325 Heather Ave., testified she moved to California with her children two months ago for the health of one son. She said her husband, Robert, 39, a typesetter, had planned to join the family in Long Beach Sunday.

Henderson was killed Friday at State and Van Buren Sts. in Chicago while walking across the intersection.

Police said an automobile driven by Richard Coleman, 29, a laundry worker, struck Henderson. Coleman drove through five red traffic signals at speeds up to 90 miles an hour before his car hit the pedestrian and crashed into a truck, police said.

Coleman, who suffered only slight cuts, is charged with reckless homicide and drunken driving. The inquest was continued to Tuesday.

L.A.C. Says: Oil-Water-Sand

A strange process goes on in our harbor district. As we take out a barrel of oil we find the ground sinks. So we dredge up or buy a barrel of sand to build up the land. The process has been going on for 15 years. There is no end in sight. From the oil we get more money than is spent for raising the land level in the harbor. But nothing can be done to raise the level of land on which buildings stand throughout the downtown area.

Around 100,000 barrels of oil are taken from the Wilmington field each day. Of this amount about 45,000 barrels come from the tidelands controlled by the city. The

Knight Hits Farm Chief for Ike 'Slur'

LOS ANGELES (UP)—California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight Saturday accused James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers' Union, of making a "shabby attack" on President Eisenhower over the farm bill.

Knight termed Patton's telegram to the President as being "disrespectful in context, snide in tenor and sassy in phraseology."

Patton urged the President to "pause" after the ninth hole of a golf game at Augusta, Ga., "to give some consideration to the American family farmer." He said "we want you to sign" the farm bill and then tell Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson, "Ezra, you are through."

"IT WOULD BE in order for Mr. Patton to make a public apology to President Eisenhower and, after having done so, to remember his manners and mend his ways."

He said he felt "impelled" to protest what he called Patton's "unkind and gratuitous slur on the President's integrity."

"I believe that the American people's sense of decency and fair play is offended, as mine is, by the poor taste displayed by Patton in his intemperate and shabby attack on our President," Knight said.

IN NEW YORK CITY, Patton said Saturday night he does not "need any advice" from Gov. Knight.

"I made no personal reference to Mr. Eisenhower, except to ask him to stop playing golf long enough to fire Benson," Patton said.

"I don't intend to apologize because I didn't say anything for which there is a need to apologize."

"I don't need any advice from Gov. Knight. I have held my office longer than he has been governor. I have had dealings with four Presidents, and I think I know the niceties of dealing with high officials."

Car Salesman Beaten, Robbed by Two Youths

A 40-year-old car salesman was beaten Saturday afternoon by two teen-age youths who robbed him of $3 and then drove off in the car he had been demonstrating.

Thomas Carruth, 5110 Walton St., was treated at Harbison Jones Clinic for a dislocated shoulder. Carruth told police he had driven only a few blocks from the car lot at 2120 American Ave. when the youths began hitting him with a club. After he gave them his wallet containing $3, the pair threw him from the car and drove away, he said.

VICIOUS DOG'S SNAP WORSE THAN ITS BITE

DALLAS (UP)—Alarmed witnesses rushed Edna Winkler, 10, to Parkland Hospital after a large dog snapped at her arms and legs repeatedly Saturday. Mystified doctors could find only minor bruises. Then the dog was captured. He had no teeth.

Fall Pins Stroller 42 Hours

NEW YORK (UP)—Police Saturday rescued a 21-year-old Bronx man who, they said, apparently had been trapped for 42 hours under the Bronx-Whitestone bridge before he was discovered by a fisherman.

Exhausted from the ordeal and suffering from shock and exposure, Lawrence Levy was reported in fair condition in Queens General Hospital.

POLICE PIECED together this account: Levy left a Queens motor company, where he is a stock clerk, Thursday for his Bronx home.

Somehow he ended up in a park near the Bronx-Whitestone bridge. Levy apparently attempted to scale an eight-foot-high guard fence between the water's edge and the bridge foundation, when he slipped.

Falling, he jammed his right leg above the knee between the last pole of the fence and the abutment. Face down, he could get no leverage to free himself.

A FISHERMAN, who wandered off his favorite fishing spot, spotted the hemmed-in man Saturday. Levy, crazed by thirst and his helpless position, could not assist the fisherman who was unable to free Levy alone. A police emergency squad and radio patrolmen employed a car jack and heavy wooden blocks, finally freeing Levy.

Red Nation Is 'Disarmed' by Students

SAN MARINO (UP)—Italian students virtually disarmed this Communist-operated nation Saturday by stealing all its artillery. Practical jokers from the University of Bologna sneaked into the 38-square-mile country perched atop hills 11 miles from Rimini, Italy, on the Adriatic and made off with a culverin, a mortar and a short ordnance piece. All were Renaissance relics, used by the 22-man police "army" to fire ceremonial salutes.

San Marino, the smallest republic in the world, with a 1,600-year history and a population of 12,500, is a picturesque dot on the Italian peninsula.

Ike Near Verdict on Farm Bill

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said Saturday after a talk with President Eisenhower that he considers the farm bill "unacceptable," but indicated he would stay on to administer it if it becomes law.

Benson would not confirm a United Press dispatch earlier saying it had been learned Mr. Eisenhower would veto the bill. He said he thought the President was "making his decision" Saturday afternoon.

Benson, Mr. Eisenhower and Agriculture Department and White House advisers conferred for about three hours on the farm bill. Benson saw the President twice privately for what he estimated to be a total of 20 minutes.

SEVERAL TIMES since his arrival here Friday night Benson had restated his opposition to the farm bill, and pointed out that the President knows his views.

Benson said later that if the President did sign the bill his department would do the best to administer it as long as the President desired. Then he was asked if that meant he, personally, would stay on as secretary despite his opposition to the fixed-price legislation.

"I am not in the habit of going off in a corner and sulking if I don't get everything I want," Benson replied.

WHEN HE LEFT the conference in the President's vacation office above the Pro Shop at the Augusta National Golf Club, Benson conceded that the farm bill has mixed benefits.

Questioned about the reports Mr. Eisenhower has already decided to veto the fixed-price measure, Benson said he was sure "that the decision 'has not been made in his own mind yet.'"

"It is a very difficult decision to make," the secretary added. "Legislation usually is a compromise. Very seldom is it that a cabinet officer gets legislation that is wholly to his liking," he said.

Benson said he made no recommendation to the President on the farm bill because his own position was well known. "I have made no firm recommendation," Benson said.

Actor Marlowe Will Appeal in 'Ardent Kiss' Dismissal

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Leading man Hugh Marlowe said Saturday he would appeal to Actors Equity Assn. his dismissal from the cast of "Anniversary Waltz" after he traded slaps with a leading lady who accused him of kissing her too ardently.

The handsome Hollywood and Broadway actor was barred from the Alcazar Theater when he showed up for Friday night's performance of the marital comedy. He was informed that he had been dismissed, his role taken by Andrew Duggan.

MARLOWE'S EXIT CAME Thursday night just as the curtain ran down on the end of Act II. Everybody agreed that leading lady, Marjorie Lord, slapped him and he replied in kind.

"She avails me on the side of the face," Marlowe said. "She did it emotionally. So I slapped her right back in the heat of emotion."

Large Area of East L.B. Blacked Out

Stoppage Caused by Cable Failure

A power failure at a Southern California Edison Co. substation plunged a large area of East Long Beach into darkness for more than two hours Saturday night.

A cable failure at the utility's Inthaway substation at Pacific Coast Hwy. and Lakewood Blvd. caused the blackout, Charles M. Campbell, the company's district manager, said.

Lights went out in an area bounded by Terminal Ave., Bellflower Blvd., Pacific Coast Hwy. and Atherton St. at 8:10 p.m.

SERVICE WAS RESTORED at 10:28 p.m., Campbell announced.

Police Sgt. Charles F. Workman, who was cruising in a squad car near the Traffic Circle shortly after 8 p.m., said he saw a "large flash" and heard a "big boom" in the direction of the substation.

The failure cut off electric power in hundreds of homes and dozens of business establishments in the area.

During the first 90 minutes of the blackout, the Police Department switchboard was swamped with more than 500 telephone calls from residents attempting to get information.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS in the area were put out of commission. Police went to the intersections of Pacific Coast Hwy. and Ximeno Ave. and Pacific Coast Hwy. and Anaheim St. to direct traffic. Police said, though, that traffic was light for a Saturday night.

Officials at Municipal Airport said the middle marker of its radio instrument landing system failed to function but only for two minutes.

Lights in the Clock Drive-In Restaurant, 4525 Pacific Coast Hwy., were out for two hours. Robert Clark, manager said. Customers ate by candlelight.

FOR 15 MINUTES the restaurant's employees were unable to open the electric-powered cash register.

"Customers were making change among themselves to pay their bills," Clark reported.

Two Youths Die in Car Crash

Two young men from Silvera were fatally injured Saturday when their car struck an abutment on the Santa Ana freeway near Lakewood Blvd. and burst into flames.

The victims were the driver, Jesse Sanchez Carbal, who was celebrating his 22nd birthday Saturday, and his passenger, Carlos Rodriguez, 24, police said.

PHILLIP E. DOTSON... Suspect in Holdups

L.B. Youth Admits Narcotics Robberies

A 19-year-old Long Beach youth, arrested in Laguna Beach Saturday afternoon, has admitted being one of the youthful trio who held up two Long Beach stores Friday and stole an unknown amount of narcotics, police said.

Phillip Eugene Dotson, 6117 McKnight Dr., was arrested by Laguna Beach police on a tip from the Long Beach detective bureau.

THE BLOND, BLUE-EYED suspect admitted participating in the robberies at the Belmont Pharmacy, 4032 E. Broadway, and the Ximeno Sundries store, 4358 E. 4th St.

He told Det. Insp. William R. Decker that he had no idea whether his two companions in the robberies were still in Long Beach or not.

Dotson's arrest followed a police "shakedown" of an apartment at 1000 E. Ocean Blvd. where the suspects had lived for several days prior to the robberies.

Dotson was arrested by Laguna police officers Robert MacMurray and Norman Babcock when they stopped a car on Pacific Coast Hwy. with four Long Beach youths in it. None of the other three was held.

Friday's robberies were committed within a 10-minute period and in both cases the victims' hands and legs were tied and their mouths taped with adhesive tape.

THE ROBBERS first asked for narcotics and then apparently decided to take money also. They

Dag in Quick Tour of Gaza Danger Area

'I've Done What
I Came to Do,'
He Tells Reporters

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold arrived Saturday night from apparently encouraging talks with Egypt's leaders on the Middle East crisis.

Before leaving Egypt he said "I have done in Cairo what I came to do."

The U. N. Secretary General stopped off at the Gaza Strip, focal point of Israeli-Egyptian friction, on route from Cairo to his temporary headquarters here. He also stopped briefly in Israel. Hammarskjold said in a statement on landing in Gaza:

"United Nations interest in the problems of all inhabitants of this area is indicated by my presence here and by the fact we shall continue to engage all our modest resources in a search for a solution to these problems in cooperation with all constructive forces."

HAMMARSKJOLD drove for about an hour along the bustling strip, then crossed into Israel and headed for Lydda. There he met briefly with Dr. Walter Eytan, director general of the Israeli foreign ministry. At the same time, Gideon Raphael, counselor to the foreign ministry, talked with Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, truce supervisor, who is accompanying Hammarskjold.

An Israeli spokesman said the meeting between Hammarskjold and Eytan was preparatory to discussions which the U. N. official will open Tuesday in Jerusalem with Israel's government leaders. In five days in Egypt, Hammarskjold succeeded in getting pledges from both Israel and Egypt on a cease-fire. The pledges now appear to be in the process of being carried out. The two nations also agreed to avoid hostile acts.

NOW HE AND HIS staff are expected to work out the details for a withdrawal of troops of both sides from the border, the setting up of a buffer zone and a limitation on the border forces. Between now and Tuesday, a lot of staff work will be done at the secretariat which Hammarskjold has set up in Beirut for the month-long mission ordered by the U. N. Security Council.

His previous plans had called for him to fly directly from Cairo to Beirut. But his aides said the change was in line with the secretary general's policy of keeping his plans "fluid and flexible."

Before leaving Gaza he told rest comes from privately owned wells. It has been recommended by the Harbor Commission that city wells be shut down until subsidence is retarded or stopped. But that would still allow the private wells to flow and cause subsidence.

Competent engineers have stated that subsidence would be retarded or stopped if a barrel of water were injected into the earth for each barrel of oil extracted. There are some 120 operating companies in the field. For protection of the city all should be injecting water as fast as oil is taken out of the ground.

It is apparent some drastic action is necessary if we are to escape serious damage to property outside the harbor area. Such drastic action could be the curtailment of production throughout the Wilmington field until repressuring is assured. It would probably call for state legislation and court action to achieve the result. But it is time that a move in that direction be made.

The Harbor Commission ordered its engineers to bring in plans for shutting down some of the harbor wells. It would be essential that offset wells be continued so private wells to the north would not be draining the tidelands. But there are several hundred tideland wells daily producing oil which in turn add to subsidence. This program should not be allowed to die and therefore be looked on only as a gesture.

But of greater importance is the problem of what to do about the private wells which are daily adding to subsidence. The Union Pacific, Edison and Ford properties produce as much oil as do the tidelands. If there is to be a cure for subsidence all private wells must also be shut down until repressuring is accomplished.

It is natural that some private companies deny that oil extraction is causing our subsidence. But independent engineers and the city-employed experts have given ample evidence that it does. It is a fact that subsidence has occurred almost in proportion to the oil produced. The private companies producing from their properties must assume their responsibility for the damage incurred.

Since the state is now a partner with Long Beach in tideland oil profits it, too, must assume its responsibility. It will be paying part of subsidence remedial work. There will be tremendous pressure brought against any move to close in production until repressuring is assured. But unless these operators agree to a unitization program or each voluntarily replaces the pressures by water flooding, it should be made compulsory.

It just does not make sense to take out oil—then buy land to build up the land when water injection would retard subsidence. If that will not do the job we must decide if we are willing to continue sinking the most valuable part of our city for the sole purpose of producing oil—L.A.C.

Crash of Jet Terrorizes 200 in School

CASCADE ROCK, Colo. (AP)—A U.S. Air Force T-33 jet fighter plane crashed and exploded southeast of here Saturday night, killing the pilot and terrifying some 200 persons who were just sitting down to the annual dinner at Cherry Valley rural school.

The jet smashed into the ground and burned less than 2,000 feet from the school near old State Highway 83, 15 miles southeast of Cascade Rock.

The 44th Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry said the plane was en route to Peterson Field at Colorado Springs from Salt Lake City. The crash occurred shortly after 6:30 p.m.

Ed Bollinger of Elizabeth, one of those attending the school dinner, said the pilot's body was thrown about 150 yards from the plane and was burned beyond recognition.

years. But it also made many criticisms. Among cases it listed: 1. A water treatment plant for Tehran, Iran's capital city of a million inhabitants, was built with U.S. aid but so far is of little use because Tehran's water distribution system "still uses open gutters."

Putting in water pipes was the responsibility of Iranian authorities. The expected three-year time period needed for this job is now expected to take six years.

2. "Substantial quantities" of U. S.-financed farm machinery was found unused in Iran.

Some of the equipment was unsuitable for the area where it was sent, or there were not enough qualified persons on hand to show how it could be used. Also, machinery was lying idle for want of spare parts.

3. "A number of irregularities occurred" in the handling of aid funds and "these cases have implicated both American and Iranian employees."

4. Two years after an aid agreement to build a dam was signed, agreement on how to go about building it is still under U. S.-Iranian negotiation. Meanwhile much of the U. S. aid contribution has been used up on a "complex and costly" relocation of a highway in connection with the dam project.

5. Three years after ICA undertook to pay for machinery for a cotton mill, a "significant portion" of this equipment ordered from the United States had not arrived. In addition, there is not enough power to run the plant.

Road Blocked 1 Hr. by Chain of Accidents

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The westbound lane of Highway 40 north of here was blocked solidly for about an hour Saturday by a rapid-fire succession of auto collisions which resulted in the serious injury of two teen-age girls, the highway patrol has reported.

An auto driven by Staff Sgt. Thomas H. Brice of McClellan Air Force Base went out of control in the eastbound lane, slid over the dividing strip and obstructed the westbound portion. Officers said Brice fled on foot.

A moment later, Capt. Melvin F. Murphy, Mather Field, smashed his auto into the back of a truck which had stopped for highway patrol-placed flares. Murphy suffered only minor injuries and the truck driver, Ralph Die, Woods Cross, Utah, was unhurt.

Then a car bearing two teen-age girls piled up into the same truck. Patricia M. Kennedy and her passenger Charlene Patterson, both 17 and both of Sacramento, received major injuries.

Slated H-Bomb Test to Be History's Biggest Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. James T. Patterson (R-Conn.) said Saturday the forthcoming H-bomb test in the Pacific will be "the most devastating explosion ever known to mankind."

Patterson's statement was contrary to what Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis L. Strauss has said about the test scheduled for early next month at Bikini. Strauss said the biggest of the new explosions will be substantially less than the big H-bomb set off in 1954. Strauss said the tests this time will generally be of lower energy release than those of the past series.

BUT PATTERSON, a member of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee, said in a prepared statement: "While unable to disclose any official information, I will only predict that the explosion scheduled for about May 1 will surpass in power any nuclear detonation so far."

Patterson said the nation should be informed about the power of the new tests at an early date. He said information about the first H-bomb explosion was withheld from the public "for many months."

newsmen he had received a complete briefing on the bombardment of that refugee-crowded city by Israeli artillery and mortars on April 5 when the Egyptians said 64 civilians and soldiers were killed and more than 100 wounded.

THE INCIDENT, one of the most serious in a chain of such incidents, was set off, the Israelis said, by repeated attacks on their border settlements and patrols.

Before leaving Cairo, Hammarskjold again talked with Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser for 30 minutes and with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi for more than an hour.

"It seems to me the secretary general is very satisfied with his Cairo visit," said Hammarskjold's press chief, George Ivan Smith, after the parley.

A highly-placed Egyptian told newsmen "Egypt did not place any obstacles in front of Secretary General Hammarskjold while he was here. Hammarskjold left Egypt pleased with his visit and he expects to return to Cairo later."

In his five-day stay in Cairo, the secretary general obtained from both the Egyptians and Israelis pledges to refrain from hostile acts except in defense, and was reported to be working out technical details for a withdrawal of forces from the demarcation line.

U.S. Plans New Boost to Mideast Arms Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, in an important move to stabilize the Middle East, will announce next week its decision to throw new support to the five-nation Baghdad defense pact strung along Russia's southern frontiers.

The new U. S. pledge of support will be announced formally in Tehran Monday by Deputy Undersecretary of State Loy W. Henderson. He will voice the pledge at the opening meeting of the Baghdad Pact Council.

The Tehran meeting is designed to shore up the somewhat shaky foundations of the new defense organization and to expand the economic activities of the alliance.

Administration officials said Henderson in his opening statement "as an observer" at the meeting will:

1. Strongly reaffirm United States support for the pact between Turkey, Iran, Iraq, Pakistan and Britain. The United States is not a member and does not plan to join the pact in the foreseeable future.

2. Pledge "sympathetic" American consideration of any broad regional economic development projects brought forward by the pact nations. This will mark a departure from previous American economic aid procedure which channeled American aid dollars to pact nations on a straight country-by-country basis.

Only consideration of such projects can be pledged at this time however, because actual funds would have to be appropriated by Congress.

Henderson, who arrived in Tehran Saturday, will be backed up at the meeting by a delegation of high-ranking diplomatic and military figures. The impressive array is designed to show American interest in the pact which has been violently criticized by Russia, Egypt and some other Arab states.

Dist. Atty. Victor H. Blane assigned county detectives to the case and promised police protection to the Baron and Lees families.

Wilson, 33-year-old Tulsa, Okla., ex-convict, went on trial last Monday. Completion of a jury took up the first week of the trial. Testimony is to begin Monday.

College Boy Admits Robbing South Bank

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Three shabbily dressed youths robbed the bank of Flora, Miss., of $30,617 Saturday and seven hours later police arrested a college student who admitted the crime and identified his companions.

Charles Anthony Jones, 19, a sophomore at Hinds Junior College, was picked up at his home where he turned over more than $3,000 of the loot, then accompanied officers to the point where the three abandoned the getaway car.

Bloodhounds were unable to pick up a trail, however, and a general search continued throughout the area.

Probers Clear Ex-Housing Boss Strobel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Peter A. Strobel was exonerated by a 4-3 vote of a housing investigating committee Saturday of having used his official position as commissioner of public buildings for private gain.

But six of the seven committee members agreed that Strobel's private business interests had placed him in an "inconsistent and untenable position" which he finally resolved by resigning.

STROBEL, a New York civil engineer, resigned as boss of the government's billion dollar real estate holdings last Nov. 8 at the conclusion of hearings by a House Judiciary subcommittee into alleged conflicts between his official and private interests.

In reporting their findings Saturday, three committee Republicans and one Democrat concluded Strobel did not engage in any conduct that was unethical or in violation of the federal conflict of interest laws.

The Democrat, former Rep. Sidney A. Fine of New York, went further and said Strobel "was caused unnecessary and what turned out to be completely unjustified embarrassment."

Federal charges of bank robbery were filed against Jones, officers said. Police also swore out federal warrants for Alexander and Smith.

The three handits made masks from typewriter covers while waiting for bank personnel to report to work early Saturday, then carried out the holdup.

'Baseball Suit' Gunman Robs L.B. Milkman

A gunman wearing a baseball uniform robbed a milkman of $100 Saturday afternoon near the Adair Milk Farms, 828 Cowles St.

The victim, Elder Schwiager, 57, of 2705 Van Buren St., Dominguez, told police the robbery occurred about a quarter-mile from the dairy's main office.

The milkman said he had stopped his truck on Cowles St. near Oregon Ave. to adjust some cases in the back of the vehicle when a car carrying two men stopped nearby.

One of the men, he said, wore a gray baseball uniform with blue stripes. This man whipped out a revolver.

Schwiager said the pair took his wallet and fled.

Runaway Socialite, 16, Wanted to Make Own Way

SELMA, Ala. (UPI)—A 16-year-old daughter of wealthy Washington parents hugged and kissed her father Saturday night seven weeks after she ran away from home to make her own way—and did, weighing bags of potatoes in an Alabama grocery.

"I'm glad to see you, you're about an hour late," blonde and girl who went by the name of Peggy Ewing told her father as he arrived by airplane from Washington.

"I'm about seven weeks late," she disclosed she came to this her father, Frank M. Ewing, a wealthy businessman and former deputy secretary of defense, said name of the dress shop in Washington where she bought her clothes and the name appeared in her. She was emphatic that it was for no other reason.

SHE HAD TWO jobs, first a curb hop at the Jet drive-in, Ewing left immediately by plane and second at the Quick Check grocery where she went to work weighing produce only last Tuesday. She said she made enough a few days after she left home, money to sustain herself and we exhausted all possible means, never had to ask anyone back of finding her without calling home for any.

"I just wanted to see if I could make it on my own for a while," she said. "My parents gave me everything I wanted but I just wanted to try it on my own."

Sen. Young Urges Probe of Oil 'Bribe'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Milton R. Young (R-ND) said Saturday he has asked the new Senate Lobbying Committee to investigate charges by his political opponents that he "sold out" to oil interests on the natural gas bill.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said the lobbying committee will consider the matter Monday. Since Young himself requested the inquiry, there appeared little doubt that the committee would approve it.

THE CHARGES were made by the Bismark, N.D., "Leader," a weekly newspaper, along with an allegation that Young accepted a $5,000 "bribe" in 1950 from Henry (The Dutchman) Grunwald, one time Washington influence peddler and fixer.

Young, in a letter to the committee, conceded that it might be a "bit unusual" to request an investigation of himself. But he said he was doing so because the newspaper lacked the "common decency or guts" to bring the charges to the committee's attention.

Saying he was prepared to submit the "full particulars," Young said: "I have not, of course, sold out to, or have I received bribes from anyone." He was certain, he said, the Leader did not have "the slightest evidence."

McClellan told the United Press by telephone from Little Rock, Ark., that the matter will be placed before the committee Monday "for whatever consideration the committee wants to give it."

Personally, he said, he feels the case is one which "the committee possibly should look into."

Young urged the committee to "compel" two of the Leader's top officials to appear. He named them as R. C. Nathan, director of the board, and K. W. Simmons, editor.

LONDON (UPI)—Yugoslav naval experts are inspecting Britain's mothball fleet for bargains. Britain has several hundred small craft, ranging from minesweepers, coastal transport and frigates up to destroyers which she wants to sell.

CLEAN ELECTIONS UNINTERESTING

GOP Senate Aspirant Lonely at Luncheon

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—U. S. Senate candidate Al J. Carey surveyed the empty chairs and commented, "There's not much interest in clean elections, is there?"

A long banquet table in the Ruffner hotel was neatly set with white linen, silver and china, ready for a luncheon. Seated in lonely dignity at the head of the table were Carey and Roy H. Plerson, the Kanawha county Republican chairman. Aside from newsmen, nobody else showed up for the luncheon.

Carey, the Kanawha County sheriff, is running for the GOP nomination for the Senate. Eight days ago he sent out letters inviting major candidates of both parties for the May 8 primary election and party

Dulles Bows to Arabs, Charges Jewish Unit

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Jewish Congress Saturday accused the State Department of bowing to an "Arab campaign against American Jews."

In a 56 page "white paper" the congress also asserted Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had subordinated the "rights of American citizenship to the expediencies of international bargaining."

The document was prepared for distribution among congress members holding their biennial convention now. The organization has 60,000 members.

ASSERTING the "widespread campaign by Arab countries against Jews in the United States" is one of the least known by-products of Arab-Israel hostility, the congress called for a program which would include provisions that the United States make no agreements of any kind with Arab countries unless rights of Jews were fully protected.

Principal forms of discrimination currently employed by the Arab states against American Jews, the congress said, fell into these three categories:

"1. Arab denial of entry or transit visas to American Jews;

"2. Arab boycott of American Jewish business, and

"3. The establishment and subvention of large-scale Arab propaganda centers to disseminate anti-semitic literature in the United States."

Experts Say Smoke Causes Lung Cancer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—Scientists who experimented with tars from burning tobacco said Saturday that lung cancer could be reduced by 75 per cent if people did not smoke cigarettes.

But a spokesman for the tobacco industry said their evidence was inconclusive.

The scientists served on a panel which discussed a possible link between heavy smoking and cancer of the lungs. They took part in the 47th annual meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research.

DR. ERNEST WYNDER of the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York described work there and at Toronto University in which mice suffered from skin cancer after being treated with tobacco tar concentrates. His experimental evidence was corroborated by Dr. William Smith of New York University, who said skin cancers grew after cigarette tar concentrates were painted directly on the animals.

Smith also reported progress in attempts at developing short cuts in evaluating the cancer-causing properties of cigarette smoke tar.

Wynder, Smith and Dr. Robert C. Mellors of Sloan-Kettering said at a news conference following the panel discussion that they were in "general agreement" with the theory that there would be 75 per cent less lung cancer if people did not smoke.

MELLORS REPORTED on experiments showing that materials isolated from cigarette smoke tar actually entered the microscopic cells of the mouth and respiratory systems of smokers. He said tar concentrates diluted to one part in a million glow under ultraviolet light. He demonstrated the same glow in the mouth cells of a human after the person had smoked a cigarette.

Dr. Alfred Gellhorn of Columbia University, who was not a panel member, told newsmen of experiments which indicate that while cigarette tar itself may be weak as a cancer-causing agent, it provokes other cancer-causing chemicals in the body to greater activity.

Estes Bucks Meyner in N.J. Tuesday

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI)—A couple of strong Democratic vote-getters—who share a similar political philosophy and follow similar campaign methods—are pitting their strength against each other at the polls Tuesday for control of New Jersey's 36 Democratic convention votes.

At the helm of the state party organization which seeks to send an uncommitted slate to Chicago is Gov. Robert B. Meyner, upset winner in this normally Republican state in 1953 and a possible dark horse candidate for President or vice president.

Bucking him is Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, whose unorthodox campaign already has scored several primary victories. Both men are of the liberal wing of their party.

MEYNER IS in effect putting his prestige on the line. Should Kefauver make a successful showing in winning delegates, the governor's chances of getting on the national ticket would dim and his power in the party's national councils wane.

Kefauver, on the other hand, can better afford a defeat since he is the underdog taking on an entrenched organization in a primary. Unlike Wisconsin and Minnesota, only Democrats can vote in the Democratic primary and only Republicans in the GOP primary.

Kefauver, on the other hand, can better afford a defeat since he is the underdog taking on an entrenched organization in a primary. Unlike Wisconsin and Minnesota, only Democrats can vote in the Democratic primary and only Republicans in the GOP primary.

This also holds for preferential primary—known as a "popularity contest"—in which the Republicans have entered President Eisenhower. Kefauver is the only Democrat entered. The vote is not binding on delegates but is meant as a test of a candidate's strength.

The Republican organization slate for convention delegates is pledged to the President.

Keef Says Ike Policy Made Gruenther Quit

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI)—Both Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver laid into the Eisenhower foreign policy Saturday night as if they were already trying to beat the Republicans in November rather than vying for Florida's preference for the Democratic nomination in May.

Speaking in Miami, Kefauver blamed the administration's "policy of drift" for Gen. Alfred Gruenther's resignation as commander of NATO and for the threat of a "full-scale war" in the Middle East.

At Pensacola, far in the northwest corner of the state, Stevenson accused the administration of "sweeping the foreign policy problems under the rug" and mentioned indirectly the President's heart condition.

KEFAUVER WARNED that if the United States does not "get to work and do something about it," the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) will fall apart.

He also called on President Eisenhower to "express his personal willingness to meet with the heads of the Arab nations and Israel at some neutral point to use the prestige of his office to urge a peaceful settlement" of the Middle East crisis.

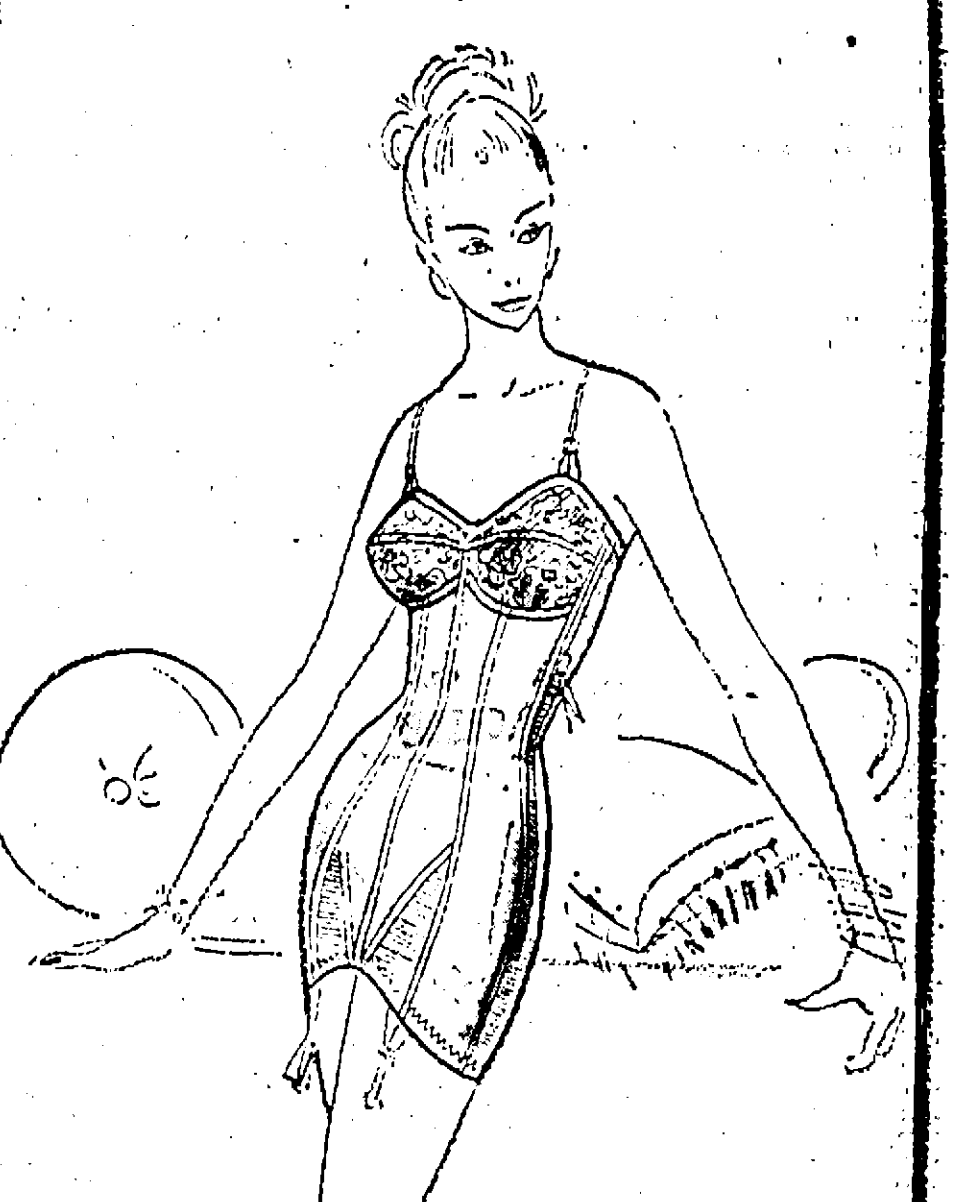

He said the crisis is "becoming increasingly critical and full-scale war could develop unless clear and unequivocal decisions are made and positions clearly stated by this nation and others affected."

The Tennessee senator, winding up a three-day campaign for Florida's 28 convention votes, struck hard at both the President and Secretary of State Dulles on the NATO issue.

KEFAUVER SAID he believes Stevenson, winding up four days of an intensive handshaking campaign, charged that the three years of the Eisenhower administration brought the nation three times to the brink of war, brought farmers to the brink of bankruptcy and wiped out many small businesses.

"We have sustained an unprecedented attack of huckstering, melodrama and misrepresentation that insults the intelligence," he said. "The big get bigger and the small get smaller or vanish altogether."

East-Bound Crews Rush Preparations

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—Crews worked around the clock Saturday to load four destroyers leaving hurriedly for the troubled Near East.

The four warships are scheduled to depart early today for the Mediterranean where they will join the U. S. Sixth Fleet.

A Navy spokesman said the ships would be "combat ready—don't get excited—they always are when they leave port."

The spokesman said the destroyers received their orders to sail Thursday night. The short notice curtailed liberty for crew members, some of whom received only a brief time ashore to telephone families.

Twenty-two volunteers were sought from other ships in the harbor to fill out the complement of the four ships.

The Navy declined comment on whether the hurried departure was the result of the tense situation in the Near East.

Army Officer Killed By Gun Accidentally

FT. SILL, Okla. (AP)—The Ft. Sill public information office said Saturday night that Lt. Edward W. Hurley, 24, Richmond, Va., was shot to death accidentally Saturday while on a target practice mission with two other officers.

Officials said the shooting occurred about 10 miles south of Lawton. They said Hurley was accompanied by Lt. William Michel and Lt. James H. Riley. Their hometowns were not made available immediately.

The two officers related to their superiors that Hurley was in the back seat of the car and asked to stop while he shot at some birds. They said they heard a shot fired and that Hurley shouted, "I'm shot."

Brent Prize Awarded to Publisher Paz

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Alberto Galiza Paz, publisher of La Prensa of Buenos Aires, said Saturday that freedom of the press is the essence of life in the American continent.

In receiving the Theodore Brent Award for Inter-American services, he paid tribute to the loyalty and idealism of the newspapermen of La Prensa.

The award was presented at a Pan American Day breakfast in the offices of Vice President Richard Nixon. The occasion was attended by prominent Pan American personalities and several senators.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the President, in congratulating Dr. Paz, said, "I was in Argentina when there was no freedom, and it is a great pleasure to meet you who carried the torch all this time, and are now restoring freedom."

Nat Cole Sings But He's Nervous

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Nat (King) Cole, looking dapper and calm, sang to approving and applauding audiences Saturday night in Norfolk's city auditorium in his second public appearance since he was attacked in Birmingham, Ala.

Auditorium officials said, however, the 37-year-old Negro singer still is "nervous" since his assault on the stage in Birmingham by white men.

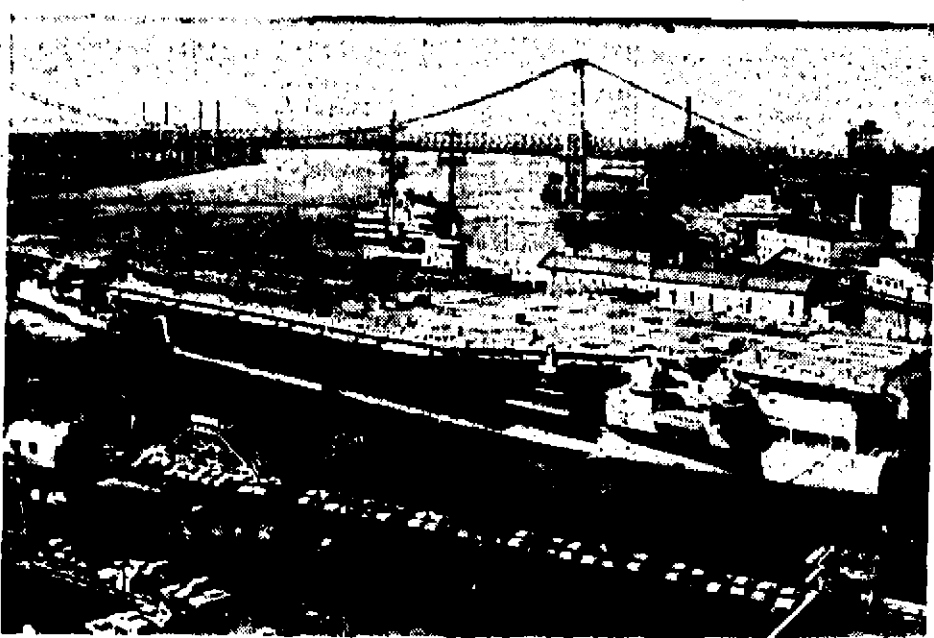

Photographers were shoed away from the front of the stage, and interviews by reporters were banned—at least temporarily. No untoward incidents were noted.

'Free Piston' Car Engine Under Development by GM

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors announced Saturday it has developed a new, experimental "free piston" engine for automobiles which might prove to have all the advantages and few of the problems of the gas turbine, which has been called the auto engine of tomorrow.

President Harlow H. Curtice said the engine is a new concept in automotive power. He said it has been mounted in an experimental car and will be exhibited in mid-May when the new General Motors technical center is dedicated.

"ALTHOUGH the principle of the free piston engine has been known for more than 30 years, General Motors research staff is first to put it to work in automobiles," Curtice said. "Like the gas turbine, it burns almost any type of fuel instead of the high octane fuels needed for today's piston engines. It has even been run with whale oil, peanut oil, and other vegetable oils," General Motors said.

Teeners Beat Boy, 15, With Steel Pipes

WILMINGTON — Teen-age hoodlums, swinging steel pipes filled with lead, severely injured a youth whom they beset near his home Saturday afternoon, according to police.

Charles W. Williams, 15, of 534 Pacific St., told officers he was walking along Avalon Blvd. at 24th St. when two lads his age jumped from a car, struck him with the bars and brutally kicked him after he fell to the ground. Then they fled in their car.

Young Williams was treated at Wilmington Emergency Hospital for a badly fractured nose and severe bruises over most of his body.

He could offer no reasons for the attack.

First Glider Pickup Made in Calif. Test

ESCONDIDO (AP)—The first known airborne glider pickup in history was made here Saturday to prove that a glider can be picked up by a plane's tow rope after having broken away.

The test pickup was made by Don C. Stevens, glider trick champion and holder of the world's glider loop record of 118 consecutive loops, and Charles Weber, Pomona, electronics engineer.

Weber, flying a Super-Cub light plane, towed Stevens' glider to 3,500 feet, where the glider was cut free from the plane's tow rope. The plane circled and then jockeyed into position above the glider's nose.

Stevens reached up, and with his hand grabbed hold of the ring at the end of the tow rope. He held onto the rope for more than a mile.

Stevens and Weber are trying to perfect a special tow hook for the glider, to enable gliders to explore 1,000 miles of territory out of present glider range.

Thieves Take Small Arsenal at Sports Store

MIDWAY CITY — Burglars broke into a sporting goods store here Saturday night and stole a large quantity of guns, according to Orange County deputy sheriffs.

Deputies said the burglars broke in the rear door of Jake's Sporting Goods Store at 8091 Bolsa Ave. and took an unknown number of rifles, shotguns and pistols.

Witnesses told the officers they saw four men pulling away from the store in a dark-colored sedan at about the same time the burglary was reported at 9:11 p.m.

Allen Dulles Sees Russia Less Warlike

ASIOMAR (AP)—Kremlin leaders are not going to risk war with the United States, Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, said here Saturday night.

While the threat is formidable there is nothing to get panicky about, Dulles told the 10th annual conference of the Northern California world affairs Council here.

He predicted that the Soviets would attempt to expand their area of influence on a worldwide basis as in the past. They won't do it by means of violence but by the Popular front technique, he added.

For example, he said, they hope to lure the socialists as they already have done in Italy. "The Kremlin leaders, by an outwardly soft and weaning policy, hope to promote disarmament," Dulles added.

He said they viewed the United States as their chief antagonist. To avoid risk of a general war, they will preach caution to the Chinese Communists, Dulles said.

Dulles said the Soviets had about four million regulars in their armed forces and 400,000 security troops in the Soviet Union alone. He said they have 400 submarines — "a good fleet including many modern snorkel types."

He said agriculture is a main Soviet weakness.

Graduate Student at State College Wins Scholarship

De Boyd Leon Smith, 3759 Albury Ave., was granted a $1,000 scholarship Saturday by the National Wildlife Federation in Washington, D. C.

Smith, a graduate student at Long Beach State College, will use the scholarship for a study of the human use of the San Jacinto Mountain wilderness park area.

The federation granted five other scholarships totaling $3,700 to students in other sections of the nation.

Gets Doctors' Report, Kills Wife, Self

SANTA CLARA (AP) — A $1,250-a-month construction superintendent, faced with the double tragedy of his wife's mental illness and a doctor's report that he may have stomach cancer, killed her early Saturday, set fire to his house and killed himself, police said.

William A. Eckel, 45-year-old former general superintendent of the Castle Construction Co., shot and killed his wife, Helen Ann, 38. He lost his high paying job Thursday, the day after doctors told him he may have stomach cancer.

A patrolman discovered the fire in the Eckel home, located in Castlebrook Terrace subdivision which his company was building.

FIREMEN who responded found both bodies in the master bedroom. Mrs. Eckel had been shot behind the right ear and in the right eye. An autopsy showed that Eckel pressed a .38 caliber revolver against his forehead and fired.

Inspector Stan Carey said gasoline or some other inflammable liquid had been scattered about the house and ignited. The $18,000 house was badly damaged.

Mrs. Eckel had been under treatment on two occasions since 1951 at Agnew State Hospital. Administrative Assistant Don Lee said she had suffered from schizophrenia and feared being hurt or injured. She was ruled recovered by psychiatrists last month.

Paul Geyer, president of Castlebrook Construction Co., said Eckel had been on a blind diet for treatment of ulcers for the past four or five months. Last Wednesday doctors told him he may have stomach cancer, Geyer said.

A receipt found in the house showed that Eckel bought the gun Thursday.

Violent Battle Rages in Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Bitter hand-to-hand fighting between French forces and "Army of Allah" rebels raged Saturday in the mountains of Western Algeria.

French army headquarters reported the rebels have suffered "high losses" and that the battle is continuing.

At least 70 guerrillas were killed in sporadic clashes Friday. A number of new French conscripts got their first taste of battle in Saturday's action. They were led into combat by veteran Foreign Legionnaires.

The rebel force took refuge in a maze of interwoven natural and hand-made grottos in the hill slopes of the Tarras plateau near the Moroccan border after stealing explosives in a raid on the French army's powder factory at Beni Saf. The village of Beni Saf on the northern coast some 30 miles north of Tlemcen, is the main French garrison post in western Oran province.

En route to their mountain hideouts after the raid, the jubilant rebels were hit on both flanks by a strong force of Legionnaires, Marines, and Republican security companies. Colonial infantry troops helped complete the encirclement.

Still carrying the stolen explosives, the rebels sought safety in a nearby village. They were driven out by tear-gas attacks and fled to the boulder-strewn, tunnel-ridden hillsides.

Ex-Felon Seized With All But $22 of $5,800 Loot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police Saturday arrested a short, stocky ex-convict and reported the recovery of all but $22 of $5,800 taken in a bar holdup Friday.

Paul Proger, 33, was booked on suspicion of robbery. Police said he was traced after a bartender Harold Zukoff identified a police identification picture.

Officers said they found a shotgun, used in the holdup, a revolver and six sticks of dynamite in Proger's room. Most of the money was there, too, and police said Proger explained what happened to the remainder.

"I had to pay $22 in parking fines on tickets I picked up while casing the bar."

Young Mother Facing Charge of Shoplifting

BELLFLOWER — An attractive 25-year-old mother of three small children Saturday was ordered to appear April 18 in Long Beach Superior Court to answer charges of shoplifting in Bellflower and Lakewood stores.

Mrs. La Verne Harless, 3031 Shady Park Dr., Long Beach, was released on a writ of habeas corpus after her arrest Friday at her home.

Arresting deputies from the Norwalk sheriff's station said employees of Sally's Dress Shop, 2642 Bellflower Blvd., reported Mrs. Harless put a dress in her handbag and left the store without paying for it.

Boy, 9, Hurt in Saving Sister

PRINCETON, Mo. (AP) — Nine-year-old Bobby Fred Bears saved the life of his two-year-old sister Saturday and as a result lies in a Princeton hospital.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hurston Bears of nearby Mt. Moriah, Mo., has a shattered left leg and other injuries.

Bobby dashed onto a country road near the family home and pushed tiny Kathy Lea Bears out of the path of an oncoming truck. Bobby was hit and tossed into the air by the vehicle. Kathy Lea escaped injury.

Unlucky in Traffic but Lucky at Dice

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Sheriff's officers feel a young man arrested on a driving charge may have been enjoying exceptional luck in throwing dice.

A check of his personal effects as he was booked showed four dice in a plastic container which kept one pair separate from the other. One pair looked normal but in the other officers found one with four "fives" and one with four twos.

Yorty Lashes Out at Ziffren for 'Rule or Ruin' Tactics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Rep. Sam Yorty Saturday accused Democratic National Committeeman Paul Ziffren of "rule or ruin" tactics in a bid for control of the Democratic Party of California.

Yorty, a candidate for the Senate against State Sen. Richard Richards, the choice of the party's state committee, said Ziffren was trying to "establish Eastern type bossism."

Yorty, in a statement, declared that Ziffren "maintains close contact with the notorious Cook County, Ill. machine of which he is a protégé." He also accused Ziffren of undermining the "dime-a-day" campaign subscription plan of the party.

Calling attention to Sen. Kefauver's claims that attempts were made to freeze the Tennessee out of the presidential primary June 5, Yorty said this was Ziffren's strategy and it backfired.

To circumvent Ziffren and bolster his California campaign, Adlai Stevenson recently approved formation of a new state campaign committee called "Californians for Stevenson," said Yorty. "It is headed by Henry F. Grady and William H. Joyce, leaders who are definitely not dominated by Ziffren or tainted with 'bossism.'"

Stevenson's campaign manager, James A. Finnegan, in Los Angeles at present, denied Yorty's charge. Finnegan said Grady and Joyce's organization is designed to get the independent vote, and supplements rather than supplants the regular party machinery.

"There are independent organizations for Stevenson in 27 states," Finnegan said. "The governor is very proud to have Paul Ziffren active in his behalf."

Ziffren replied that Yorty's allegations were "absurd."

"In Sen. Richards I believe we have another great Democrat from the same mold as Stevenson and Douglas."

Austerity Ordered by Brazil President

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — President Juscelino Kubitschek Saturday ordered austerity in all government departments in an effort to head off an expected budget deficit this year of $429,000,000.

He also ordered credit restrictions in the hope of checking spiraling inflation.

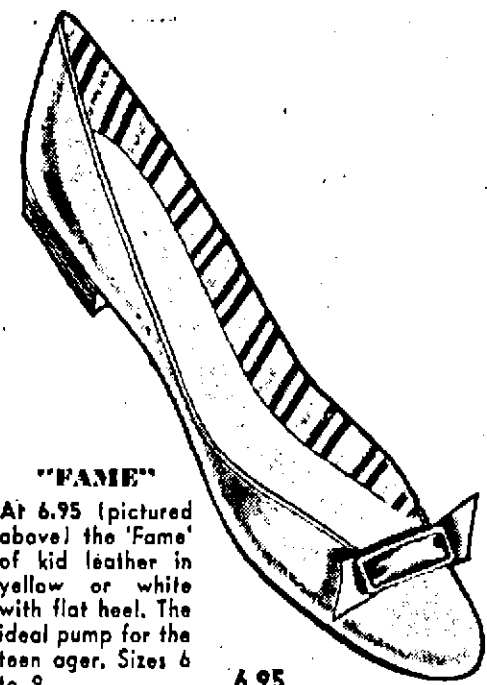

British Governor to Cyprus Fete in Armored Car

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Gov. Sir John Harding, riding in a bullet-proof limousine, made one of his rare public appearances Saturday night.

He drove with Lady Harding to a reception marking the turnover of the administration of Moslem churches and schools valued at 28 million dollars to Turkish Cypriots. Two armored cars guarded the Hardings on their ride.

Harding gets along well with the Turkish minority here in contrast to his troubles with Greek Cypriots seeking union with Greece.

U.S. Refutes German Anti-Vaccine Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. David E. Price, acting chief of the U.S. Public Health Service, said Saturday there is "overwhelming evidence" that Salk polio vaccine is "safe and effective."

Price was commenting on a report by German medical advisers that American and German children in Germany who have been inoculated with the vaccine, or a German serum, are polio carriers.

U.S. Army medical leaders in Germany have challenged the report, but West German Communists are using the statements to support their "(American) Go Home" campaign.

PRICE SAID many millions of children have received the vaccine and he added there great public and professional confidence in it.

"When it is properly prepared it is a killed vaccine and so can not cause polio either among the vaccinated or those in contact with them," he said.

Dr. Price said he is not familiar with details of the situation in Germany and could comment only on experience in the United States. But he added "several other countries are having a similarly successful experience."

More Humane Slaughtering of Animals Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Saturday he will hold hearings during "be kind to animals week" on a bill to compel slaughterhouses to use humane methods.

Humphrey said his Senate Agriculture subcommittee would take testimony May 9-10 on legislation requiring slaughterhouses to render animals and poultry unconscious and insensible to pain before killing them. They do it in Europe, he said.

Library Group Looks Ahead

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia knows one organization that believes in looking ahead.

The Chamber's convention and visitors bureau reported Saturday the American Library Assn. has made plans to hold its 1978 convention, commemorating its 80th anniversary, in Philadelphia.

The meeting will be held as part of the ceremonies celebrating the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence here.

THERE WAS AN outbreak of polio in Massachusetts last summer after a small number of children received one shot of vaccine in early spring, he said. But he said a group of scientists studied the situation and concluded the epidemic was not related to the vaccine.

He said on the contrary they found there had been a "marked protection" against paralytic polio among those vaccinated.

In Germany seven West German government medical advisers reported in a Munich medical journal that mass inoculation in the United States in 1955 resulted in what possibly was the greatest "catastrophe" in the history of protective inoculations.

They said there was no proof that the more rigid tests now required of vaccine production in the United States are sufficient to guarantee complete inactivation of live virus.

THE GERMAN medical report led to a ban on mass inoculation of German school children. Between 40,000 and 50,000 school children were inoculated with the German version of the Salk Vaccine before the ban.

The U.S. Army said 17,336 children and pregnant wives of U.S. military personnel have received at least one shot of Salk vaccine in Germany.

Boy, 10, Found Living in 6x3-Foot Closet

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Authorities disclosed Saturday that a 10-year-old mentally retarded boy was found confined in a six by three foot closet in his family's small shack.

Coy said he has been unable to find suitable housing because of the boy's condition. The family lives in a small shack without toilet facilities.

Coy said either he or his wife, who is the boy's stepmother, must be home at all times to care for him. The wife is expecting another child.

The crippled children's service of the University of Illinois here said it would examine the boy to determine what could be done for him.

Dixie School Bill Skirts Integration

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—In the wake of mob violence, Alabama started a bold new program Saturday aimed at preserving school segregation by voluntary instead of mandatory compliance.

Gov. James E. Folsom, who has refused to approve other anti-race mixing bills, signed into law a legislative act to give parents a "Freedom of Choice" in sending their children to segregated or integrated schools.

IT WOULD recognize mixed white and Negro classes, now specifically prohibited in the state constitution, but no child would be compelled to attend school with students of the other race.

Thus it could lead to a three-way school system—segregated for white and Negro, and integrated for both.

But it applies only to grade school and high school students and does not affect institutions of higher learning such as the University of Alabama, where rioting recently greeted the enrollment of the first Negro student, Autherine Lucy.

Miss Lucy was barred from the campus because of the mob action Feb. 6 and later expelled from the university over unproved charges against school authorities which grew out of the rioting. She has said she will seek readmission next fall.

THE "TAKE Your Choice" measure was enacted by the Legislature during a recent special session as an enabling act to implement a proposed constitutional amendment which will be voted on in a special state-wide election Aug. 28.

Its purpose was to put the constitutional amendment into operation immediately upon ratification, since the amendment itself authorizes the Legislature to act and isn't self-executing. Like the act signed Saturday, it authorized "Freedom of Choice" schools.

But the sponsor, Rep. N. S. Hare of Monroe County, said the new law will work without the constitutional amendment. He contends that the constitutional ban on mixed schools which would be repealed by the amendment is dead anyway because of the U.S. Supreme Court's integration decrees.

"THIS IS purely a voluntary plan," he explained. "It offers an opportunity for freedom of choice of the type of school the parents want their children to attend, based on their individual conviction and preference."

"It furnishes a workable way to maintain segregation. It is non anti-Negro and it is not discriminatory."

Of course, Hare continued, "We must hasten to equalize and improve all school facilities so there can be no charge of discrimination of any kind."

THE LEGISLATOR emphasized that the law was designed to comply with the Supreme Court decisions but on the theory that "forced integration violates the U.S. Constitution the same as forced segregation."

"The court didn't say there must be forced integration," he observed, "it simply said there can be no compulsory segregation. Who can complain if he is given what he has freely chosen?"

Folsom, in signing the Hare bill Saturday, said "It's a down to earth proposition we can all work with. This is not a force bill. We down South object to force."

Funds Asked for 80 More B52 Bombers

WASHINGTON UP—Money to begin work on 80 additional B52 long range bombers is included in additional funds President Eisenhower has asked for the Air Force next year.

Secretary of the Air Force Quarles advised the Senate Armed Services Committee Friday that a further speed-up to provide the new planes will be ordered immediately if Congress votes the money.

The time for their completion was deleted from his letter before it was made public, but Quarles said production schedules already have been "stepped up substantially."

Eisenhower asked Congress Monday for an additional $547,100,000 of military funds for next year, including 376½ millions for the Air Force. Of that, Quarles said, 230 millions would go to start work on 80 more B52s, and 18½ millions for four or five more dispersal bases for the big bombers. Other types of construction outlays also are planned.

CAPITAL CAPERS

WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM

WASHINGTON — The lady from Minnesota, Congresswoman Coya Knutson, put in a plug the other day for Thomas Jefferson, founder of the Democratic Party. Among Jefferson's other accomplishments, Mrs. Knutson noted that he was the only President who walked to his own inauguration, was the first Chief Executive to advocate abolition of slavery, and was the only President ever elected by the House of Representatives—to break an electoral college tie with Aaron Burr.

But most important of all, says Mrs. Knutson, Jefferson invented the swivel chair "without which no successful businessman can run his office these days."

SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER, stopping in Washington long enough to make an appearance to promote his presidential candidacy, also found himself promoting a heavyweight boxing match in the capital. The Tennesseean arrived at his local campaign headquarters to find a Mr. Goldie Ahearn, restaurateur and light promoter, waiting to greet him. Mr. Ahearn had in tow Johnny Williams, ex-champion of the British Empire and one of the principals in an Ahearn-sponsored contest. Johnny got his picture taken wearing a Kefauver button, Estes got his picture taken putting a crepe paper crown on Johnny, and Goldie got more free publicity than any promoter ever dares hope for.

EVER WONDER how to win friends and influence congressmen? The AFL-CIO National Building Trades Council gives the following tips on how to handle a congressman:

1. Be considerate and respectful; members of Congress are entitled to dignified treatment.
 2. Summarize your facts in a business-like way—not in an argumentative or opinionated manner.
 3. Speak in terms of your local situation; tell him how the legislation will help or hurt his congressional districts.
 4. Be positive. Tell him specifically what you want him to do.
 5. Be natural and thank him for his votes or actions.
 6. Be considerate of his time; don't wear out your welcome.
- A lot of congressmen would be eternally grateful if people actually followed the above tips.

Germany Will Build 1st Atomic Reactor

U.N. Accuses Reds of Raid on ROK Outpost

MUNSAN, Korea (Sunday) — The United Nations accused the Communists Saturday of attempting to "raid and capture" a Republic of Korea outpost last Tuesday in "retaliation" for desertion of Red soldiers to the U.N. side.

The charge came in the 152nd meeting at Panmunjom of the Joint Military Armistice Commission secretariat.

U.N. representative, U.S. Navy Captain David L. Roscoe, Jr., said the Communist raid, in which some 70 shots were exchanged, was an "illegal and provocative action" that openly violated armistice terms.

He told his Communist counterpart, North Korean Army Colonel Li Yong, that the attempt to "raid and capture" the ROK outpost was staged "in order to cover your side's nefarious activities" in the demilitarized zone. He charged the raid was "planned and carried out in retaliation or retribution" for charges that U.N. personnel fired series of Communist "defections" shots into the Communist portion of the truce zone on two occasions in February and once on March 30.

Woman Ex-Slave Succumbs at 110

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — A snuff-chewing, pipe-smoking Negro woman who said she was born into slavery 110 years ago, will be buried here Tuesday.

Mrs. Cornelia Burke, who lived in obscurity in a rundown shack here, died Thursday, it was disclosed Saturday.

Mrs. Burke said she was born a slave on a plantation near Quitman, Ga., on Feb. 2, 1848, the property of Lisha Denmark. She attributed her long life to strict living "by the Bible" and admonished everyone to "tell the truth about anything. Anything, period."

Despite her age she was spry and active until shortly before her death. She had 13 children and outlived all but two of them.

He termed the March 30 charge a Communist "subterfuge" to cover the defection of a North Korean soldier who on the same day surrendered to U.N. troops in the area where the shooting was supposed to have taken place. Colonel Li, in turn, charged that the U.N. "manufactured" the Tuesday incident and is "mobilizing" the ROK press to spread the story.

Immune From Trial

WALL TOWNSHIP, N. J. (AP) — Magistrate Clarence Ehrlich Saturday dismissed a reckless driving charge against Hammad Ali, 17-year-old son of Pakistani Ambassador Mohammed Ali. He said the youth had diplomatic immunity. Ehrlich said he received letters from both the U.S. Department of State and the N.J. Attorney General's Office telling him to drop the charges.

Chiang Jets Down Red MIG in Dogfight

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Four Nationalist F-84 Thunderjets jumped four Red Chinese MIGs north of the offshore island of Matsu Saturday and downed one of the Communist planes, the Defense Ministry announced.

A communique said the dogfight lasted three minutes and all the American-built Nationalist planes returned safely.

Ike Youth Group Joins Citizens Unit
NEW YORK (AP)—The Youth came the youth division of the National Citizens for Eisenhower movement Saturday.

John Reed Kilpatrick, chairman of the parent group, said the young people's organization would continue to be headed by John L. Casey Jr. Casey, a New York City attorney, and 11 young business people organized the group in 1951 to campaign for Eisenhower.

ESSAYIST GETS HER MAN, PLUS GIFTS, CASH

ADEL, Iowa (AP)—Janice Harsh, 18, who wrote a prize-winning letter on "How I Got My Man," married him Saturday in a civic-sponsored public wedding that drew 300 guests.

Janice was married to Larry Slonn, 22, in a ceremony in which local merchants picked up most of the tab—including the reception, the ring and even the marriage license.

The couple, who plan to honeymoon in the South, received $425 in gifts from merchants, including $95 in cash.

Miss Harsh won the contest, which drew entries from 14 states, several weeks ago. But officials kept secret the contents of her prize letter.

Reds Proudly Claim 18 Watches Produced

HONG KONG (AP)—Communist China has "mass-produced" 18 watches. The newspaper Wen Wei Pao in Shanghai said the watches were made by 58 technicians under government leadership. Experts are hopeful of making China-made watches comparable to Swiss watches, the paper said.

Knight OKs Bill Boosting Vets' Loans

SACRAMENTO (UP) — Gov. Knight Saturday signed a bill by Sen. Nelson Dilworth (R-Ilemt) authorizing the issuance of 500 million dollars worth of bonds to continue underwriting the California veterans farm and home loan purchase program.

The bond issue must still be approved by the voters at the November election.

Another bill signed by the governor permits the State Department of Veterans Affairs to repay veterans for flood losses to property purchased under the program. Assemblyman Roy J. Nielsen (R-Sacramento) is the author.

THE GOVERNOR has yet to act on a bill which would increase the maximum state farm and home loans allowable to California veterans.

The two bills affecting veterans were among a batch of 15 signed by the governor today. Others signed would:

PHARMACY—Reinstates a fee of $15 for the issuance of a certificate for a licensed pharmacist and provides that during the next fiscal year a renewal fee will not exceed $23.

TEACHERS—Places a limit on the amount of money which can be collected within a school district for the state teachers retirement system and limits the amount of contributions required of the districts to the state system.

CITIES—Amends the Municipal Water District Act of 1911 to authorize court action to determine the validity of contracts for carrying out the powers of the district.

AUTOS—Provides that motor vehicle fees received by authorized motor clubs before the state deadline not subject to penalty.

PARKS—Appropriates $663,200 to restore and repair state parks damaged by winter floods.

GOP Group Rejects Ban on Union Shop

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The Republican State Central Committee's platform committee Saturday refused to recommend adoption of a "right to work" labor act plank for the California platform.

Assemblyman John L. E. Collier of Eagle Rock had suggested the plank which would have banned the union shop.

The platform committee voted to propose a national labor plank which supports the Taft-Hartley Act but advocates amendments "as future developments indicate are desirable."

Collier said he will press for approval of his proposal before the full state committee.

Recommendations which will go to the Republican National Convention at San Francisco in August include:

EDUCATION—Federal assistance which will not affect in any way the independence of local school systems.

SMOG — Active participation and support by the federal government in research programs to find effective methods of combating air pollution.

COMMUNIST BLOC—No recognition of the Red Chinese government and opposition to its entry into the United Nations.

Sarnoff Sees All-Color TV in U.S. Soon

CHICAGO (UP) — Television programs will soon be completely in color, the president of the National Broadcasting Co. predicted here Saturday.

Robert W. Sarnoff made the statement as he dedicated station WNBC, the world's first all-color television station.

The time element, Sarnoff said, "depends on the people themselves. It's their demand that prompts us to the supply."

Sarnoff remarked that "it was little over two years ago that standards for compatible color television were approved. The future, I am firmly convinced, lies in the complete programming of television in color."

Authentic Mission Music Will Be Program Feature

Authentic music of the mission period in California and a talk on the missions will be featured at a program at La Casa de Rancho Los Cerritos, 4600 Virginia Road, at 2 p. m. today.

Thomas Workman Temple II, a grand-nephew of Don Juan Temple who built the adobe now owned by the city will deliver the talk. He will review the role of the missions as exemplified by Mission San Gabriel Archangel for which he is historian. He will be introduced by Edwin Castagna, city librarian.

Early mission songs will be sung by Alphonso Fages, accompanied by his daughter, Venancia. The public is invited. Admission is free.

Officers Believe Passkey Used by Narbonne School Arsonists

LOMITA — Sheriff's investigators late Saturday sought an arsonist who earlier in the day set blazes at Narbonne High School that caused $41,000 damage.

Investigators said a passkey apparently was used to enter the school buildings, 25425 Walnut St., since there was no evidence of forcible entry.

ARSON AND juvenile officers were checking out reports that perhaps as many as 50 students were in possession of duplicates of a passkey presumed stolen several months ago.

The fire was discovered shortly after 8 a. m. by a passerby who saw smoke coming from the arts building. He drove to the fire station a half mile away to report the incident.

Firemen, directed by Asst. County Fire Chief Harvey

Crutchfield, extinguished a fire that gutted a ceramics work room as well as a blaze in an adjoining room. During an inspection shortly thereafter, firemen discovered flames pouring from a book storeroom and a student supply store in the north end of the adjacent administration building.

THE LATTER fire was the worst and accounted for most of the $26,000 structural damage and $15,000 damage to contents. Most of the latter category was books and school supplies.

Investigators said the incendiary evidently used matches to set fire to stacks of paper and at least in one case, a rag possibly impregnated with inflammable fluid.

The three-story main building suffered extensive smoke and

Ford to Give $10 Million to Medical Fund

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Ford Foundation Saturday announced a $10 million program of grants to the National Fund for Medical Education.

The fund was incorporated in 1949 to campaign for money, principally among corporations, to support medical education.

The Ford grants, announced by Foundation President H. Rowan Galtier Jr., will match annual receipts of the fund under a sliding formula. The maximum grant in any one year would be $2 million.

The fund raised about $2,147,000 last year for distribution to the nation's medical schools. If the same amount were raised this year, the foundation under the sliding formula would match 70 per cent of that total, or $1,503,486.

The program of grants is expected to last from 5 to 10 years.

PARLEY HOSTESSES

Pretty Myrna Bucher (left) and Darlene Owen will be hostesses next weekend for the Eighth Annual Convention of the California Wing Air Force Assn.

AF Assn. Convention to Start Here Friday

Eighth annual convention of the California Wing of the Air Force Assn. will open here Friday afternoon at headquarters in the Lafayette Hotel.

Speakers will include Col. Harry W. Shoup of the Continental Air Defense Command; Henry W. Boggs, president of the National Business Aircraft Assn.; Maj. Gen. G. A. Schreiber and Brig. Gen. Joseph S. Marriot, retired.

Business sessions for the AFA and auxiliary will be conducted Friday night, and a public question-and-answer clinic on the Air Force Reserve program will be presented from 8:30 to 11 a.m. Saturday in the United Artists Theater.

Speaker at the reserve-program clinic will be Gen. Robert P. Lundy. Jim Straubel, national director of the Air Force Assn., will be moderator for the question-and-answer session.

From 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday, AFA members will participate in a symposium on the theme, "Living in the Jet Age." The symposium on the theme, "Living in the Jet Age." The symposium will be held in the Cavanaugh Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Graham Air Bombing Trial Due Monday

DENVER (UP)—John Gilbert Graham will stand trial starting Monday for the murder of 40 persons, including his own mother.

The 24-year-old defendant in one of the biggest and most important trials in Colorado's history is accused of sabotaging a United Air Lines Mainliner, a DC-6B, last Nov. 1, to kill his mother for her trip insurance.

Forty-three other persons were aboard the plane but the boyish-looking Graham, with a fresh haircut, is charged only with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 55.

HE ALLEGEDLY admitted the mass-murder in a confession to the FBI, giving in detail how a home-made time bomb was placed in his mother's luggage shortly before she boarded the plane with the other unsuspecting passengers. The plane exploded in flight and crashed in a sugar beet field near Longmont, Colo.

Graham's court-appointed defense attorneys have indicated they would call but one witness—the defendant's half-sister, Helen.

District Judge Joseph M. McDonald will conduct the trial. District Attorney Bert Keating has said he would seek to send the defendant to the gas chamber at Colorado State Penitentiary in Canon City, and the defense attorneys—John J. Gibbons, former U.S. Attorney for Colorado, Charles S. Vigil, and L. Paul Wendick—countered that they had a "surprise defense" ready for the trial.

U.S. STOCKS FARM PONDS WITH FISH

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Fish and Wildlife Service said Saturday it is supplying more than 30 million fish a year to stock farm fish ponds.

"A one-acre fish pond—well managed, properly fertilized, adequately fished—will yield an annual harvest averaging 200 pounds of fish each year and provide 400 hours of good fishing," the service said.

Lebanon Bombing Kills 7 Persons

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Seven persons were killed Saturday when their house was dynamited by raiders in Yareen village about a mile from the Israeli border.

L.A. Police Add Traffic 'Copter

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Los Angeles traffic enforcement takes to the air next Monday when the first place helicopter goes on traffic patrol duty.

Based at San Fernando Valley airport in Van Nuys, the helicopter will be manned by Sgt. Vernon Armstrong and officers Don Miles and Robert Vanaken, all former Air Force officers.

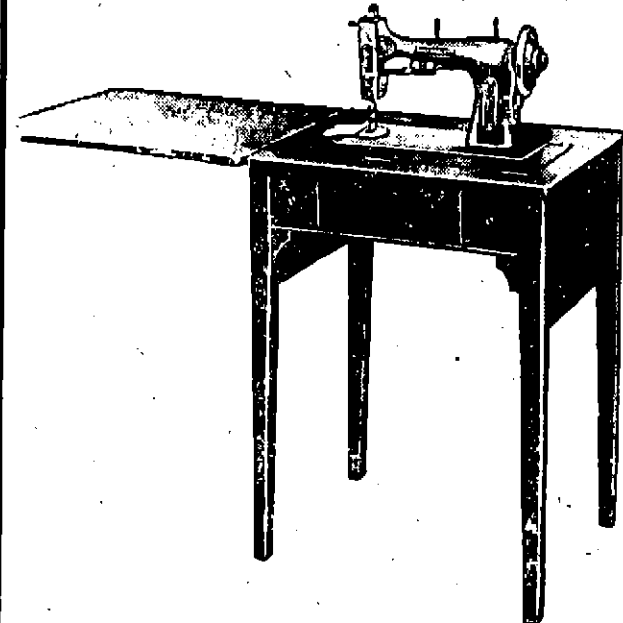

The whirlybird will be used to observe traffic during peak hours and at points of congestion. It will also be used for rescue work.

Russ Visit to Britain Eyes Bonn

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

When Soviet Communist boss Nikita S. Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin visit London this week they will be carrying out an important part of a Soviet drive whose ultimate aim is to dent the western world's positions of strength.

The primary target of the visit to Britain is not Britain herself. The trip seems to be made with these things in the Soviet mind:

1. The German question.
2. The effect of the visit on Social Democrats—the non-Communist Socialists—on the European continent.
3. The continuing attrition on the West's position of strength.
4. The extension to Britain of attractive business lures which may tend to reduce British animosity toward Soviet policy and make the British more amenable to Soviet peace overtures.

The visit raises a real possibility that the Soviet Union is ready to propose a settlement of the German unification problem along lines different from its stubborn stand at the meeting of the four-power foreign ministers in Geneva last October.

AT THIS MOMENT, such a move would seem logical, and the Russians are being more logical than ever with each passing year after the departure of Stalin.

It is known in Europe that the Soviet Union is thinking along these lines with regard to Germany.

The Russians will never agree to the surrender of the former German territories now part of Communist Poland. But there may be gains for Soviet policy, for example, in returning the city of Stettin to a reunified Germany and then offering to settle the question of territory along the Oder-Neisse line, after due negotiations between East and West Germany and arrangements for all-German elections are laid down.

This would put the present West German government at Bonn in an awkward position. Publicly it would have to say "no" to surrendering the German claim to the land held by Poland. Privately it would be sure no other possibility existed for reunification. If the Bonn government said "yes" to such a proposal it would be the immediate target of Socialist attacks. It should reply in the negative. It would be in the position of balking at reunification. One way or the other the Socialists—the chief government opposition—stand to win.

GERMAN UNITY could not be achieved without assurances from West Germany that the "social advances" of the Communist East German regime would remain, particularly the state ownership and operation of the economy. If the Socialists eventually won the power in West Germany there would be bound to be agitation for nationalization of the economy in the West. From the Soviet standpoint it would be a wholly feasible program for achieving an all-German neutrality between East and West blocs. Thus the Russians may be prepared to go a long way toward new concessions on the German question.

Some sort of grandstand play for the sympathies of the European continent, such as a new approach to the German question, would go a long way toward undermining western positions of strength politically.

THERE ARE OTHER reasons behind the Soviet leaders' visit. The reception the visit has been given, particularly in the British press, has been far from friendly.

If they score a personal victory after they arrive, it will be due—partly at least—to Georgi Malenkov, former top Soviet boss demoted to a deputy premier and minister of power stations. On his recent visit to England, Malenkov ingratiated himself with the public by kissing babies, attending cricket matches and smiling and smiling.

But Bulganin and Khrushchev do not necessarily care about a friendly reception. Their trip will be used as a demonstration to the European continent, particularly to the leftist elements of France, Germany, Italy and the Scandinavian countries, of Soviet reasonableness and Soviet peaceful intentions. This is intended to bolster the general movement sparked by the Communists for a popular front of all leftist parties "against war." This does not mean a popular front in the narrower sense of the word for local political purposes so much as it means the creation of a climate of public opinion which can get in the way of the Western powers in their attempts to keep communism within bounds.

INDEPENDENT. PRESS-TELEGRAM—A-21 Long Beach (Calif.), Sun., April 12, 1964

Churches in Cancer Crusade

Long Beach congregations will offer prayers for an early solution to the cancer problem, in observance of Cancer Control Sunday, which takes place today with the cooperation of churches here.

The annual event is a spiritual highlight of the American Cancer Society's Cancer Crusade.

"Cancer Control Sunday presents an opportunity for people to pause and reflect upon their personal lives and upon the work of those who are engaged in the fight against a disease that will strike one out of every four persons unless new methods of control are found," according to Miss Patricia Reid, education chairman of the American Cancer Society here.

THE TWO-FOLD purpose of the Cancer Crusade, as this year's slogan indicates—"Fight Cancer With a Checkup and a Check"—was emphasized today by Sam Leddel, campaign chairman for the 1956 fund raising and education drive, when he stated the American Cancer Society's desire to acquaint citizens with the seven danger signals of cancer as well as encouraging generous contributions to the Cancer Crusade.

Business solicitation will be Monday, Leddel said. Residential solicitation, sponsored by members of the Long Beach City Employees Assn., will be from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday. Literature and further information are available at the Long Beach branch of the American Cancer Society, 2045 Pacific Ave.

Salvation Army Seeks Used Goods

Discarded articles in Long Beach homes will be sought here during the annual Salvation Army Salvage Week drive May 7-12.

They may be brought to the organization's Service Center, 1370 Alamitos Ave., or will be picked up by Red Shield trucks.

The articles provide occupational therapy for homeless and handicapped men. Proceeds from sale of the reconditioned discards are used to feed, clothe and house hundreds of men who call upon the center for aid, according to Brig. William J. Parkins, manager of the center.

In 1955 the reconditioned cast-offs enabled the center to provide 270,110 hours of occupational therapy, 60,325 meals and 20,300 lodgings, according to Ken McCafferty, chairman of the citizens committee assisting the Salvation Army in the drive.

Boys Point to Soapbox Derby Here

All over the nation, boys in garages, driveways, back yards and vacant lots are hammering together soapbox racing cars.

Each has the secret hope of racing in the All-American Soapbox Derby Aug. 12 in Akron, Ohio.

The Long Beach Area Soapbox Derby in which more than 500 boys are expected to compete will be July 28 on the Redondo Ave. hill, north of Pacific Coast Hwy. The area contest is under the auspices of the Independent, Press-Telegram and 33 Chevrolet dealers of this area.

Boys 11 through 15 years old may compete. They may get rule books and instructions on how to build and race their soapbox cars at Chevrolet dealers.

Ross Phillips, Independent, Press-Telegram automobile editor, and Dave Davis, representing Chevrolet, are in charge of the area race.

Japan to Hatch Salmon Eggs

TOKYO (AP)—Japan will hatch 400 million salmon eggs artificially this year to stock the Okhotsk Sea and North Pacific, where Russia has sharply restricted fishing operations for both Russians and foreigners.

A government announcement said the stocking operations will disprove Russian charges Japanese fishermen are depleting fish supplies.

Speaker on Hypnotism

Barney Steindel, M. D., in the general practice of medicine here and also doing work in the field of hypnotic conditioning for treatment of disease, will address Long Beach Masonic Club at noon Thursday in the Wilton Hotel. He will discuss hypnotism.

Floyd O. Mason will be chairman of the day and the Rev. Dr. Russell M. Brouger will preside.

FOR A CHANGE

Get Hep, Girls! Boys Outspelling You Now

(Special to Independent Press-Telegram)
NEW YORK—Mind your "p's" and "q's", girls! The boys are running away with you in the annual alphabetic sweepstakes.

That's the way it looked Saturday in a lineup of the first 1956 regional finalists, picked to compete in Washington next month in the National Spelling Bee championship finals.

Out of the first four championship finalists reported to Bee headquarters in New York City, three are boys!

That promises a possible complete reversal of the boy-vs.-girl ratio that has prevailed in the National Spelling Bee finals during the past 23 years.

The event always produces a scene of dominant young femininity, with the girls outnumbering the boys by about two-to-one.

Among the spellers who have risen since 1933 to the ranks of the national champions, 19 have been girls and only 10 boys.

Giving the masculine contingent an initial lead among the 1956 championship contenders are the following:

BARRY PLOTT, 12-year-old student at Leland Stanford Junior High School in Long Beach, Calif. Winning contestant in The Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram's Bee, Barry's final words were "psittacosis" and "septuagenarian." Barry is the son of Cmdr. and Mrs. R. M. Plott, 2408 Ostrow Ave.

ROBERT DAVIS, 13-year-old eighth grade student at Stephen F. Austin Junior High School in Amarillo, Tex. In the Amarillo Globe-News regional finals, Robert's final winning word was "reuscelitate" and his clincher word "facilitate."

RONALD KRAMER, 13-year-old eighth grade student at Lower Salford Consolidated School in Harleyville, Pa. Ronald won the Norristown (Pa.) Times Herald Bee, his final words being "protoplasmic" and "preciseness."

Lone girl among the first of the 1956 finalists reported to Bee headquarters is:

NANCY CRAIG, 14-year-old eighth grade student at Liberty Academy, Bedford, Va. Nancy correctly spelled "gypsum," which the runner-up missed, and clinched her regional championship with the proper spelling of "architect."

These four youngsters and 58 other regional finalists now being pitted in eliminations contests all over the United States will take part in the 29th annual National Spelling Bee championship spell-down on Thursday, May 17.

The event will be held in the Department of Commerce Auditorium in Washington, D. C., with nearly $4,000 in cash prizes at stake. The nationwide contest is sponsored by the Scripps-Haward Newspapers in 18 cities and by 42 other U. S. daily and Sunday newspapers.

K. of C. Speaker
Oscar Gregory, general sales manager of Bench City Chevrolet Co., will speak at a meeting of Knights of Columbus Luncheon Club Tuesday noon in Humphry Dumpty restaurant, 608 E. 4th St.

Dentures FIRST, money LATER, at Dr. Campbell's for over 20 years

Difficult cases invited with NO MONEY DOWN

Putting service first and money later has been at Dr. Campbell's for over 20 years, but never more than right now. Even difficult cases are welcomed on Dr. Campbell's no money down credit plan. You get your new dentures, but may wait 45 days before paying anything. Dr. Campbell carries his own credit, with no outside financing, so he is not regulated by ordinary credit standards.

"I prefer that you get your dentures on credit," Dr. Campbell said. "We want to serve you first, and the money is secondary. Take as long as you need to pay on my easy-credit plan."

Why Dr. Campbell says pay NO MONEY DOWN

"I don't have to worry about paying my expenses as a dentist if I am interested first in giving service," Dr. Campbell said. "I have found through trial and error that every one of my offices must give a lot of credit to be prosperous. In the past, when one of my offices curtailed credit, this office became less prosperous. People are glad to pay for good service when you are thinking of them before the money. My records prove that insisting on immediate cash, even in small amounts, hurts my dental practice. No money down helps my dental practice."

LOW PRICES BRING BIG DENTURE SAVINGS

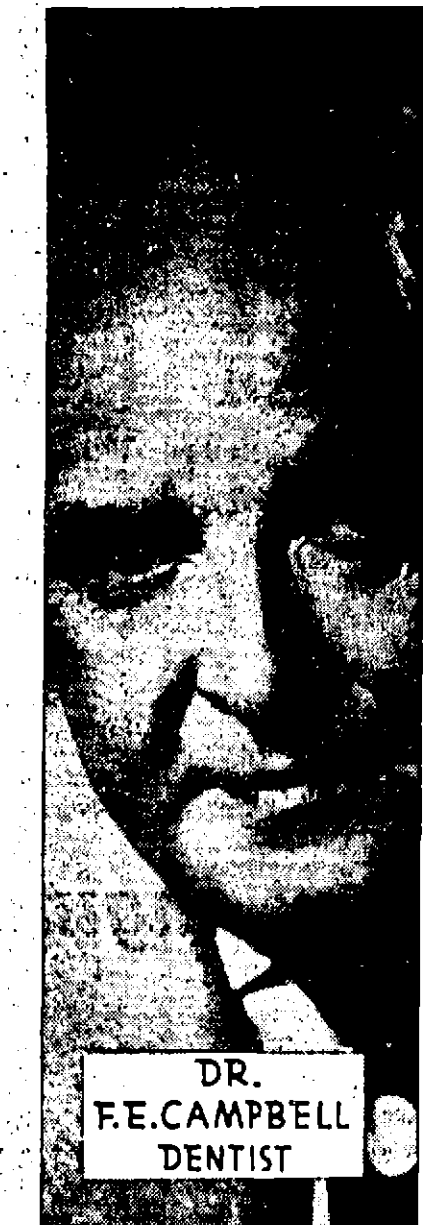

Dr. Campbell's twelve offices make a lot of dentures. The story of volume production is well known to everyone. We have many things we could not have if it were not for volume production. If it costs Dr. Campbell less to make dentures in volume, it stands to reason it costs you less.

"My low prices and no money down credit plan enable me to hold prices down despite rises in salaries and materials," Dr. Campbell said. "By not taking advantage of the trend to increase prices, I make more dentures and still make a profit at no increase in price. Living costs have gone up a lot, but my prices are the same as they were years ago."

SEE YOUR SAVINGS—no doubt about these prices

When you go in to buy something at a department store you see the article tagged with a price. That way you know it's not a bargaining proposition. You don't have to be a good bargainer to get a good price.

"I am doing this in dentistry," Dr. Campbell said. "I want you to know that the price of the

Translucent Dentures

Translucent DENTURE MATERIAL and translucent TECTIL are recognized by dentists as the FINEST available for making dentures. Even if these materials were expensive, they would be economical in the long run. But my price for my finest denture is so low that there is no need to accept less.

Immediate Restoration

New dentures may be put in the SAME DAY the last of your teeth are extracted. If your case permits it, and you desire it, impression is taken BEFORE teeth are extracted. Dentures are started immediately and finished the same day.

FAST DENTURE REPAIRS

Save on Partial Plates

Modern methods of casting metal parts enable me to make them for less money than formerly. Now my prices for partials are lower, with the best work I have turned out.

Frego Strengthener for Thinner Extra Strength

Imported Frego Strengthener now available to dentists, is a gold plated stainless steel mesh, which is molded into denture. It permits VERY THIN construction. Fragile looking dentures are strong with Frego Strengtheners.

Fashions and Food at Cooking School

Fashions in clothes will hold the limelight with fashions in foods in the Independent Press-Telegram "Fashions in Foods" cooking school this week in Municipal Auditorium.

The school, free and open to the public, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Persons attending will see 40 meat and bird recipes demonstrated, they will see smart spring and summer clothes for all occasions, they will hear good music, and a number of them will receive prizes. Big Hobby Show Opens Here April 28

The biggest non-commercial hobby show ever staged in the west. That's the Long Beach Hobby Show which will be held April 28 through May 1 at the Municipal Auditorium.

Admission to the show will be free, according to Mrs. Lois DeLano, show manager and Recreation Department supervisor.

"We have 48 hobby clubs and 82 individual hobbyists signed up for this year's show," Mrs. DeLano stated. "This is the greatest number of exhibits we ever have scheduled."

LAST YEAR close to 50,000 spectators viewed the hobby show.

The Long Beach Hobby Show is termed a "working show," in that the exhibitors, wherever possible, are seen actually working at their hobbies. Spectators are encouraged to chat with the exhibitors and swap hobby "secrets."

Sponsoring the show are the Recreation Department and Long Beach Hobby Clubs Council.

Algeria Leaders Go to Moscow Asking for Aid

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — An Iraqi political leader said Saturday two leaders of the Algerian national movement are en route to Moscow. He said they would ask the Soviet Union to help solve Algeria's problems.

The Iraqi, Faik Al Sammarai, has just returned from Africa. He warned the Arab world that "if the Arab states do not help the Algerians, the Nationalists in Algeria will turn to Russia in an effort to secure freedom."

Lamas Held, Nehru Asserts

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Red China is not letting the Dalai and Panchen Lamas — Tibet's two Buddhist leaders — outside the Communist world.

Nehru, answering Parliament questions Saturday, said India had invited the two Lamas, through the Red Chinese government, to attend ceremonies marking the 2,500th birthday of Buddha.

The Chinese replied the Dalai and Panchen Lamas could not make the trip "because of heavy work," said Nehru.

Its power packin' punch put it No.1 in V-8 sales

And now Ford's new 225-h.p. engine gives you even hotter performance!

Today's biggest trend in automobiles is to the V-8 engine. That's because today's car buyer demands performance. And latest sales figures show that the Ford V-8 with its power-packin' punch is the largest-selling eight in the world! Official figures for 1955 show that 346,373 more people bought Ford V-8's than bought the two other low-priced eights combined!

But now Ford is setting an even hotter V-8 pace by making available the biggest engine ever offered in the low-price field. It's the Thunderbird Special V-8—and you can order it now in Fairlane and Station Wagon models. This engine has a displacement of 312 cubic inches and delivers 225 horsepower. It whisks you from "whoa" to GO as you've never gone before!

And Ford gives you that wonderfully long, low look of the Thunderbird in all of its '56 models. You get new Lifeguard Design, also, to help protect you in case of accident. Test Drive this great new '56 Ford... today!

Once Over Lightly

Revelations in the recent Los Angeles ring hearings bring to mind one of the most controversial bouts in the history of boxing... and the little known, but true facts behind its outcome.

That bout, of course, was the one in which Jess Willard won the heavyweight championship from Jack Johnson in Havana, Cuba, in April of 1915.

Photographs of the knockout in the 26th round show Johnson shading his eyes from the bright sun with his glove as the referee counts over him.

Although it was the general belief that Johnson took a dive... nothing was ever done about it because the boxing trade was glad to get rid of "Lil' Arthur," who never was a popular champion.

Willard always vehemently denied that Johnson took a dive in their fight.

However, Sig Hart, Johnson's manager, frankly stated years later that Jack sold out.

"He sold out because he was promised immunity from Mann Act charges... but he wound up in Leavenworth just the same."

"Willard could no more lick Johnson than I could," Hart maintained. "Jack was the greatest heavyweight pound for pound, in boxing history. Easy to handle, he was a natural boxer and he could knock you dead with a right hand."

Johnson has been rated the greatest defensive boxer who ever held the heavyweight championship. He made an exact science of fighting and his instinct of self-preservation, which he possessed to a remarkable degree, made him a natural boxer.

Hart has always claimed that Johnson would have easily beaten the more recent crop of heavies.

According to Hart, there was only one man who could have given Jack a fight... Gene Tunney.

Discounting Willard, only one man ever knocked out Jack. That was Joe Choynski when the latter was in his prime and Johnson was fighting his second fight in Galveston in 1901.

HART DISCOVERED Johnson in Springfield, Ill., fighting in a battle royal at the opera house. He was just a skinny Negro boy trying to make enough to get something to eat. He knocked out the first two guys with one punch each and when the other three ganged up on him, he knocked them out one by one.

In his prime, Johnson probably was the most sophisticated of all the heavyweights in history.

It was rather fitting that he died in an automobile crash at high speed... for "Lil' Arthur" loved the fast life, fast cars and fast friends.

His favorite admonition was "friend, the fast life may be the short life, but it is a full life." It was a Jack-of-all-trades. He ran the gamut of jobs from laborer to financier and to feature attraction in a flea circus.

Johnson was a sponge fisherman, ship's cook, stable boy, hustler, stevedore, bullfighter, actor, promoter, jailbird, ex-patriate, preacher, opera singer, merchant, teacher, writer... and a gay Don Juan. He even was a musician... being able to play the bull fiddle.

His ring career netted him 2½ million dollars... and he spent every nickel of it.

His philosophy was to get everything he could out of life. "Try anything once," he would say, "and if you don't succeed, try something else."

Johnson, who stood 6-1 and weighed an even 200 at his best, was born in Galveston, Tex., on March 31, 1878.

He was scarcely more than a piskinny when he hopped aboard a freight train for New York to satisfy a burning ambition to see Steve Brodie, who had gained fame by jumping from the Brooklyn Bridge.

After sleeping all night in a boxcar, Johnson discovered he had been riding about in the railroad yards as the train was being made up. As one observer remarked many years later, "Jack might have taken that as an omen that he'd be on a merry-go-round all his life."

JOHNSON FOUGHT over a period of 25 years. He began in 1899 by fighting a draw with Jim McCormick, then was knocked out by Choynski. His final start was a victory over Homer Smith on Feb. 22, 1924, in Montreal.

In the intervening years, Johnson fought all over the world. He chased Tommy Burns for two years before Burns agreed to fight him in Sydney, Australia, for a lion's share of the purse. Johnson, fighting for practically nothing, gave Burns such a cruel beating that police stopped the bout in the 14th round.

Thus, Johnson became the "technical" heavyweight champion of the world on Dec. 26, 1908.

His famous victory over James J. Jeffries in Reno on July 4,

Johnson Sparks UCLA Win, 86-44

PALO ALTO (AP)—Rafael Johnson, UCLA's one-man track team, picked up three first places Saturday as the Bruins slaughtered Stanford, 86½ to 44½.

Johnson scored 35 points as he broad jumped 24 ft., 10½ in.; ran the high hurdles in 14.3, and the low hurdles in 23.6.

Three meet records were smashed as the Bruins scored their most lopsided victory in history over the Indians. Don Vick of UCLA heaved the shot 56-3½ for one mark. Stanford's Phil Fehlen high jumped 6-5½, and in the discus, Ron Drummond, UCLA, had a toss of 166-10½.

UCLA's Bob Seaman had a busy day, too. He won the mile on a damp track in 4:39; captured the half mile in 1:53.6; and ran the 440 yard third lap for the victorious mile relay team.

Of this and that... GAT'S WHISKER? No cake-walk for the New York Yankees, this upcoming American League flag race opening Tuesday. At least not in the opinion of one Martin (Sint) Marion, who wangles the scorecards from the dugout for the Chicago White Sox.

"There's no team in our league good enough to exert the pressure that can make the others fold," said Marty, no relation to the butcher who won an Academy Award in a film by the same name. "I like the Yankees. They are still the team to beat. They have more good players than anybody else. But they're not going to run away from the rest of us."

"The league is getting better balanced all the time. If the Yanks should have a little trouble—perhaps lose a key player through injury—you'd see a battle royal. Almost anybody could win it!"

"Remember when a team like the Yanks could mop up clubs like the old St. Louis Browns or Philadelphia A's? That doesn't happen any more. Even the low second division teams can step up and belt you. There are no pushovers. This could be a very, very good race."

WITHOUT A POGO STICK: Jim Mahoney was a 20-year-old shortstop and a .265 hitter for San Jose in the California State League last season. Now he's shortstop for the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific Coast League.

"Know what that means? Just a jump from Class 'C' to Triple 'A' ball, that's all. Eddie Joost, the Seal skipper and himself an upper-middle-class shortstop for a long spell in the majors, thinks Jim will make it."

"Like I've been saying all along," explained Joost after Mahoney had weathered the first few days of the season, "the kid can do the job. All he needs is a little confidence in himself, and he ought to be getting that any day. I think he's great out there."

An Irish kangaroo is James Mahoney, begorra!

A MATTER OF APPETITE: "You have a good ball club," Bucky Harris was saying, "when you have a gang of money-hungry players."

"First and foremost in a player's ambition is the cash. That's his incentive. After you start making good money, your pride comes into the picture."

"Money and pride—they're the two big motivations behind a major league player."

"When you first start playing pro ball, it's fun. After that wears off, it becomes a job, like anything else. It's work and we all want to get paid for it."

"Sure, you love the cheers of the crowd when you make a good play. They all shout a little at times. Who doesn't like attention? But who plays just for the glory of the game?"

"I say they all play for what they can take home and put into the bank."

"That's why I always like to have two or three young players coming along, fitting into my club in the spring. They are eager, hustling and hungry. They want to get their arms soon as possible. They're still struggling. They still think they can get into the $100,000 salary bracket. A few do. Not many."

Doesn't this sum up as the garage mechanic, bookkeeper, baker, auto salesman, tavern personality, and everybody else striving for gain in this world?

CLOSELY: Bob Scheffing was gifted by the Chicago Cubs with Bob Spence, the early season hot copy in 1935 of the Chicago Cubs last Thursday. Three more gifts for his Los Angeles Angels and Bob will be ready to challenge the world, or most of it, anyway.

Old "Grumpy" knows what he wants, too. Names like Bob Thorpe and Johnny Briggs, pitchers, and other Edys Vincenlak or Ullrich Myers, shortstops with a yen for fence-busting.

Epidemic of Optimism Hits Big League Managers

Baseball's annual epidemic of optimism, which strikes all big league managers just before the start of the season, and usually is cured with a few early losing streaks, found them in their usual cheerful mood today.

FRICK, GILES, HARRIDGE

Baseball's Brass Sees Bright Year

Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick, National League President Warren C. Giles and American League President Will Harridge viewed the coming season with optimism Saturday.

Each of the game's top brass predicted higher attendance, more fan enthusiasm and tight flag races. Here are their statements as given to United Press:

By FORD FRICK: I have a little sermon and I hope the people in baseball will have time to listen for a minute. Certainly, we face a good year and I look for lively pennant races with the competition perhaps a little keener in the National League.

I thought the interest in spring training was keener than I have seen it in a number of years. Wherever I went, newspapers carried a large volume of news from the training camps. I heard people talking about baseball in restaurants. Everywhere there were sport shops devoted to baseball on radio and television.

Now obviously, we have the fans with us. But I hope the people in baseball will recognize that the game itself can be better. I hope they will devote a little more attention to improving things in their own parks and in their minor league farm systems.

As far as the minor leagues are concerned, their troubles may not be as serious as many people think.

By WARREN C. GILES: I am more optimistic about the outlook for baseball, and particularly the National League, in 1936 than any time since I came into the league office in 1931. There is evidence on all sides that enthusiastic interest in baseball is greater than in many years; advance ticket sales, at-

In their pre-game statements to the United Press in advance of opening day, virtually every manager pictured his club as improved over last year, although there were no flat predictions that they would win the pennant.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cassey Stengel, Yankees—"We can win again. But we have problems in left field and possibly at short. There is a lot of nonsensical talk about an easy race for the Yankees. The situation indicates no such thing. Our club is in for a tough fight in a better balanced league. Cleveland and Boston look like contenders and Chicago, too, can't be ignored, nor for that matter, Detroit, either."

Al Lopez, Indians—"Sure, the Yankees are the ones to beat but just because they got Mickey McDermott that doesn't make them big favorites. Herb Score may light a fire under our 'big three' pitchers—Wynn, Lemon and Garcia—and we still have the best pitching in baseball anyway."

Marty Marion, White Sox—"I thought we would win the pennant last year but we missed by five games. This is a team that could go all the way if we get a few breaks. We definitely are improved with Larry Doby in center, Luis Aparicio at short, Sam Esposito at third, and now a fourth starting pitcher, Bill Fischer."

Mike Higgins, Red Sox—"We'll be stronger. We have better bench strength. We have added fine talent in first baseman Mickey Vernon and pitcher Bob Porterfield. Most important, we will have Ted Williams for the entire season."

Bucky Harris, Tigers—"Our pitching should be better and with development of our young players in other departments we should win more games than we did in 1935 when we missed fourth place by only five games."

Paul Richards, Orioles—"I feel we will be somewhat better and I hope it is reflected in the won and lost columns. Our youth movement is showing signs of improving the club but most of our better prospects are still a little young to put in the lineup."

Chuck Dressen, Senators—"We're a green team and we'll make a lot of mistakes. But I think we have the hustle to climb. I can't predict any first division finish, but this could be a team to surprise me pleasantly."

Lou Roudreau, Athletics—"The Athletics are a better club because of numerous purchases of top minor league players. We are headed in the right direction. But we will have to be better to finish sixth again because Baltimore and Washington have improved."

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Walter Alston, Dodgers—"If we get the pitching we can win it. If we don't we may be in trouble. If Billy Loos and Karl Spooner can't pitch it throws all the weight on the young pitchers. It is too early to tell yet how good they are."

Bill Rigney, Giants—"I like the looks of this club and I'm not conceding anything to anybody. We could have pitching as good as there is in the league. The boys have shown me they can hit. There are a lot of long ball bats in the lineup, too. And when we settle on it, we'll have a good defensive infield."

Birdie Tebbetts, Redlegs—"If Ted Kluszewski recovers fully from his hip injury, we will go as far as our pitching will take us and that could be on top because even if Brooklyn figures to win again, it promises to be the sort of a race in which the Braves, Reds, Cards, Phils and Giants also will have a chance to cop the pennant."

Mayo Smith, Phillies—"I feel if any team is to beat the Dodgers, it could be the Phillies as well as anyone else. Every team has improved. Cincinnati and St. Louis most of all, and while no team figures to beat the Dodgers, it's just when everyone thinks something is impossible that it happens."

Stan Hack, Cubs—"The Cubs definitely are improved but just where we will finish depends on how much the other seven clubs have improved or slipped. We have the best infield in baseball, vastly improved team speed and I believe the pitching will be better. Our problem is the outfield. If we can lick that, we can lick a lot of clubs."

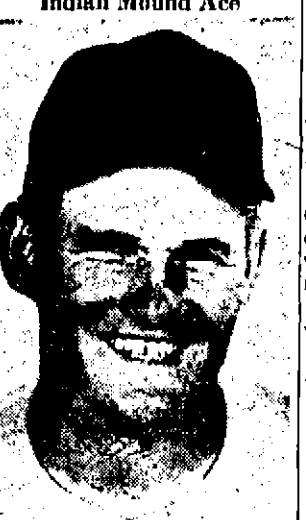

Fred Hutchinson, Cardinals—"If Brooklyn can be prevented from getting such a tremendous jump again, there should be a good interesting race. Our club looked good this spring. The pitching was most pleasing."

Bobby Bragan, Pirates—"I'm new to the National League and can't say much about where we'll finish but I have high hopes of making some progress."

Charlie Grimm, Braves—"I feel our ball club is as good as any in the league and with a break or two along the way, we could win. The spirit on our club is tremendous. The players all feel they can win and that could make a big difference this year. Our pitching will be good without Gene Conley—a whole lot better with him."

Writers' Poll Picks Bums, Yanks to Win in Landslide

NEW YORK (AP)—It's the Dodgers and Yankees in a landslide in this election year, in the United Press poll of 152 sports writers predicting the pennant winners.

A total of 132, or all but 20 of the participants, banked on the world champion Dodgers to win the National League flag again. The support for the Yankees was a little less overwhelming, but 113 scribes picked the perennial American League champs to repeat.

In a combination, 107 writers chose both the Dodgers and Yankees to meet in their seventh World Series since 1941. There were 14 who liked the Dodgers to meet the highly-rated Boston Red Sox, and 10 who selected the Dodgers to oppose the Indians. One strong-minded scribe, the only one to pick the Tigers, envisioned a Detroit-Brooklyn series.

Of the others who liked the Yankees to win, three matched them up with their old World Series opponents, the St. Louis Cardinals; two picked a Yankee-Milwaukee Braves series, and one voted for the Yankees and Giants.

The Red Sox, who came strong last season, were rated as the number two choice in the American League, with 65 second place votes. There were 21 who liked Boston for the pennant. Cleveland was the strong third place choice with 61 votes for that notch. There were 12 Cleveland first place votes and 29 for second. The White Sox drew 68 votes for the consensus in fourth place. Detroit with 119 was most popular for fifth.

In the National League, the other first place votes comprised 11 for Milwaukee, six for St. Louis and three for the Giants. The Braves rated second place consensus with 85 votes while the Cardinals, who finished seventh in 1935, showed so much improvement in training that they were top choice for third place with 56 votes. Cincinnati drew most votes for fourth place, 52, while the Giants led a wide variety of selections for fifth with 39 votes. However, the Giants had 42 fourth place votes and most scribes picked the 1934 flag winners for the first division.

Other World Series combinations that showed on the ballots were five for the Braves-Red Sox, three for the Braves-White Sox, two for the Cardinals-White Sox, and one each for the Cardinals-Red Sox, Giants-Indians, Giants-Red Sox, and Braves-Indians.

Bob Kelley Says---

Ralph Kiner is already learning you get far more headaches in baseball's front office than he ever did trying to time Robin Roberts' curve ball. The new San Diego general manager was really moaning as we sat around the Konikall club a few days ago:

"My gosh, this rain is sure making it tough on us. Only 995 people show up for our second night game of the year. Why, we've only played three games so far, and we're already 4,000 fans behind last season's attendance. It doesn't make the new general manager look very good."

I told Ralph he was lucky he didn't have the same job up in the Los Angeles area. The fans here won't turn out for a sports event if they even hear a rumor some guy is carrying an umbrella around. For the Angels to show up in force, the weather must be absolutely perfect.

I've seen afternoons when the Rams were playing that would be called perfect for football in Ann Arbor or Columbus, but the local folk refuse to venture out in such "miserable weather." Even the heat keeps them away.

During the hot spell late last summer, the Ram-Cleveland exhibition game fell $70,000 below Dan Reeves' estimated budget—and the estimate is always a conservative one, too. I couldn't think of a cooler spot than the Coliseum that particular Friday night—but you can't convince the natives.

Being a former Midwesterner, I've arrived at the conclusion that we've all become a little spoiled, weather-wise.

KINER, BY THE WAY, WAS VERY impressed with the Angels' Harry Perkowski when he beat San Diego opening day: "Anyone who can throw as hard as Perkowski," Ralph told me, "is a cinch to be a big winner in the Coast League." The veteran Cincinnati southpaw has a scorching fast one.

I GOT A PRESS RELEASE FROM THE Canadian football league Saturday, announcing that SC's Aramis Dandoy had signed with Calgary. The release carried the news that Calgary had out-bid several NFL clubs who were hot after the ex-Trojan back, adding the only reason the Cleveland Browns cut Dandoy last year was because of an injury.

I have no intention of belittling the talents of the boy, but Canada is obviously trying to peddle some counter-propaganda to offset the fact that its players, for the most part, are not good enough for the American pro league, or else they've been cast off by the NFL.

The truth about Dandoy is that he wasn't big enough to stand up in the National Football League. He was injured repeatedly during the '35 exhibition season. Further, he didn't have the all-around background to handle multiple duties like blocking and receiving that the NFL backs must

Poodles Rate High as Film Stars' Pets

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Shop often I went to friends' homes to talk.

Poodles obviously are hanging onto their popularity here: A spot check shows Jackie Loughery has two poodles, Dolores Gray seven and Ann Sheridan, 17.

And a report from the San Fernando Valley discloses that a one-time runnerup for the Canadian lightweight boxing title, Frankie Manns, is operating a kennel business with emphasis on the Hollywood trade. He calls the outfit, "Mann's Best Friend."

ANITA EKBERG may appear quite well-to-do to those who are familiar with her numerous photographs, but she says there were leaner days and a leaner Ekberg. "I used to get very hungry," she says. "Many times a meal was a hard-boiled egg. And

Sammy Davis Packs House in Weak Show

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Sammy Davis Jr., jukebox sensation and nightclub star, is key man now in a Broadway battle of the season.

Sammy made his theatrical debut a couple of weeks ago in the musical "Mr. Wonderful." The critics reported him wonderful, the rest of the show anything but.

But the public, ga-ga over Sammy, has been turning out in droves despite the critics—which sometimes happens—and may make the show a hit after all.

"The saving thing for me is that the show didn't get all raves," is the way Sammy declares his state of mind. "If it had, I'd have been bored by now."

"Every entertainer likes a fight. Me especially, I've been fighting all my life, even for just a chance to perform. Why even 5 years ago they told me in night clubs that I could never be so big as things turned out."

SAMMY DAVIS JR.
Wonderful in "Mr. Wonderful"

SLIM-HIPPED Sammy, who competed up to the disk and cafe firmament with a blend of singing, dancing and mimicry, feels that about 60 per cent of the audience gathering daily at the Broadway theater are his fans.

"and the rest of the theatergoers get sort of caught up in the sheer force of what goes on."

Serious and reflective behind the frenetic on-stage mien, he says that perhaps some of the adverse criticism that "Mr. Wonderful" got was because of changes made during the tryout period.

The story concerns a timid young entertainer in a trio who is unambitious about trying the big time but finally does. The device enables Sammy Jr.'s father and Will Mastin—in the pair with whom he has worked for years—to accompany him in the show.

But, Sammy discloses, the original story had more drama when the young performer's timidity was linked to the fact that he was a Negro.

"IT'S A STORY that could be told, and I think would help all around," says the young Negro star.

One thing Sammy swears he isn't going to try to analyze is the secret of his bounding popularity.

"I'll play that by ear," he says. "You start trying too much to figure everything out, and you end up all wrong."

THE RETURN OF CLAUDETTE: There's a method, confesses Claudette Colbert, behind her current return to Broadway for two months in the hit comedy "Janus."

Miss Colbert, a stranger to Broadway for 26 years, has taken over Margaret Sullivan's role while the latter takes a rest the doctor ordered.

A lady who confesses to most intense stage fright, Miss Colbert also is enchanted over her return—and finds it pretty difficult to reconcile the two emotions.

"We're just all exhibitionists, I guess," she says with a wave of the hand to embrace all these plans.

Miss Colbert is primarily a citizen of California, where her husband Dr. Joel Pressman is assistant dean and professor of medicine at the University of California. She makes it clear that acting comes second to her 20-year marriage.

The famous screen star is a bit surprised to find herself in the comedy at the Plymouth Theater because she long had determined that any return to Broadway would be in a drama. The two chief acting dreams of her life, she vows, have been Joan of Arc and playing in "L'Aiglon."

"I'd rather laugh than anything else," says Claudette. "But the thing that truly makes an impression on people in the theater and that they remember is drama."

It Happened Last Night

By Earl Wilson

EDIE AND EARNIE

NEW YORK—Arthur Godfrey has his friends—but Ernie Kovacs and his wife, Edith Adams, Arthur's morning TV opposition on NBC, also have some—in-cluding a cab driver who wakes Ernie at 4:30 a.m. and has breakfast with him.

"His name's Lou Pack—Pack the Hack—and he makes the coffee. . . . The only thing is he likes his eggs scrambled a little harder than I do," said munched, cigar-frazzling Ernie, a former Trenton newspaperman, the other night, "but since he scrambles them and he's my guest, what can I do?" Pack the Hack is a wonderful friend—he cuts out anything in the papers about us. Some mornings when he gives me the papers, they're full of holes!"

I'M CONVINCED that about everything happens to Ernie and Edie—herself a brilliant comedienne (from Wilkes-Barre, Pa.) who just finished at the Plaza Persian Room after two years in "Wonderful Town."

Just now they're set to replace Sid Caesar on NBC this summer, but Ernie's sure it won't happen.

"I've had so many big deals," Ernie says.

"I was in Bermuda on vacation when I got a call from New York. The voice said, 'Ernie, this is Hub.' I said, 'Hub who?'"

"He said 'Hubbell Robinson.' It was the top vice president at CBS. He wanted me to come right back and start a big program with a million-piece orchestra."

"I said I was on my first vacation in years and was going to stay on it for 3 weeks. So he said when I came back to hurry right in to see him."

"I HURRIED, and when I got there I didn't know whether to say 'Is Hub in?' or what to his secretary. But Hub happened to come out and he said 'Hi, Ernie. How are you, Ernie?' I said I was fine. He said, 'Good boy,' and walked on. So many things had happened in those 3 weeks that the program he'd been thinking about had been entirely forgotten."

With Edith singing till around 1:30 a.m. and Ernie taking her home, then getting up at 4:30, he's had a nervous life lately.

"I lie around in bed till 6:30," Edith confessed.

Zachary Scott Now Sings

NEW YORK (UPI)—He's never even indulged in much singing in the shower, but Zachary Scott, the erstwhile purveyor of suavely sinister drama on stage and screen, is making his debut as a musical star soon in the city center revival of "The King and I."

ZACHARY SCOTT
Taking Lessons in Singing

Zachary, who has been preparing for quite a while with two singing teachers, feels that "very definitely this is a turning point in my career."

After the two-week revival run of the Rodgers & Hammerstein hit, Scott and his wife, actress Ruth Ford, will start preparations for joint appearances on Broadway next fall in a radically different type of stagecraft, William Faulkner's "Requiem for a Nun."

But singing is here to stay, says Scott. For right now a musical—details undisclosed—is being written in which he expects to put his larynx through the jumps again in the fall of '57.

Doolittle Raider Now Missionary in Japan

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—One of the heroic Doolittle raiders has shucked his flying glories to become a missionary in Japan, the land he once bombed.

The Rev. Jacob DeShazer was a bombardier sergeant on that historic raid by 80 hand-picked men in 1942. The raiders bombed Japan in this nation's greatest offensive effort up to that time in World War II.

The raiders are meeting in a Tampa reunion.

DeShazer and his four crewmates parachuted into China after losing their bombs over Japan. He and six comrades spent 40 months in a Nanking prison.

ALTHOUGH THEY suffered cruel treatment at the hands of the Japanese, DeShazer said the airmen were provided with Bibles.

And reading "of the Christian message" brought him "the most profound influence in my life."

He said he learned forgiveness for the people who held him captive and who mistreated him. He vowed to return among them after the war was over—if he survived.

So he returned to Osaka, Japan, one of the cities bombed in the raid and spent 6½ years in missionary work there.

He's now studying at Asbury Seminary, Wilmore, Ky., and after completion of his studies will return to Japan.

DESHAZER is just one of the heroes who has a tale to tell about that memorable exploit.

Leader of the raiders is at the reunion. He is retired Lt. Gen. James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle, now an oil company executive in California. He talks freely about the raid but says it was "puny" compared to what could happen now.

The reunion is an annual event.

German NATO Flier Disappears

MUNICH (AP)—A West German Air Force first lieutenant stationed at NATO's Kaufbeuren Air Base disappeared Saturday. Police said they believe he fled to Communist East Germany.

If true this would be the first case of desertion in West Germany's newly formed armed forces, the Bundeswehr. Police said the officer, Kurt Geuther, was wanted in connection with alleged irregularities in his private life.

'NOAH'S ARK' WITH DYNAMITE TO HONOLULU

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)

Crewmen of the SS Hawaiian Merchant might be classed as "explosive Noahs" when they sail for Honolulu next Wednesday.

The vessel will carry 40 head of cattle, several monkeys, four kangaroos, two tigers, two lions, three grizzly bears, a large turtle, an ostrich, a llama, a number of small animals and birds—and 50 tons of dynamite.

The shipment, except for the dynamite, is for the Honolulu Zoo.

Jap Hubbies Refuse to Pay Any Alimony

TOKYO (AP)—A report on Japanese divorces in 1954 showed today that 50 per cent of the husbands involved refused to pay any alimony to their discarded wives.

The report by the Supreme Court's family bureau said most of the women lucky enough to get alimony received between $27 and $139 in a lump sum payment. Some 300 won less than $27.

'Bittersweet' Opening Well Received

The Singers' Workshop brought Noel Coward's nostalgic "Bittersweet" to life again Friday night in Concert Hall, and while it contains little of the Coward sophistication, it is safe to say that the melodies are among the best ever written for light opera.

This production was, as usual, colorful, well-staged, and served to bring a new talent (at least in leading roles) to the person of Wallace Arntzen. He is somebody to watch. Laura Killingsworth was Sari, and again as usual, was in beautiful voice and as glamorous as ever.

The first act, which serves as a prologue, was a little slow getting started, but wonder of wonders, every word was clearly audible. The first scene is an amusing bit from the Roaring Twenties, complete with Charles and hideous clothes, with Miss Killingsworth appearing as a 70-year-old woman. In a flashback she becomes a naive 17, and

MODENA, Italy (AP)—Cobbler Bruno Billi asked police to help him find the man who brought in a pair of shoes for repair and didn't leave his name. Stashed into the worn leather Billi found $800 worth of jewelry. Not only is her voice unusually fine, but she can do a professional bit of acting too.

The players were for the most part well cast, with Olive Fiddis, Joan Strickland, William Johnson and Harold Woodhouse in the bigger parts. The orchestra was ably directed by Muri Mekar, and again, Henri Scanlon was in charge of the entire production.—Olive McDuffee.

Giving In...To His Practical Side!

We will tell you, in all honesty, that this gentleman was a little dubious when he first walked into the showroom.

There was no question, to be sure, about his wanting a Cadillac. As long as he can remember he has had his heart set on the "car of cars".

But, quite frankly, he wondered whether or not he was in a position to purchase a motor car as fine... and as luxurious... and as wonderful as the 1956 Cadillac.

But now he is learning some facts about this great motor car that are removing the last trace of doubt from his mind.

First of all, he is learning that a Cadillac is relatively modest in its initial cost... and that many Cadillac models are actually priced competitively with cars in the so-called "medium-priced" bracket.

He is finding out about Cadillac's extraordinary operating economy... and about its astonishing dependability.

He is discovering the remarkable facts about Cadillac's unrivalled resale value... and how Cadillac retains a greater share of its original value over the years than any other automobile in the land.

And, lastly, he is being told that, at this time of the year, his dealer is able to make Cadillac ownership even more attractive than usual... adding the economy of the moment to the economy of the car itself.

That's why we suspect that—having given in long ago to his heart—he is now giving in to his practical side. And that's a combination no man can resist!

Why not stop in and see for yourself?

As an experienced Cadillac dealer, we have established a wonderful relationship with motorists throughout the community. Our reputation for integrity is your assurance of satisfaction as a customer.

We will be happy to see you at any time.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, APRIL 15, 1956

SECTION C

With MALCOLM EPLEY

A LONG BEACH man who went to Sen. Kefauver's reception here recently didn't identify himself too well—or Sen. Kefauver is one of the nation's top optimists.

Atty. Robert M. Devitt saw in the paper where Kefauver was to be a guest at the University Club, so he and Mrs. D. dropped over there to greet the visiting Democrat.

A day or two ago Devitt got a nice letter from Kefauver, expressing the Senator's pleasure at meeting him and stating that he hoped Devitt would work for Kefauver in the coming presidential preference campaign.

Devitt happens to be vice president of the California Republican Assembly.

THE BIG RAIN almost cost a citizen of our town his upper dental plate, valued at a few hundred dollars.

This fellow set out in the rain with his wife, a prominent Democratic leader, to pick up a Democratic worker out north somewhere. When they were driving on Colorado St. the car struck a great pool of water in a dip, and as they started north on the Manila St. hill it quit entirely.

The driver got out and looked things over. It occurred to him he might help by wiping the spark plugs, and he got a handkerchief from his pocket. This did no good, but a truck presently came along and pushed the car up the hill to a service station.

An hour or two later, back at home, the driver discovered his upper plate was missing. In consternation he went back over the events of the evening. He vaguely remembered having wrapped the plate in a handkerchief—and then a light dawned.

He got out the car, drove back to the hill on Manila St., got out with a flashlight and sure enough, there on the pavement, lay the set of choppers. Traffic had miraculously missed it.

The find relieved family tension, too. He told his wife: "I don't mind donating you to the Democratic Party, but darned if I want to give my teeth, too."

AS YOU PROBABLY KNOW, the Long Beach Unified School District includes Santa Catalina Island, which is a unique situation. There's probably not another district in the country with a detached section across 20 miles of water.

There are some special angles on this that you may not have known about.

For example, teachers who have duty over there annually get ten free round trip tickets on the mainland boat, in addition to their regular pay.

The pay for teaching or administering at the Avalon School runs a little higher than that for equivalent jobs on the mainland. This is mainly because the cost of living runs a little higher there than in the mainland part of the district.

It can hardly be regarded as "hardship duty" to teach at Avalon, a noted resort and the mecca of thousands of visitors annually. But there's a degree of isolation about it that causes some teachers to shy from the jobs on the island.

THE PRINCIPAL of the school at Avalon is George R. McKelvie. He supervises 13 teachers, two librarians and a counselor in the elementary, junior high and high schools. There are 156 elementary pupils, 70 in junior high and 57 in senior high.

Most of the business transacted between the Avalon school and district headquarters here is handled by telephone, there being a cable to the island. District supervisors, however, make several trips a month from the mainland.

AVALON PEOPLE appear to be well satisfied with their status as the overseas section of the Long Beach district. They've been in the district a long time, could withdraw if they wanted to, but no such movement has ever developed.

Avalon people are evidently favorably disposed toward Long Beach, because a year or so ago there was even talk of joining Avalon to this city—an idea that developed in Avalon itself. Some legal obstacles arose and the scheme was dropped, but it was indicative of friendly sentiment across the channel.

The first in a series of Miss Welcome to Long Beach preliminary judging contests will be conducted in the new Walker's department store at the Los Altos Shopping Center on April 26.

More than 35 contestants will participate in the area elimination and five will be selected for the finals May 5 at Municipal Auditorium.

Find Body of Woman Off Belmont Pier

The body of a 72-year-old woman who had left a note indicating despondency over ill health was washed ashore shortly before noon Saturday near the Belmont Pier.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Virginia M. Ferrero, 234 Lime Ave., Apt. 4.

Her son, Alida E. Ferrero, 9609 Fitchard St., Bellflower, had reported her missing Friday. He said she left a note in her apartment expressing concern over an illness. The body was taken to the R. W. Coon Funeral Home.

First Avalon Voyage for SS Catalina

The SS Catalina, big Catalina channel passenger ship, made her first run of the year Saturday from Wilmington to Avalon, Santa Catalina Island.

About 300 persons made the season's initial voyage. First passenger to board the vessel was 15-year-old Mary Lynn Schoep of Westchester.

She will receive numerous prizes. The four other finalists also will be awarded prizes.

In addition, Oscar Melnhart, executive director of the Miss Universe Pageant, will select 18 Miss Welcome contestants to participate in a show production during the international beauty contest.

LEARNING AMERICAN WAY

L. B. Japanese War Brides Form Club

By BOB WHEARLEY
The Cherry Blossom Society was in a quandary.

One of its five members had found a new recipe for chili. But the recipe failed to say whether shichimi-togarashi could be substituted for chili powder, or even if wasabi couldn't be used in place of cayenne pepper.

All of which is another way of saying the Cherry Blossom Society would welcome some help in Americanizing itself.

Membership in the society, headed by trim, attractive Kyoko Brawley of 2317 Orange Ave., Signal Hill, consists of Japanese war brides who have come to this country within the past few years.

MRS. BRAWLEY, the wife of Air Force Tech. Sgt. Herbert Brawley, conceived the idea of a Japanese war brides' club last November.

"I was awfully lonesome when I first got here four years ago," she explained without a trace of accent. "I thought that some of the other girls would be lonesome, too."

But the Cherry Blossom Society is more than a fellowship club. Its members are dedicated to learning how to do things the American way—what to wear, what to cook for their husbands, the fine points of Stateside etiquette and so on.

THAT'S WHY they'd welcome some help in their Americanization project. The YWCA and the Community Chest Volunteer Office are working with them toward this goal.

The society meets twice a month at Mrs. Brawley's home while their husbands baby-sit. Mrs. Brawley herself has a son.

"We have our own special projects just like any club," she said. "Making Japanese dolls for charity is one of them."

"But mostly we're interested in helping other Japanese war brides blend in with the American way of living. And we've got a lot to learn ourselves."

SHE ESTIMATES there are about 50 Japanese war brides in the Long Beach area.

"Some people have criticized us because they think the society keeps us in our own small circle," she said. "But it's not that we're trying to be clannish. We just want to help each other get adjusted to a new way of life."

Mrs. Brawley confesses that the transition was easier for her to make since she worked as a typist for American forces in Japan before she was married in January 1952. Then, too, she explained, the urban centers of postwar Japan have been pretty much Americanized.

THE OTHER FOUR members of the society are Mrs. Kazuko Hancock, 26, of 2124 W. Wilshire St.; Mrs. Yoko Evola, 25, of 1702 W. Burnett St.; Mrs. Akemi Freeman of 1033 Hillman Ave., and Mrs. Setsuko

Morgan of 3256 Easy Ave., who came to this country only a month ago.

In spite of their desire to Americanize themselves, the brides still serve Japanese food occasionally, just for the sake of variety. Mrs. Brawley's family favors a dish called bean rice, and she serves it about once a week.

Shichimi-togarashi, in case you're wondering, is a hot sauce. And wasabi is something like horseradish, Mrs. Brawley explained.

But the matter of food is of small concern to the Brawley youngsters. Kimber and Janet have cosmopolitan tastes. "They like anything from plain rice to popsicles," said Mrs. Brawley.

Thornton, Hosmer to Speak Here

By THE LOOKOUT

Republican activity will pick up the coming week, with Rep. Craig Hosmer in town to launch his re-election campaign and former Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado here to make a GOP campaign address.

Thornton will speak at a dinner at the Wilton Hotel Wednesday evening, sponsored by the Long Beach Council of Republican Women. He will be introduced by L. A. Collins Sr.

Hosmer will be here for three days this week, and will make a series of appearances opening his campaign.

Hosmer's opponent in this congressional race is Raymond C. Simpson, Democrat, who is getting an organization set up for a spiritual drive for votes.

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Joseph Call, Los Angeles municipal judge for 25 years, was in town this week end plugging for his candidacy for Superior Court judge, position No. 28. Call is a son of the late Joseph H. Call, Los Angeles lawyer who as a pioneer in the development of Long Beach Harbor.

Charles C. Stratton, president of the Long Beach Bar Assn., has joined a group of regional bar presidents endorsing the re-election candidacy of Dist. Atty. Ernest Rell.

Nancy Witcher, Long Beach City College student, took an active part in the recent mock Democratic convention at USC. She performed as a supporter of Sen. Kefauver for presidential nomination.

Wenzel Fabera and Herbert E. Bromley expect more than 85,000 adults will view local educational facilities.

INTEREST IN OUR public schools has reached a new high in this area," Fabera said.

"We are certain all existing attendance records will be shattered. "Thirty-seven years ago at the close of World War I, California's classrooms were overcrowded and trained teachers were scarce. Because of the similarity between 1919 and 1956, Public Schools Week this year carries a special significance."

PARENTS THIS year are encouraged to attend regular classroom sessions. However, evening open-house programs also will be conducted in each of the 68 local public schools.

The lay committee selected to serve with Bromley and Fabera includes: Edwin W. Wade, Joseph Malby, V. B. Gillespie, J. Everett Houser, Marshall Stone, Clark H. Shaw, Myron E. Roubush, Melvin R. Berhower, John H. Ferguson, John Thomas Toner, Norman G. Johnson, Arthur R. Moberg, Curtis N. Alwine, Forrest L. Ray, Thomas H. Young, Dale J. Crawford, Burns N. Nickerson, William E. Moller, Charles L. Jackson, Edwin F. Berchard, Earl Jorgenson, Jack Hoffman, Gerald H. Brown and Nat Frank.

PE Agents to Stage L.A. Dinner April 24

Five Long Beach area Pacific Electric Railway Co. agents will attend the company agents' association banquet April 24 in Roger Young Auditorium in Los Angeles.

Attending will be N. L. Smith, 19 Pine Ave., district freight agent; R. E. Haynes, 162 Covina Ave., Ralph C. Bailey, 2528 Tyler St.; H. G. Maxwell, 6008 Freckles Rd., and T. L. Sheffer, 444 Walnut Ave.

BUBBLE, BUBBLE, TRIAL AND...

They say that too many cooks ruin the broth, but what about too many splices? Looking over a seeming surplus of ingredients for a new recipe are four Japanese war brides, members of the Cherry Blossom Society: (left to right) Mrs. Yoko Evola, Mrs. Kazuko Hancock, Mrs. Setsuko Morgan and Mrs. Kyoko Brawley. Members of the society want to learn to do things the American way.—(Staff)

Record Crowds Seen in Public School Fete

A record number of parents and other adults will visit local schools during Public Schools Week, April 23 to 27, co-chairmen of the sponsoring Citizens Committee predicted Saturday.

Wenzel Fabera and Herbert E. Bromley expect more than 85,000 adults will view local educational facilities.

Sleeping Driver Hurt in Crash

Randall R. Rossen, 18, USMC, Camp Pendleton, suffered a lacerated forehead early Saturday, when the car he was riding in crashed into a parked car, on E. Broadway 75 feet west of Bonito Ave. He is at the Naval Dispensary.

Driver James C. Wallace, 19, USMC, same address, told police that he must have fallen asleep. His car struck the rear of a car registered to Raymond E. Fox, 54, of Rochester, N. Y., which was pushed into another parked car, registered to Madge E. Hutchinson, 57, of 948 E. Broadway.

Building Being Razed Collapses

LOS ANGELES (AP)—This is one for the record. Three employees of a wrecking company said they had barely stepped outside an old one-story building they were tearing down Saturday when—whooosh—it beat them to it.

The roof fell in and tons of bricks from the walls landed on the sidewalk and street.

Empty L.B. Land Is Shrinking

By GEORGE WEEKS

Vacant land within the City of Long Beach shrank from 9.4 square miles in 1940 to 4 square miles in 1956, even though the city's total extent increased by annexations during the same period from 30 to 45 square miles.

The figures are revealed in a preliminary land-use survey just completed by the City Planning Dept. Facts brought out in the survey are to be used in future planning recommendations.

The current total of 45 square miles—28,827 acres—includes all the land area to mean high tide line plus Alamitos Bay.

EFFECTIVE USABLE area is reduced to 40.4 square miles by the deletion of land used for such purposes as airport, flood control channels, other water areas, public utilities and power lines, railroads and a cemetery.

In addition to the 4 square miles classified as vacant, 3 square miles encompass oil-producing districts and a minor segment of agricultural land which eventually become useful for other purposes.

Areas totaling only 13.6 net square miles, or 34.7 per cent of the total, are used exclusively for residential purposes.

Single-family developments cover 12.2 square miles, or 78 per cent of the residential area.

Two-family residential use accounts for 1.3 square miles, or 8 per cent of the territory devoted to dwellings.

IN MULTIPLE-FAMILY use is 2.1 square miles, or 12 per cent.

Highest density of residential occupancy is in Venetian Square, west of Magnolia Ave. and south of Ocean Blvd., with 140 persons per acre.

The lowest density is in Los Corrales with 12 persons per acre. Average is 37.2 persons per acre.

Streets and highways occupy 0.6 square miles, or 21.4 per cent of the total gross area.

Industrial (manufacturing, utility and railroads) extends over 4.6 square miles, or 10.2 per cent.

Public uses, including parks, benches and schools, total about 3.1 square miles, or 5.8 per cent.

Three-tenths of a square mile represents beach acreage.

DEVOTED TO commercial uses is 1.3 square mile, or 3 per cent of the gross area.

Other urban uses, such as trailers, amusement zones, staples, mortuaries and sanitariums, occupy one-half square mile, or 1.1 per cent.

Although many acres of park land have been acquired since 1940, about the same amount of park land is still proportioned to each 100 persons—a rate of 45 acre per 100.

The survey report notes: "When you consider minimum standards set by many groups throughout the nation (including the National Recreation Assn.) to be 1 acre per 100 persons, it can be seen that we still must acquire twice the area we now have to approach this standard."

Storms Alert Wide Area in Southwest

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Tornadoes were reported in two spots in Eastern Oklahoma Saturday night along a twister warning belt that extended through Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Oklahoma City said one tornado funnel was sighted five miles south of Ada, Okla., and another, unconfirmed near Calvin, north-east of Ada.

THERE WERE no reports of injuries or extensive damage, and the Oklahoma Highway Patrol said it believed neither twister hit the ground.

The fire department at Hol-denville, northeast of Ada and in the storm's path, sounded a tornado alarm with six siren blasts to warn citizens.

The Highway Patrol said half "as big as hen eggs" fell at Hol-denville when the storm passed through.

The same Hughes County city was hit by a twister six years ago this month that killed five persons.

A SPECIAL FORECAST issued by the Weather Bureau said:

"Scattered severe thunderstorms with a few tornadoes likely in Southeastern Oklahoma, Northeast Texas, Northern Louisiana and Southwest Arkansas."

Another tornado warning covered Northeastern Texas and parts of Arkansas and Louisiana.

THE ALERT SAID, "There is the possibility of a few tornadoes until midnight in the area 70 miles either side of a line from Palestine, Tex., to 45 miles southwest of Little Rock, Ark. This would include Shreveport, La., and most of Southwest Arkansas and Northeastern Texas."

Meantime, hail stones and heavy rain pounded North Central Texas.

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported hail "the size of baseballs" around Benbrook, Tex. A dozen other cities in North Central Texas reported lesser hail at nightfall.

Liquor Store Robbed Twice in 2 Months

Two armed bandits held up a liquor store clerk Saturday night and escaped with $145.

Louis G. Samlson, 66, told officers the two men, both between 25 and 30 years old, entered the store at 5440 Long Beach Blvd. shortly before midnight.

Samlson told officers this was the second time in two months he had been robbed.

One of the men drew a gun, told Samlson to keep his hands down and "act natural" and forced him to put all the bills from the register into a paper sack.

The men then went across the street to where their car was parked and drove off.

Skindiver Lost in Waters Near Laguna Beach

A 29-year-old Lakewood visitor was believed drowned Saturday night while skindiving near Laguna Beach.

Orange County sheriff's deputies searched the waters between Corona del Mar and Crystal Cove for Lloyd Verne Creswick, of New Mexico, reported missing at 4:30 p. m. Deputies called the search off when darkness fell and planned to resume this morning.

Creswick had been skindiving with his brother, Donald A. Creswick, of 4742 Vangold Ave., Lakewood, whom he was visiting. Donald told deputies he had left his brother and when he returned for him 45 minutes later, he was unable to find him. Sheriff's officers said Lloyd was using a home-made outfit with a snorkel at the time.

Boy Hit by Car; Leg Fractured

NORWALK — Five-year-old Frederic Halloran, suffered a broken left leg and a head injury Saturday afternoon when he stepped in front of an auto at Foster Rd. and Le Floss Ave.

The lad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Halloran, 10909 E. Foster Rd., was treated at Carle Hospital.

Ernest Rahon, of 13841 E. Imperial Hwy., South Whittier, was the driver of the auto.

Group Urges More Time for Leisure

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A group of economists and clergymen Saturday envisioned a fabulous "economy of superabundance" for the nation.

It said the per capita income of the United States has doubled every 35 years for more than a century and may "reasonably be expected" to continue at this rate.

The group, noting that a continued expanding economy is vital for the country's economic health, made two suggestions in a report to the National Council of Churches' third study conference on the church and economic life. It urged:

1. That a greater proportion of the country's efforts be channeled from consumption of consumer goods to increased leisure, wider social welfare and increased help for the underprivileged, both at home and abroad.
2. That the churches take the lead in consumer education so that "the things we buy may help us to achieve more fully the ultimate values we seek."

THE GROUP saw "attractive" advantages flowing from increased leisure for the American people.

These included shorter working hours, longer vacations, earlier retirement, more married women at home, more young people in school, a better home life, wider participation in political and community activities and "reduction in the tempo and pressure of modern existence."

But the group cautioned that the "prospective doubling or redoubling of our private consumption may not necessarily produce important benefits."

Nine Marine Sergeants Tried for Brutality to Recruits

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (UP)—The Marine Corps confirmed Saturday that nine drill instructors at this training base have been court-martialed for maltreatment of recruits in the 15 months preceding a "disciplinary" march into a swamp which led to the death of six Marines.

A four-member court of inquiry is now looking into the night maneuver last Sunday in which six Marine "boots" drowned when a drill instructor led his platoon into a chilly, tide-swollen swamp bordering this huge recruit depot.

S/Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, 31, called the platoon out of the barracks but claimed he did so only to instill "discipline." The court of inquiry heard two witnesses Saturday, including Capt. Richard P. Grey, commanding officer of the company McKeon's platoon was attached to.

Capt. Ralph Wood, Parris Island public information officer, said he did not expect the court to announce its findings "before Monday evening at the earliest."

Wood said six of the nine courts-martial since Jan. 1, 1935, for maltreatment resulted in convictions of the drill instructors but added that he did not recall the penalties levied on those found guilty.

Wood refused to disclose any details of the courts-martial, saying that he did not feel they should be made public from here.

He added, however, that "welcar would take a general court-martial case much quicker on an accusation of maltreatment than on any other offense."

In Washington, it was revealed that one of the six convictions involved a sergeant accused of jumping on a recruit's stomach, kicking others in the stomach and chest, and beating a Marine with a swagger stick.

The sergeant was given six months at hard labor and dishonorably discharged after being found guilty on 10 counts of cruelty and maltreatment.

Witnesses testified at the court-martial that the drill instructor jumped on a recruit's stomach 19 times while the youth was lying on the ground doing exercises. The sergeant claimed he was only trying to toughen the Marine's stomach muscles.

On another occasion, the sergeant allegedly "mule-kicked" a recruit in the chest. He was also accused of hitting a Marine 19 times with a swagger stick because it was the witness' 19th birthday. The sergeant admitted striking the boy but said it was only a light tap.

The Sunday night "death march" here brought a warning from Mayor Orville L. Hubbard of Dearborn, Mich., an ex-Marine, that he would drive the Marine Corps out of his city if the court tries to "whitewash" the incident.

"If they won't move," Hubbard told the Washington Daily News, "we'll move them out with a bulldozer."

Will Reid's Legacy to His Community

EVEN AFTER DEATH, WILL J. Reid adds to his splendid record of philanthropy in this community.

Before he died one week ago, the wealthy oil executive had contributed heavily to civic programs. He had shown particular interest in young people and directed substantial amounts to the Boy Scouts. For example, he donated an entire park as an overnight camping area for the Scouts and threw in the money with which to build a swimming pool.

Last Friday, the terms of Reid's will were made public.

WILL J. REID
A Good Scout

It was gratifying—but unsurprising to those who knew the character of the man—to discover that he had provided bequests of more than half million dollars to the Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls of this community. The Boy Scouts were bequeathed oil stock shares valued at about $400,000, and the Camp Fire Girls oil shares worth about $200,000.

These are among the largest legacies of this type in the history of our community.

Reid thus leaves a precedent of generosity and public interest for other persons of financial substance.

No one would overlook contributions and bequests made by wealthy persons heretofore. There have been some notable ones. But the legacy of citizen Will Reid is a reminder that bequests such as his are infrequent—that is, fewer than the persons with estates sufficient to provide substantial gifts.

This is a wealthy community. Through the years numerous persons have made fortunes here. Few of them have seen fit to channel large portions of their wealth to worthy causes of public benefit in the community.

There is no written law which says they must. But we wonder if there isn't an unwritten moral law which says they should. Doesn't a man owe a token of appreciation to a society which has provided him with the opportunity to flourish?

Obviously Will Reid thought so. His token was a generous one. His good lives after him.

Reality as Viewed From Coral Isles of Bermuda

BERMUDA—On this graceful string of coral islands set in the bluest sea, there are no distractions to annoy the tourist providing he refuses to read U. S. newspapers. The Royal Gazette and the Mid Ocean News contain a modest fare of world news with a British twist but the accent is on flower shows and the forthcoming military tattoo. There are no breathless columns of nonsense about Grace Kelly, Ike's golf game or those two peripatetic vote seekers, Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

But the avid newspaper reader anxiously awaits the arrival of the afternoon plane bearing the New York Times and the Herald Tribune so he can "find out what's going on."

This sharp snap-back to realism brings the intelligence that Ken Venturi, the rising amateur from California, folded in the last round of the Master's tournament at Augusta and that Ike is off on another vacation at the happy hunting grounds.

WE LEARN TOO that both the Republicans and the Democrats are claiming to have won a "victory" in the meaningless Illinois primary; that Harry Truman thinks Ike's administration has been a flop and that the news from the Middle East is mighty grim.

Congress has passed a political monstrosity called a farm bill. It contains both a soil bank provision to cut down surpluses of agricultural products and rigid price supports which will build them up again. But this is the year politicians are scared stiff about the farm vote and they would rather keep their seats in Congress than be right.

The deserting Republicans in the House and Senate figure that Ike will veto the bill anyway, so why not make a little hay with the farmers?

IN FLORIDA, Adlai Stevenson is trying to act like Estes Kefauver and Estes is even outpromising himself.

The net result of such antics may be these eager hopefuls running so hard so early that a dark horse might nip them out at the wire.

IKE IS CATCHING IT for being in Augusta while the Middle East is on fire. Agnes Meyer, mother-in-law of Publisher Philip Graham (Time's current cover boy), says the President should be on the job in Washington.

The Communists, she added, "are at work, morning, noon and night. They do not play golf."

But it is only fair to concede, as Walter Lippmann has stated so clearly, that "the main line of American policy in the Palestinian disorders has been clarified very considerably by the statement that the President issued from Georgia."

"We shall work primarily with and through the United Nations, relying in the case of big fighting in Palestine upon the Security Council to determine who is the aggressor, and who is the victim to be defended."

It is a better policy than the alternative which Lippmann says "would be for London and Washington and Paris to make themselves the sole judges of aggression and to assume the whole responsibility for intervention."

By working through the United Nations, the Soviet Union cannot avoid its share of the responsibility to prevent war in the Middle East.

An Acrobatic Congress

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of Sunday reproductions of the cartoons of two-time Pulitzer prize winner Jay N. Darling.)

HERE WE GO AGAIN! This is what Congressmen were doing in February, 1917, when Ding drew this cartoon. It appeared just 30 days before the Kaiser declared unrestricted submarine warfare which brought the United States into the first World War 60 days later.

Now, 37 years later, darned if Congressmen aren't jumping over the same obstacles. Only difference is that they are different Congressmen and the elephants bear slightly different names. Nowadays we call "military preparedness" "defense spending"; "national warfare" has several names including "social welfare" and the beast labeled "commercial preparedness" is something like "controlled prosperity."

HST Speeches Stir Memories of His Regime, Thus Aiding Republican Cause

WASHINGTON—Eleven years ago Harry S. Truman was starting his career in the White House. He was a humble man, awed by the responsibilities of his office. He reached a high degree of popularity because he seemed to be interested in the public welfare rather than in politics.

But ambition soon seized him, and he began to listen to and accept as gospel what politicians and organization bosses told him. He dispensed favors to his cronies and made a sorry record in allowing important officials in the Internal Revenue Department, which collects the nation's taxes, to go unpunished for their misdeeds.

Out of this and other errors came the 1952 campaign cry of the "Mess in Washington." One of the biggest complaints was about the corruption in the different departments of government where favors were given to special interests—even to the point of quashing prosecutions.

Today, Mr. Truman is trying a comeback. He has taken to the stump, assuming that the American people have forgotten why they voted so overwhelmingly against his administration in November, 1952.

For three years, the Democrats have had a chance to divert the attention of the public from the mistakes of the past, but now Mr. Truman, fortunately for the Republican strategists, is out making speeches stirring up memories of "Trumanism" and all that it connotes. Thus, the former President in his latest speech proudly boasts:

"I know what I am talking about. I had to fire some pretty important people while I was President."

Who were those "important people?" Certainly, Henry Wallace was one of them, and the whole truth about that episode wasn't revealed at that time. Mr. Truman claimed he hadn't approved a speech by Mr. Wallace delivered in New York at Madison Square Garden. But Mr. Wallace now testifies that Mr. Truman heard the speech read to him paragraph by paragraph and did approve.

Another important person "fired" was Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Here was a man who had served his country brilliantly in World War II and was making a wonderful record in handling the postwar problems in Japan. This was apart from the matters in controversy in Korea. Yet such a distinguished servant of the people was fired without so much as the courtesy of an advance notification. Gen. MacArthur found out about his dismissal from a radio announcement.

Mr. Truman was defiant of all rules of government as well as courtesy. He believed in one-man government. Early in 1952 he ordered the entire steel industry seized, although there was not a single statute permitting it. The Supreme Court later denounced the action as a violation of the Constitution.

MR. TRUMAN in boasting in his speech about how he fired "important people" was advising Mr. Eisenhower to fire Secretary of Agriculture Benson. But the difference is that President Eisenhower recognizes sincerity and honesty and doesn't feel that Mr. Benson should be fired for his policies unless they are proved wrong. The White House is supporting the Benson policies.

MORE SPEECHES by Mr. Truman will be helpful to the Republicans, because they will awaken memories of what the Truman administration stood for. The President's press secretary, James Hagerly, speaking for Mr. Eisenhower, commented: "I don't believe that Mr. Truman by his own standards can recognize an accomplishment when he sees it."

There was a time when Mr. Truman was humble, but today he believes in "give 'em Hell" speeches. He misjudges the intelligence of the electorate if he thinks such a technique will be effective for the Democrats against Dwight Eisenhower, whose sincerity and honesty have so favorably impressed the American people.

Arson, Old Lace and High-Button Shoes

WASHINGTON—Irida Marie Marks, the little old lady who caused a temporary sensation last week with her performance of arson and old lace at the White House, might still be scattering lighted matches around—except for a pair of black high-button shoes.

Mrs. Marks left a trail of neat, little fires as she wandered through the White House and its adjacent executive offices. However, no one gave the sweet, inconspicuous old lady a second glance. While guards snuffed out the first blaze in a White House overstuffed chair, she slipped off in the excitement, undetected and unsuspected.

Only eyewitness in the case happened to be present when Mrs. Marks set her second fire in a ladies' room. But all the witness saw of Mrs. Marks was her black, high-button shoes under a stall.

By this time, the Secret Service, FBI, and General Services Administration had been called in on the case. GSA gumshoes took over the search in the Executive offices Building, which comes under their jurisdiction.

With the high-button shoes as the only clue, they began looking for the type of person who might wear them. A lady investigator, summoned to the scene after the fire in the ladies' room, spotted Mrs. Marks. A close peek was taken at her shoes, and she was promptly arrested.

Note: Mrs. Marks continued to give investigators a hot time while she was being questioned. In between answers, she calmly set two more fires by lighting wadded tissue paper.

IT WASN'T supposed to leak out, but Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey tacitly admitted he played politics by exempting farmers from the federal gas tax.

In the past, Humphrey had opposed the exemption for farmers which will cost the Treasury (and save the farmers) an estimated $60,000,000 a year. Since this is an election year, however, Humphrey suddenly changed his mind. He actively campaigned for the exemption, which was passed by Congress and signed by the President a few days ago.

Meanwhile, Humphrey's testimony behind closed doors of the House Ways and Means Committee has never been made public. At that time, Virginia's Congressman Burr Harrison asked the Treasury Secretary why he suddenly wanted to lift the gasoline tax on farmers.

Humphrey started to reply, then stopped abruptly. A sly smile spread across his face, and he began to laugh. The congressman, seeing the politics in his smile, joined him in knowing laughter.

MALCOLM EPLEY

Are Non-Crossfiling Democrats Sacrificing a Real Advantage?

POSSIBLY nowhere in the country is Democratic disinclination to crossfile so marked as in the Long Beach area. In the three partisan contests here, only one Democrat sought to crossfile, and he has been tentatively ruled off the GOP ballot.

Are these Democrats, who have decided against crossfiling "on principle," sacrificing any real advantage for the sake of principle? That's an interesting question for political students as the 1956 primary election campaign gets under way.

The apparent purpose of crossfiling is to attempt to win both party nominations, thus saving the expense and effort of a general election campaign in the fall.

But many candidates crossfile without any real hope of winning the nomination of the party with which they are not affiliated. The practical objective in such cases is to develop, in the spring campaign, a following in the "other party" which will "stick" through the general election campaign.

DEMOCRATIC Candidates Raymond C. Simpson, who is running for Congress, and Coy Sanders, Paul Strader and Danny Brice, who seek Assembly posts, have foregone the chance to work for Republican votes in the primary. (Richard Nussell, a fourth Democrat Assembly candidate in the area, would like to crossfile, but may be kept off the GOP ballot on the grounds of an insufficient filing petition.)

Simpson, in a public statement relative to his campaign, explained that he is not crossfiling because he does not believe in the crossfiling system. A man should stand on the principles for which he believes, he said. Similar motives were indicated by the other non-crossfiling Democrats here.

In previous years, some Democrats who expressed themselves as opposed in principle to crossfiling, nevertheless crossfiled, stating that so long as the law was on their side they might as well take advantage of it.

Possibly the local Democrats running this year do not feel they are yielding up any great advantage. The incumbents—Congressman Craig Hosmer and Assemblymen Herbert Klocke and W. S. Grant—are firmly entrenched Republican office holders, and there are no signs of serious dissatisfaction with them among Republicans. Thus there is little chance that a crossfiling Democrat could threaten any of these incumbents in the GOP side of the primary.

On the other hand, by failing to crossfile, the Democratic candidates have virtually eliminated the necessity for Republican candidates to campaign in their own party in the primary period. The Republicans can concentrate on winning Democratic votes, inasmuch as the three of them have crossfiled.

THE LONG BEACH Democrats who have achieved crossfiling this year can say, at least, that they are going along with declared Democratic party sentiment on the subject. Much of the opposition to the crossfiling principle has come from Democratic sources, and recently the California Democratic Council, in session at Fresno, passed another resolution urging the abolishment of crossfiling.

One suspects that there is something more than mere principle involved in the opposition among strong Democratic partisans to the crossfiling idea. Crossfiling has tended to keep incumbents in office and, over the years, incumbents have been largely in the Republican category. If crossfiling had worked so well in behalf of Democrats, the Democratic opinion of the system might be different than it is.

There's another angle that makes crossfiling more appealing to GOP partisans than Democratic. In California, registered Democrats have shown a marked tendency toward independence of the party line in their voting. That is plainly shown in the fact that Republicans hold the lion's share of state and Congressional offices, whereas the Democratic party has a substantial edge in registration figures. In California, it seems Republicans vote Republican, while some Democrats vote Democratic and some vote Republican.

THIS MEANS that a crossfiling Republican has more hope of success, seeking Democratic votes, than does a crossfiling Democrat seeking GOP votes.

So, for practical reasons as well as principle, Democrats have developed a dislike for the crossfiling system. Local Democratic candidates have decided to demonstrate that dislike in a realistic way. The election returns will show how wise were their decisions.

TOWN MEETING

Area Should Get What It Pays for

TO THE EDITOR: You can't get something for nothing.

Those who question the wisdom of incorporation for Garden Grove are trying to use this statement as an argument against home rule.

Certainly no one who favors incorporation is trying to say we will get something for nothing.

But Garden Grove, as a city, would get considerable money that Garden Grove, as an unincorporated county territory, is not entitled to. Also many services can be provided more efficiently and economically under city government.

Under the California tax system, the state collects certain taxes as a convenience to cities and counties. It then distributes the revenue. If you have a city, you get it—but if you are unincorporated, you don't get a dime.

No, you can't get something for nothing. But you certainly should get what you pay for.

Safety Council Thanks Klockiem

TO THE EDITOR: We think the public will be keenly interested in the untiring efforts of Assemblyman Herbert Klockiem in securing the passage of his bill canceling a state use tax which had been assessed on automobiles loaned to schools for driver training purposes.

This duplicate use tax was a barrier to automobile dealers lending cars to schools and then paying another similar tax when the car was received back and sold. Dealers are now willing to co-operate. In states where driver training has been taken on by school systems, accidents and deaths on streets and highways have been reduced 50 per cent.

Nothing else can so substantially contribute to safer streets and highways. The special thanks of the Long Beach Safety Council go to Assemblyman Klockiem for his efforts in behalf of safety.

Piresky's View on Comic Strip Backed

TO THE EDITOR: I imagine many of your readers are wondering why Dr. Piresky took the trouble to challenge the authenticity of statements made about asthma in the comic strip, "Dr. Guy Bennett."

Comics are read for amusement, but no disease or reference to a disease should be taken lightly.

With due regard to Dr. Pettit, the eminent doctor who writes the script for this comic strip—his qualifications as a reputable doctor are unquestioned—may I point out that he is not an allergy specialist.

DR. PITESKY, on the other hand, is a highly-respected and well-recommended allergy specialist. He has devoted many years of study, research and practice in his chosen field. He has helped many patients, which means more to me than capital letters after a doctor's name.

I am sure that Dr. Pitesky has as many, if not more, references of good schools and associations to his credit as Dr. Pettit. He is to be commended for taking time out to let the public know his views on this question.

Pleased With Ding Cartoon Series

TO THE EDITOR: I am glad to note your series of "Ding" editorial cartoons on the Sunday editorial page.

I worked for the Des Moines Register and Tribune 1927 to 1932 and knew Ding very well. He lived in Des Moines, and 117 of the largest dailies in the country reproduced his cartoons daily.

Ding made a trip to Russia and got in places where no other westerner had been. When he got back, he drew cartoons of what he saw in Russia. They were a great journalistic feat and attraction.

Did Pro Side Ruin Election Chances?

TO THE EDITOR:

On April 17 Garden Grove will vote on the question of incorporation. This is one of the most bitterly contested problems Orange County has experienced.

Both pros and cons are in an all-out contest to win. But the pros spoiled their chance of winning when they included some 3,000 acres of outlying or fringe areas within their proposed corporate limits, regardless of owners' protests. They should have been satisfied with prevailing natural boundaries.

We taxpayers in these areas are taking a dim view of having taxes increased through incorporation. How do the proponents of incorporation expect to run municipal affairs without additional city taxes? Taxes will be much higher, despite all the vague statements and promotional guesswork to the contrary. I say to the voter: Think it over.

CALIFORNIA'S GARDEN HOMES IN SUBURBAN SANTA ANA

NEW BANK FRONT

Architect's sketch depicts facade of California Bank's Long Beach office, 129 E. Broadway, when remodeling and enlargement program is completed next November. Space at the west side of building, formerly occupied by Western Union, is being added, the facade extending across the new addition. Main entrance will be enlarged and a second entrance installed at the rear of the lobby leading from the adjacent parking lot.

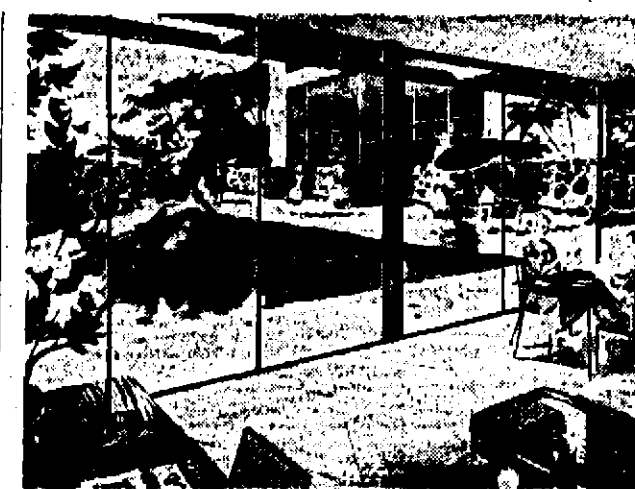

Royal Palms Apartments to Have Heated Swim Pool

Addition of a heated swimming pool and a social lounge to the recreation facilities of the Royal Palms apartments—to be built at First and Atlantic Ave., in downtown Long Beach—was announced.

Located on the street level of the 12-story structure, the pool will be surrounded by a wide patio sun deck, and will be sheltered by a colorful wall of natural stone. The lounge will be tastefully furnished to serve as a social center for the Royal Palms residents, and its sliding glass doors will overlook the pool area.

Described as "a landmark of modern living for Long Beach," the Royal Palms will contain 164 deluxe 1 and 2-bedroom apartments. It is organized on a mutual ownership plan, with the residents all having equal ownership and control of the corporation that will construct, own and operate the building.

"SURVEYS OF HOUSING preferences in the Long Beach area emphasize that more and more adult couples want the convenience of a modern downtown apartment, particularly one that is near the ocean," according to E. T. Moore, of Moore Realty, sales agents. "Royal Palms is planned to meet that demand, and we are especially fortunate in having obtained an ideal site that is only a few minutes from the city's principal shopping, church and recreation centers. The design of the structure brings a fine view into every apartment."

FOR APARTMENT BUYERS

This lounge section and heated swimming pool will be for the use of dwellers in the Royal Palms Apartments now selling at First and Atlantic Ave.

There are two purchase plans for the Royal Palms apartments—all cash or F.H.A. terms.

The Royal Palms is the first Class "A" multi-story mutually-owned apartment development on the West Coast to receive an F.H.A. commitment, and it is anticipated that application for mortgage insurance will be made under terms of this commitment. All plans, engineering, construction, financing arrangements, and schedule of charges to the owner-occupants are subject to F.H.A. approval under the terms of this commitment.

Bryant Now President of Auto Agency

At the annual meeting of Glenn E. Thomas Co., W. G. (Bill) Bryant was elected president, replacing Glenn Thomas, who becomes chairman of the board of the pioneer Long Beach automobile firm.

Bryant, who recently served as president of the Los Angeles County Dodge Dealers Association, has been with the Thomas organization since 1940. Previously he was associated with a prominent Los Angeles automotive agency.

Lamont Davis, Thomas sales manager, was elected vice president, the post formerly held by Bryant. Davis, a native of Utah, has been with the firm since immediately after leaving the Air Force in which he served during World War II.

Re-elected secretary-treasurer at the meeting was Guy Bergeron who has just completed his 33rd year of continuous association with the local Dodge-Plymouth agency.

Another Thomas director, Ralph Scott, is service superintendent for the firm.

Real Estate Club Will Hear Wildey

The North Long Beach Real Estate Club will meet April 19, at 8 o'clock for breakfast at Mayo's Cafe, 5935 Cherry Ave. Doc Givens, program chairman, will introduce the speaker, Attorney H. Leslie Wildey, a former deputy district attorney in Los Angeles County, for 20 years. He will give his observations from his round-the-world tour, highlighting conditions in India, Israel and Egypt.

PLAN CONFERENCE

An all-day educational and sales conference will be sponsored by the California Real Estate Association and the Long Beach Realty Board Friday at Morgan Hall, 815 Locust Ave. Shown planning the big conference are, left to right, seated: Morris Holmquist, president, Long Beach Board; Burt Smith, vice president, CREA; Max Livoni, chairman. Standing: Burt Adema, vice president, Long Beach Board; L. A. Martin, vice president, Long Beach Board; Dean C. Davisson, secretary-manager, Long Beach Board.

IN HALECREST UNIT

This is one of the models the Hale Co. is offering in Halecrest Heritage Estates. They are priced from $14,950.

Seclusion Offered in Heritage Estates

An exclusive residential area, hushed and quiet, yet only minutes from schools, shopping centers, and business districts, is what the Halecrest Heritage Estates, in Buena Co. developments, offer. The quality of construction, homes, and landscaping is more than ever in evidence at The Hale Co., prominent Halecrest Heritage Estates, Dis-Southland developer. Heritage's distinctive design marks the many Estates offers suburban seclusion, different models, and the luxury for the family that dislikes the hurried appointments of each and every home far exceed what is ordinarily expected in moderately priced homes.

PRICED FROM $14,850, the down payment for veterans is only $299 plus normal impounds, with monthly payments as low as $74.24. For non-veterans the down payment is only $999, with equally low monthly payments. "Privacy-insured" lots are a feature of Halecrest Heritage Estates, located on Western Avenue at Lincoln, approximately one-half mile south of Knott's Berry Farm, yet just minutes from major freeways.

All the essentials of gracious living are included in every Halecrest Heritage Estates home, plus modern labor-saving, built-in appliances that make for happy, healthy home living. The 3 and 4-bedroom homes, all with two-car garages, feature built-in Western-Holly range and oven, built-in Westinghouse dishwasher and built-in washer-dryer as well as the Waste-King garbage disposer.

The Hale Co. has prepared a unique, colorful brochure that pictorially describes the advantages of living at Heritage Estates, which may be obtained without cost by writing The Hale Company, 1777 West Lincoln Avenue, Anaheim, California.

Accountants Meet Wednesday

The Long Beach Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants will hold its monthly dinner meeting Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. at the Lafayette Hotel. The meeting will be presided over by Fred W. Mill, chapter president and division controller and assistant secretary of the National Supply Co., Torrance. "Management vs. Accounting Approach" will be the topic of the speaker, Norman H. Gross, CPA, partner in the certified public accounting firm of Pritikin, Finkel & Co., Beverly Hills. An authority and expert in management consulting, marketing, and professional background covers a wide range of activity. Including 3 years as assistant controller of Boeing Aircraft Co., special work with the federal government, president of an automatic packaging machinery company, and several years in the public accounting and management consulting fields.

Big Buying Rush for Aldon Home

Introduction last weekend of two new traditional styled model homes to the already impressive display at Buena Plaza, bringing the total to 9, of which 7 are fully furnished, resulted in one of the best 7-day sales periods in many months in the residential community, according to officials of the Aldon Construction Co.

"Opening of these models, in addition to the highly diversified display of modern styled dwellings, brought out crowds of new high levels," a spokesman said yesterday.

"The 9-home display will, of course, continue this weekend, and daily and Sunday hereafter, until the final unit of 250 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes are sold—and they are going fast. The public has learned that these

Orangewood Manor Homes Nearly Gone

There are only a few homes remaining in Orangewood Manor. The balance are offering special financing which permits veterans to move in with no cash needed. It was reported by Thomas Helt, spokesman for the McCarthy Co., sales agents for this popular Garden Grove development.

Among the many popular features in Orangewood Manor are kitchens with Roper gas ranges in pastel colors that match the Columbia steel cabinets; real fireplaces, and living rooms with ski-view walls of glass offer popular indoor-outdoor living. Big patios feature built-in barbecues.

Other custom features include baths with Zolotone walls and asphalt tile flooring. Thermator electric bath heaters, stall showers and standard colored plumbing fixtures; forced air heating. Pioneer 30-gallon water heaters, resilient cork tile flooring, walls of genuine lath and plaster, rock-wool insulation, weatherstripping on exterior doors, heavy rock roofs in five decorator colors, and exteriors of California redwood siding.

From Long Beach, visitors are directed to drive out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) and turn north on Magnolia. From Los Angeles, take the Santa Ana Freeway, turn south on Magnolia and continue 4 miles to Orangewood Manor.

agent E. "Billy" Hamburg, the last of the Aldon-Buena Plaza homes are being sold to vets on terms of nothing down but costs and impounds and monthly payments of $68.87 a month for principal and interest—described by sales representatives as "the lowest terms in Orange County for homes in this category." Non-vets may buy on terms as low as $990 down, plus costs and impounds.

Now nearing completion as a $50,000,000, 2100-home planned community, Buena Plaza features thermostat-controlled forced air heating, sliding walls of glass linking living rooms to outdoor living, custom-designed fireplaces of brick or aluminums with raised hearth, Higgins oak block floors, big two-car garages and other luxury items and appointments.

IN BUENA PLAZA

Typified above are the new four-bedroom, two-bath homes being offered by Aldon Construction Co. at Buena Plaza in Buena Park. Displayed are seven furnished model homes on La Palma Ave., east of Miller St.

Sales of Pianos Showing Big Gain
CHICAGO, Ill. (UPI)—According to 1955 figures released by the National Piano Manufacturers Association, piano sales exceeded those of the previous year. Industry sales in 1955 jumped 18.3 per cent over the previous year. Figures for the same month in 1954 were the greatest since 1927.

Vets Need No Cash to Buy Award Home

Offer of Award Homes, de luxe series, for no cash to move in for veterans brought out the biggest crowds this year to Golden West St. and Garden Grove Blvd. It was announced by the developers, a Volk-McLain Co. "Sales activity reached the highest point of the year to veterans dealing to make no cash down payment, and wishing to pay no cash closing costs or cash impounds," a spokesman stated. Most sales were to veterans seeking immediate occupancy. The no-cash offer expires May 15.

EXCELLENT SELECTION of large, wide lots, preferred location, home exteriors and floor plans is offered veterans. Award Homes, de luxe series for veterans, feature a new, convertible family room. "Our multi-purpose family room is designed to stretch the home by adding flexibility," stated Kenneth Q. Volk and Robert N. McLain. "Located adjacent to the King-size ranch kitchen, and separated from it merely by a food-bar divider, the new family room is a dining area or a play area for children or grownups by day, and becomes a TV room, recreation room or tap room by night. Inspired by expensive homes from Palos Verdes to Bel Air, the family room makes the home look bigger and act bigger."

These Award Homes are sold on GI financing terms, with monthly payments of $61.93. Full price of $12,025 is set for the new three-bedroom and Family Room Award Homes.

SEVEN FURNISHED model homes are open daily till 9 p. m. Patios, exteriors and back yards of model homes are flood-lighted for after-dark viewing.

Veterans reach Award Homes from Los Angeles and the Lakewood area by taking Lakewood Blvd. to the traffic circle, then Highway 101 to 7th St. in Long Beach, then east to Golden West St. Seventh St. becomes Garden Grove Blvd.

Veterans from Long Beach should take 7th St. east to Golden West St., then south to Award Homes. This is half-way between Long Beach and Santa Ana, is located near blue beaches, parks, schools and churches, and is convenient to supermarkets and shopping centers in adjoining Garden Grove. Past buses go to downtown Los Angeles and nearby Lakewood Village. It is on the route of the proposed Santa Ana-Long Beach Freeway.

Award Homes are set on extra-large, wide lots, with a minimum size of 7,200 square feet. Colorful Bermuda roofs have wide eaves and overhang, and are topped with white, red, green or pink crushed rock.

NO CASH FROM VETS

Award Homes, de luxe series for vets, are attracting GIs at Golden West St. and Garden Grove Blvd. No cash down payment, closing costs or impounds, and $61.93 a month buys a three-bedroom and family room home with two baths and two-car garage.

Lower Terms Appealing to Non-Veterans

Non-veteran home-buyers, in increasing numbers, are taking advantage of the low-down-payment opportunity to purchase a new, choice-location home in Unit 3 of Fairview Ranches, Bristol at Fairview in Santa Ana, Frank Chandler of Pioneer Land Co., sales agents, reports. Only a $100 down, plus costs and impounds, is required of non-veterans. Easy F.H.A. terms are available. Qualified veterans may still obtain one of these three-bedroom, two-bath residences for no down, only the usual costs and impounds. Monthly payments for vets start at $65.13, and include principal and interest. To reach Fairview Ranches from Long Beach, take 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Bristol; turn right 2 1/4 miles on Bristol to models at Fairview Ave. in 12 hours after credit approval.

IN GARDEN GROVE

Homestead Gardens New Terms Appeal

A sharp sales upturn was reported last week at Homestead Gardens following introduction of new terms for vets allowing them to move in for only $35 at the residential community on Verano St., just north of Westminster Ave., in Garden Grove.

Other factors drawing large crowds, according to Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents, are the display of furnished model homes and the availability of homes for immediate occupancy. The new played in key industrial centers and business areas within easy access of the development.

Many schools and churches, including the new Catholic St. Columban's Church, are easily accessible from Homestead Gardens, as also are shopping centers, recreational facilities and other conveniences.

The homes have 8-foot sliding glass walls, modern fold doors in some models, wardrobe closet doors, a snack bar in addition to spacious dining room, thermostat-controlled heating, mahogany kitchen cabinets, Waste-King garbage pulverizers, steel casement windows, fiberglass insulation, acoustic ceilings and lath and plaster walls.

Also featured are big 40 to 50-gallon gas water heaters, redwood trimmed exteriors, wide overhanging eaves, gutters and downspouts, modern multi-colored rock roofs and many other items.

Gunn Park Estates Asks Nothing Down From Vets

Announcement of availability and refinement," stated C. A. Hawkinson, sales agent for Southwest Homes, Inc. "Sacrificing frills and non-essentials makes it possible for us to give the highest quality home construction at the lowest possible cost," Hawkinson said.

Non-veterans can buy for as little as $500 down, it was pointed out.

Located off Nicolas Ave. just north of Orangethorpe Ave. in West Fullerton, this unit, No. 6, is two-thirds sold. However, Hawkinson emphasized, there are many choice locations and plans still available.

"WE PROUDLY call them the homes that emphasize quality

IN ANAHEIM

The above attractive exterior exemplifies the many stylings in three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes rising in Wonderland Homes, Ball Rd. and Walnut St., Anaheim. Vets' and non-vets' terms are offered.

Wonderland Homes 'Bargain' Available

Because 12 early buyers failed to establish adequate credit, 12 homes in the initial unit of Wonderland Homes will go on sale this weekend at big savings as compared to homes which will be offered in the soon-to-open second unit. It was announced yesterday by the developers.

"This is a limited opportunity since we have only an even dozen of these homes," a spokesman explained. However, it means that early visitors will be given the chance to save from $1,200 to $1,500.

On a while-they-last basis, the homes are to be sold on nothing down terms to vets, except costs and impounds, and on low monthly budget terms. Their full price is from $12,485 to $13,825. Both VA and FHA terms are available.

Meanwhile, the spokesman pointed out, the Anaheim residential community at the southwest corner of Ball Road and Walnut St. is taking on the look of an established community. A new grade school is now open and 130 families have moved into their new homes.

DESIGNED by William M. Bray, A.T.A. in a wide variety of stylings and in floor plans offering a choice of 3 or 4 bedrooms, all with 2 baths, the homes have many luxury features including living rooms with a complete wall of glass, with sliding glass doors and fixed floor-to-ceiling

Offers Large Homes, Sites

W. L. Farrow & Son, well known for many home building projects, now offer Dale Grove Estates in Garden Grove.

Quality and bottom prices have been the Farrow motto in all projects and is carried out again in the new development.

Dale Grove Estates is not a tract, the firm declares, but is an exclusive area of individually built homes by the Garden Grove builders.

Beautiful 2-bedroom and den homes or 3-bedroom homes are offered, each unique in styling and floor plans in a variety of prices.

PRICED FROM $18,400 to $18,500, the homes at the corner of Sale and Lampson St. are open from 1 to 5 p. m. daily.

The homes are a half mile north of Garden Grove Blvd. and a half mile east of Highway 39.

The company also has a few choice lots in the area. They range in price from $2850 for a 112 by 65 foot site to $3150 for a 104 foot by 70 foot site. Trees, sewers and utilities are in and terms are offered on each.

Heavy Selling Reported

Located in the heart of the fast-growing Orange County area, Harbor Park Estates in Garden Grove is showing fast sales response.

The large homes, on which veterans need no down payment, are priced from $13,625 to $14,700. Vets need nothing down.

Built by the Boorey-Smith Co., the development is located on Chapman Ave. just east of Harbor Blvd.

OFFERED IN EITHER 4-bedroom, 2-bath or 3-bedroom, 2-bath models, the homes are on tree-lined streets. Construction includes genuine plastered interiors, painted and papered walls, colorful stucco exteriors, Roper built-in range and oven and hood and exhaust fan are among the features. The homes have service porches, select hardwood floors and extra wide eave overhangs. There are covered patios, 2-car garages, concrete walks and drives and the front lawns are in. The location is close to new schools and shopping districts, and but 2 miles from Disneyland.

Midwood Luxury Estates in Sunny Hills Half Sold

Midwood Construction Co., which were equipped by General Electric, are wall-hung refrigerators and freezers, built-in ranges and ovens, automatic washers and dryers, automatic dishwashers and garbage disposers, all in such decorator colors as turquoise green, woodtone brown, petal pink and canary yellow.

The new homes have wood burning fireplaces of flintstone, Texas white stone and used brick, as well as having entries and porches of flintstone. All have pre-view sliding aluminum windows, aluminum, sliding glass doors leading to paved patios, planters and veneers of quality materials, ash hardwood paneling in family rooms, select hardwood floors, real marble pullmans and 105,000-BTU forced air heating with thermostat controls.

A COMMUNITY feature are street lights with underground wiring. It was noted. Also appreciated by buyers is the nearness of fine shopping centers, schools, churches, recreational facilities and the location, in Fullerton, of more than 40 industries employing 4500 executives and workers.

Offered in a choice of 12 diversified exteriors and four roomy floor plans, the homes also feature daylight showers, colored bath fixtures, glass tub

Vets Needing California Gardens Only $60 for Herson Home

This weekend marks the first time that vets may move into Walnut Manor customized homes in Anaheim for only $60 with no extras of any kind. Credit approval and weekly wages of $85 or more are the only requirements for immediate occupancy. Low FHA terms are still available to anyone.

Low priced from $13,000 and monthly payments of only $66.60 including principal and interest, these 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath luxury homes have everything including wall-to-wall carpeting in many models," stated Louis Herson, builder.

To reach Walnut Manor go out the Santa Ana Freeway to Walnut St. in Anaheim, then south 1 block to furnished models. Ideally located near schools, churches and the new Broadway Department Store shopping center, Walnut Manor is only one block off the Santa Ana Freeway and just 4 blocks from the proposed Disneyland golf course.

Custom designed lots with sidewalks and street lights on closed off streets provide extra safety and create a park-like atmosphere in this individualized development.

Built for "her," these homes feature dream kitchens with a view, 2 large dining areas, birch

With buyers now able to gain quick occupancy, sales in California Gardens have shown a decided upswing, reports the Don Coleman Co., sales agents.

Since the opening 2 months ago, the homes have shown steady sales, but the past two weeks have been exceptionally heavy since the buyers learned they faced no delay in moving in.

Outstanding features of the homes plus the location in magnificent Garden Grove have made the new unit extremely popular, salesmen say.

The exterior design of the 3- and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes has an innovation comparable to the finest that the home building industry has ever introduced, according to officials of the subdivision. The 21 different and distinct exteriors are richly embellished with hand-tooled shutters, colorful planters and redwood siding.

THE HOMES come completely fenced and landscaped and feature built-in dishwasher, range and oven, range vent hood, built-in convertible hardwood cabinets, wall of glass overlooking entertainment-size patio, sliding door wardrobes, covered Formica sink tops, and pool-size lots.

The homes are of traditional, ranch and contemporary styles and may be purchased by veterans under no down payment, 30-year terms, and are priced from $13,200. The 158-home subdivision is within walking distance of schools, shopping and public transportation.

The 4 furnished models may be reached from Long Beach by driving east on Spring St., which becomes Cerritos, on across Hwy. 39 1 1/2 miles to Cerritos and Gilbert and model homes.

Buena Park Homes Offer No Down, Quick Move-In

An offer to "move in today" with no down payment terms for veterans and low down for non-vets is a featured bonus this week end at Buena Park Homes. The convenient Orange County location makes Buena Park Homes a "must-see" for home buyers, say the developers.

Built by the developers of Lakewood Park, Buena Park Homes feature worth-more construction details that set them apart from the average tract home and make them a sound lifetime investment, salesmen declare. These include solid concrete foundations two feet off the ground, extra heavy 13/16" hardwood flooring, genuine lath and plaster walls, rock wool in-insulation and cedar shingle or built-up gravel roofs.

Built-in appliances in Buena Park Homes include gas range and ovens, kitchen fans, 57,000 BTU floor furnaces, 40-50 gallon water heaters and garbage disposals.

With homes ready for immediate occupancy, veterans who qualify can move in as soon as their loans are processed. Monthly payments are as low as $67.50 per month for vets and $88.00 for non-vets, principal and interest.

Brookhurst Plaza Homes Appealing to Younger Set

Young moderns in Southern California are finding their homes of the future in Brookhurst Plaza where Futura Homes, "designed today for tomorrow's contemporary living" are rapidly being sold, according to Rene Sirrone, sales manager of Walker and Lee, Inc., sales agents for the 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes. Another strong influence in the sale of these homes, be- lieves Sirrone, is the Anaheim lo- cation, in Orange County where Disneyland, Walt Disney's fa- mous amusement center, has al- ready gained wide publicity.

Features of the homes include such luxuries as built-in de luxe Western-Holly oven and gas range, full size wood-burning fireplaces, natural birch cabi- netry and electric exhaust fans in the kitchens, which also are equipped with GE garbage dis- posals and have double compart- ment sinks.

The master bedroom suite in each home has a double sliding Euclid, turn north, cross the Freeway to La Palma, west to Brookhurst and north to the models.

Attractive Color Styling Found in Champagne Home

Outstanding color-coordinated interiors of the new custom-de- signed residences at Champagne Homes in Garden Grove continue to provide a major attraction to home buyers, according to Frank Chandler of Pioneer Land Co., sales agents.

Designed by Smith and Wil- liams, architects who won the 1954 National Award of Merit, new homes feature color-styled interiors by C. Tony Pereira. This color-stylist used soft colors and smooth lines to create the designs that distinguish all areas of these ultra-modern homes.

The "Carousel Room" also continues as an attention-getter at Champagne Homes. This room, transformed from a gar- age room to a play room through the use of Dutch doors, striped wooden valance, clever decor and efficient appliances, may also be put to use as a hobby room, workshop, study, extra bedroom, or simply as a quiet retreat.

The home designed with YOUR FAMILY in mind!

Summer time, and the livin' is easy in Katella Park . . . for the whole family can luxuriate during the wonderful months ahead in these homes that give you time to live! And you really get a bargain! As both land and materials for the second unit of Katella Park, now opening, were bought at 1934 and 1935 prices, when H. Cedric Roberts & Sons made plans for their first and highly successful unit at Katella Park, you get an actual $18,450 house at today's market prices for only $16,450.

For Dad

- The front yard landscaping is done, so you only have the fun of fixing up the patio—your family's outdoor living room.
- The extra large double garage has plenty of room for your work bench and wood storage (or use in the beautiful floor to ceiling your all brick fireplace).
- The TV jack is in and ready to go—another household chore Katella Park saves you.
- The extra-large hot water heater and furnace mean comfort for your family.
- It is only 15 minutes to the nicest beaches in Southern California, over pleasant back roads, so you won't be exhausted from hard driving when you and the family arrive at the beach.
- Many of the custom styled lots have beautiful orange trees.

For Mom

- Six built-in General Electric appliances—range, oven, dish-washer, washer-drier, refrigerator and waste disposer—cut your housekeeping chores in half AND, because they are electric, your kitchen stays cool.
- The separate and new (and now much copied) laundry room is a real time and step saver for you.
- Easy to clean surfaces throughout the house simplify house-work.
- Both the youngsters' bath and the master bath have a tub and shower.
- Hand painted wallpaper, hardwood paneling and carefully selected color schemes make decorating a real joy.
- You are close to markets and both large and small shopping centers.

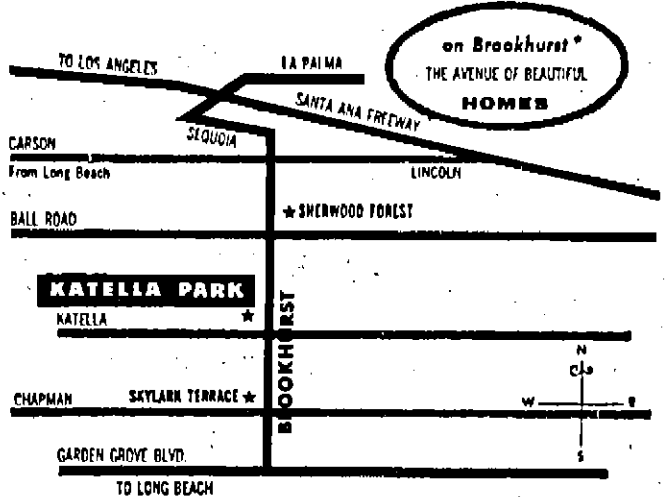

For the Kids

- With four bedrooms, you can be sure of having a room of your own.
- Sliding walls between two of the bedrooms open up to make a playroom big enough for an erector set or rock 'n' roll dancing.
- You can get from the back door directly to the kitchen or your bedroom without going through the living room, so Mother will never scold you for tracking mud in over her good rugs.
- If you're really small fry, Mom can keep her eye on you from the kitchen, living room and the master bedroom, so you can play with safety.
- There's so much storage space you can put all your toys and clothes away, if Mom reminds you.
- Curving, dead end streets guard your safety.

You can choose the terms that suit your family best:

Vets—No down payments, 25 or 30 year loans

Non-vets—Choice of FHA or conventional—Terms with as little as $1500 down.

LAUNDRY ROOM

Katella Park's new idea in laundry rooms has been a favored feature with buyers. The washer-dryer is located in this room, just off the children's bath, plus the linen closets and cupboards for all washing needs to make wash-day as easy as possible for the homemaker.

Buyers Get Right In

Families moving into Crossroads Village, the new home development in the area of El Toro Marine Base, may take immediate possession and pay nothing until close of escrow. Godbey Development Co., builders, have announced.

This means, in effect, that "free rent" is being given to new occupants of the roomy California contemporary homes designed by Cliff Olsen. It frees new home owners from immediate financial outlays.

The Crossroads Village homes are available to veterans on "no down" terms, with only costs and impounds charged. Monthly payments are as low as $63.78, including principal and interest.

An outstanding feature of the 3 and 4-bedroom, den, 2-bath-

The conveniences of the Katella Park homes are attracting many buyers to the second unit, just opened, it was reported. Six built-in and color-matched appliances: range, oven, refrigerator, washer-dryer, dishwasher and waste disposer, make house-keeping chores pleasant and easy for the homemaker, builder H. Cedric Roberts stated. He added that the appliances were all included in the sales price of the homes.

Other conveniences that have pleased Katella Park buyers are the sliding walls between two of the bedrooms, the separate and new idea in a laundry room, the specially planned storage space, and the extra large two-car garage.

KATELLA PARK, designed by architect John Kewell, AIA, was one of the homes chosen for the National Hall of Fame and has been featured in many magazines.

Roberts also pointed out that the landscaping is done in every front yard, so the street looks completed when buyers move in. Partial fencing also is included with the homes.

Buyers have a choice of 2 bedrooms and a den, 3 bedrooms and a den, or 4 bedrooms. All homes have two complete bathrooms. Buyers also have a choice of many color schemes. Luxury features also have been added to the house, such as hardwood panelling in the living-

Says Beverly Gardens Homes Priced Far Below Costs Now

"If we were to duplicate the homes in Beverly Gardens today, we would be forced to add from $1,250 to $2,000 to their purchase price," George J. Heltzer, president of George J. Heltzer and Associates, builder-developers, announced.

"This is the only way we could compensate for the 110 per cent increase in acreage value in Orange County since 1954," he explained, "and pay the rising wage and materials cost, which are still on the uptrend."

Located at Chapman Ave. and West St., and known as "The Beverly Hills of Orange County," models in the 4th unit of Beverly Gardens are featuring exclusively Southern California's first showing of the built-in Western-style double oven with rotisserie and counter range-top, being demonstrated today by motion picture star Donna Reed. Its demonstration is attracting thousands to the development each week, it was noted.

dining rooms, natural hardwood cabinets in the kitchen, hand-painted wallpaper, a floor to ceiling brick fireplace and a door from the master bedroom to the patio.

Katella Park is located on Brookhurst, at Katella Ave. in north Orange County. Buyers can have immediate occupancy if they wish.

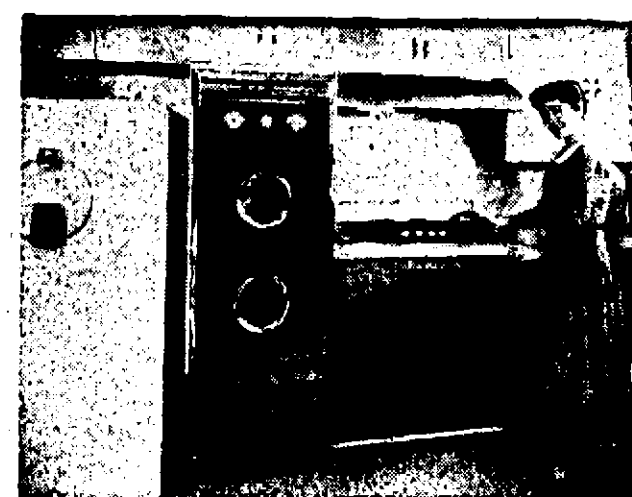

OFFERED IN 33 custom exteriors of both conventional and modern design, flexible family floor plans include both 4 and 3-bedroom models, as well as many with 3 bedrooms and a den. There are also those with big, comfortable family rooms. All have 2 full baths, and extra-sized double garages.

Veterans who qualify can take possession for nothing down, only costs and impounds, according to officials of Walker & Lee, sales agents. Non-vets pay $1700 down on F.I.A. terms, plus impounds and closing costs. Also available to are 4 1/2 per cent loans for any purchaser, Heltzer explained.

Payments are $62.36 including principal and interest. Homes are fully priced from $14,000 to $14,750.

Unit 4 of Beverly Gardens is reached from Los Angeles via the Santa Ana Freeway to the La Palma turnoff; then immediately left on Brookhurst; drive south to Chapman Ave.; then left on Chapman Ave. to West St. and "Gateway to Quality" home show on continuous exhibit from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily.

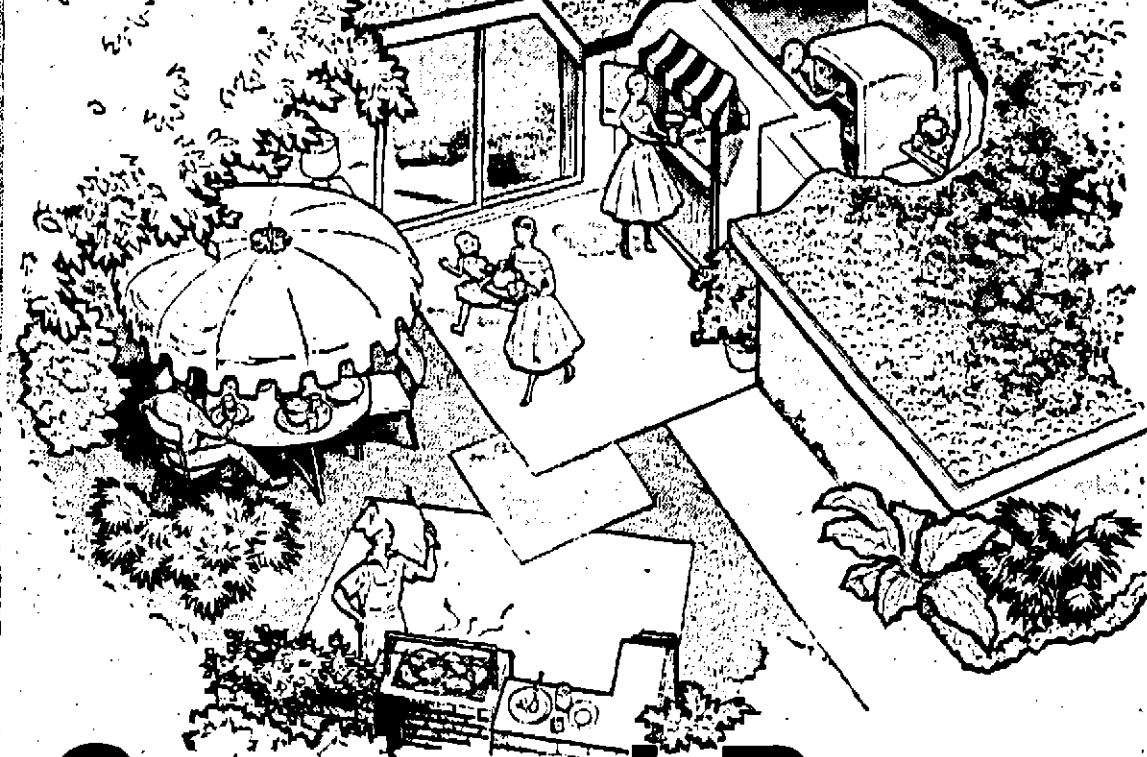

From Long Beach, follow 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to West St., and drive to Chapman Ave.

New Terms on Shamrock Park Homes

Special financing arrangements have been made at Shamrock Park to permit veterans to move in by paying only $39, it was announced by Frank Hart, general sales manager of Walker & Lee, Inc., agents for the Garden Grove development.

In Shamrock Park buyers still can purchase needed appliances, such as refrigerator, range and washer, by having the price applied to their loan. This gives veterans an opportunity to move into a new home with appliances installed for absolutely no additional cash outlay. Monthly payments are $39.50, including principal and interest, with total prices starting at $11,650.

Shamrock Park homes are designed for contemporary living to meet the demand for efficiently planned floor plans and elevations to suit family needs, Hart pointed out, and they include many luxury features usually associated with custom-built homes.

Shamrock Park is reached from Los Angeles and northern points by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor and turning south. From Long Beach, take 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) and turn south at Harbor to Shamrock Park model homes.

NOVEL STYLING

There's a south-of-France charm to the Enchanted Homes development in Garden Grove, a model of which is shown here. Second unit of the unique homes opens today, following sell-out of the first unit in 45 days. The homes are on Magnolia Ave. between Orangewood and Chapman Aves.

New Unit Is Opening in Enchanted Homes

Opening today of the second unit of Enchanted Homes in Garden Grove, 3 weeks ahead of schedule, has been announced by the builders.

The new unit includes all the popular plans and elevations which met astonishing acceptance by the public. Unit 1 of the unique South-of-France styled homes sold out in 45 days, reports the Pioneer Land Co., Sales Agents.

Breaking sharply with the sterner, modern trend, the Enchanted Homes design emphasizes leisurely living. Shake roofs sweep down to wide overhangs; diamondlite windows, liberal exterior brick and redwood add charm.

Cliff Olatton, designer of Enchanted Homes, has backed the pleasant atmosphere with completely modern facilities and appliances. In the Enchanted Kitchen, the housewife will find built-in eye-level gas oven and counter-top range, formica-topped work surfaces, highly-efficient garbage disposer and roomy birch cabinets.

All kinds of surprises await the visitor to an Enchanted Home. There is, for example, a fullsize independent powder room adjacent to the master bedroom. This contains another wash basin in attractive color, mammoth mirror, make-up table and even a shower. It is in addition to the two bathrooms in every model.

CARRYING OUT the leisurely living keynote, the Enchanted Homes have such items as bookcases, interior planting areas, family rooms, etc. Fine hardwood floors are based on two-inch subfloors. Every home has 75,000 BTU forced air heat thermostatically controlled and 50-gallon water heaters. Each home has three interesting bedrooms and charming family room.

Both VA and FHA terms are available with low down payments, and full prices from $15,200 to $15,400, reports the Pioneer Land Company. To reach Enchanted Homes from Los Angeles, take Santa Ana Freeway to Stanton Ave. in mid-Buena Park. Turn right to Orangewood, then left to the beautifully-furnished models, color-coordinated by Dale Fahmy. From Long Beach, go straight out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Stanton Ave., then left to Orangewood, and right to Enchanted Homes.

Analyzing and processing income multi-family dwellings will be discussed by Lawrence Sando, chairman of the Theory and Principles Examining Committee of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers at the meeting of the Long Beach Chapter of the Society of Residential Appraisers Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. at the Lafayette Hotel. Herbert L. V. Coffey is chairman of the program committee.

Sando is a noted lecturer on appraisal techniques at Harvard, Stanford and University of Southern California. Morris Leenow, chief appraiser of the FIIA in Long Beach will preside.

Cinderella HOMES in ANAHEIM

These are the much talked-about homes that have set a new standard of value for all Southern California. If you are truly serious about the purchase of a new home, and you want a home that not only looks and feels a great deal more than its price, but actually is worth far more, then without question you will want to see Cinderella Homes and compare them with all others before making a decision.

The Vandruff brothers, who built Cinderella Homes, worked on the plans for 3 full years before starting construction. The results show the painstaking effort—it is evident in every inch of construction, in every beautifully harmonizing color, in every one of the many expensive custom-home type features.

You will agree that Cinderella Homes are... "THE BUY OF A LIFETIME, IN WHICH YOU WILL WANT TO SPEND A LIFETIME."

JUST A FEW OF THE MANY EXPENSIVE FEATURES...

- Large 72-Foot Lots
- All Central Heat Plans
- Long 4 and 5 Ft. Overhangs on Roofs

BATHROOMS OF BEAUTY

Wide spacious mirrors, handsome glass shower walls, heaters in every bath, vents in the shower to dispel steam. Decorator color coordination of Armstrong inlaid linoleum, Zolstone paint, colored plumbing fixtures, Formica and special tile colors and designs.

THOUGHTFUL PLANNING

This kitchen window that allows TV viewing is a typical example of the considerate designing that allows for every possible comfort and convenience for the home owner.

COLORAMA KITCHENS

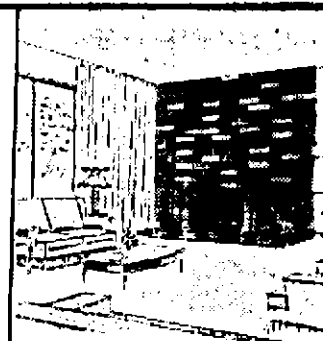

One of California's leading color consultants has arranged every tiny detail in color and design so that the resulting kitchens are both cleverly artistic and completely practical. Colors and designs have been perfectly coordinated in linoleum, Formica, Zolstone paint, hardwood cabinets and wallpaper.

"PERSONALITY" LIVING ROOMS

THE COOKING SCHOOL WITH EVERYTHING

tailor-made tips on food buying and planning

Here's the place to solve your food buying problems. You'll hear valuable advice on what foods to buy, what the real kitchen bargains are. See the experts plan meals around the meat course, and evolve tasty, appetizing and nutritious menus your family will love. You'll learn the tricks of efficient storage, how foods you have on hand can transform a humdrum menu into a sparkling repast. And you'll hear about the amazing variety that is available to you if you know your "P's and Q's" in food planning.

*ultra-smart new recipe book
plus daily gifts*

Yes, it's waiting for you at the cooking school—a brand-new 36-page recipe book. Each one of the dozens of thrilling recipes you'll see at the school is included along with a host of others to whet your family's appetite. There will be meat recipes, recipes for salads, pies, cakes, cookies, quickbreads... plus additional information on cookery lore, kitchen helps, menu planning and the like. It's all yours... get it at the cooking school, where you'll have the chance to receive other daily gifts as well. Don't miss it!

sparkling creations for your kitchen

See for yourself that cookery can be fun! Watch as dozens of different meat dishes are prepared before your eyes. All methods of meat cookery—roasting, broiling, panbroiling, braising, cooking in liquid—will be thoroughly demonstrated in step-by-step manner. And you'll agree that meat cookery can be not only simple but lots of fun. You'll be the talk of the neighborhood with the dozens of new recipes you'll learn at the school.

promenade of exciting features every day

You can count on hours of solid enjoyment at the cooking school. For each big session is jam-packed with fun and facts. A glamorous parade of the food dishes at the close of every session, dramatic and beautiful... a host of exciting features that you too may be asked to take part in... the very latest in kitchen appliances and products, displayed just for you... a lot of laughs, a lot of fun, all together with a wealth of practical information you'll treasure. It's yours at the cooking school.

Handicappers Predict Cobalt Bomb in a Runaway!

Reld, member of the guild advisory board, gets his tickets from Mrs. Joseph W. Mullarky—tickets that will admit him to the races, and later to the turf club for a "stub party," featuring buffet supper and dancing. Nodding their approval of the purchase are Mrs.

will be setting for the "stub party" following the racing program are, left to right, Mrs. Byron Wolfe, Don L. Davis, Mrs. Davis, guild president, and Mrs. William A. Kirk Jr., chairman of the party. Tickets for the day's activities are available to the public.

Members of St. Mary's Hospital Guild are hoping for a fast track on Wednesday, April 25, for that is the date they will sponsor the second annual "A Day at the Races" at the beautiful Los Alamitos Race Course.

Made possible through the cooperation of Frank Vessels, owner of the course, who is turning over the gate receipts to the Guild, this promises to be an outstanding event. Post time will be 1:30 p. m. and following the races a gay party will take place in the Turf Club. The event this year is of special significance for it is the means through which the purchase of the cobalt bomb for St. Mary's Hospital will be made possible. This undertaking is of such large scope that it will require two years effort on the part of the Guild to meet the cost.

The cobalt bomb, a scientific device for the high voltage X-ray treatment of cancers and other malignant tumors, has already been ordered for St. Mary's Hospital and will be received within the year. This is the first cobalt bomb to be installed in the Long Beach area, and it will have an over-all cost of $50,000. It represents a recent advance in the treatment of cancer by which patients may be treated with none of the unpleasant after effects now experienced with the use of deep X-ray therapy. To date those patients in the Long Beach area requiring this type of treatment have had to travel to Los Angeles. The installation of the cobalt bomb at St. Mary's Hospital will greatly benefit the entire community.

St. Mary's Hospital Guild was organized in 1935 for the pur-

Philharmonic Finale at Concert Hall

For the final concert of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra to be in Concert Hall Friday, Alfred Wallenstein has chosen a program comprised of shorter works of both classic and contemporary composers.

Donald Gramm, young bass-baritone from the New York City Center Opera Co., whose press notices have been overwhelmingly enthusiastic, will appear as soloist with the orchestra in two groups of arias. Wallenstein will open the program with Brahms' "Variations on a Theme of Haydn," and has included two movements from the American composer Paul Creston's second symphony, "Introduction and Song," and "Interlude and Dance." While he comes under the category of a contemporary composer, Creston's works are melodic and easy to listen to, with little in the way of dissonances which mark so much so-called "modern" music. The popular Suite No. 2 from Richard Strauss's opera "Der Rosenkavalier" will conclude the program.

Donald Gramm will sing two Mozart arias, "In dies en hell'gen Hallen," from the "Magic Flute," and "Non piu andrai" from the "Marriage of Figaro." His other group will include three selections from Berlioz' "Damnation of Faust," "Song of the Flea," "Mephisto's Air" and "Mephisto's Serenade."

Tickets are available for this concert at Humphreys.

Anniversary Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Tony R. Coutts of 261 E. 60th St., entertained a group of friends on Saturday in celebration of their 30th wedding anniversary. The group enjoyed a dinner party at Apple Valley Steak House, and later a performance of "The Seven Year Itch" at the Theatre.

On hand to extend anniversary congratulations to the Coutts were Mr. and Mrs. Adam Folman of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wells, Mrs. Ruth Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Popham and Mr. and Mrs. James Burkett and their daughter, Irene Coutts, all of Long Beach.

Symphony Juniors Fete New Board

The lovely Palos Verdes home of Mrs. Gordon Shawner was setting for a recent board meeting of Symphony Juniors with newly elected officers as honor guests.

Hostesses were Misses Stanford Church, LeRoy Carlisle, Gordon Shawner Jr., Ray Parker, Orville Evans, Marshall Julian and William Nesbitt.

New members were voted upon during a business session led by Mrs. Edward Killingsworth, and plans also were made for installation of new officers April 28 at the Chandelier. Mrs. Church will take office as president.

MEMBERS of St. Mary's Hospital Guild receive advice on checking entries as they prepare for their second annual "Day at the Races" April 25 at Los Alamitos Race Course. Proceeds from the day will go toward the purchase of a cobalt bomb for St. Mary's Hospital here. Frank Vessels Jr., owner of the Los Alamitos Race Course, gives his expert advice to Mrs. John Burrell, center, and Mrs. Herbert E. Walte, member of the guild advisory board. Tickets are available from members or at Humphreys Ticket Office.

Plans Under Way for Beauty Pageant Opening Ceremony

Tickets will go on sale Monday for the opening ceremonies of the fifth annual Miss Universe Beauty Pageant scheduled at Veterans Memorial Stadium on July 14.

WCC Slates All-Day Meet

The all-day session of the Woman's City Club will open Friday at 10 a.m. in Morgan Hall with Mrs. James P. Manning, federation secretary, presiding. Mrs. George Baldwin, Bible chairman, will present the program.

Nominations for club officers will open at 10:30 a.m. and will continue until 30 minutes after club convenes. Mrs. P. L. Barnes, parliamentarian, will be in charge.

Luncheon at noon will be in the South American Room under the direction of Mrs. Luke Gunther, chairman, and her committee.

In recognition of Public School Week, John W. Wilson, principal of Jordan High School, will be guest speaker for current events during the afternoon session.

The Jordan High School music section and the A Capella Choir, under the direction of Carl Robertson, will present a program of excerpts from their spring show. On the same program will be Robert Dixon, orchestra leader, with his young instrumental students.

Among those scheduled to attend is Mrs. Albert A. Carey, auxiliary president-elect, whose term of office begins in June prior to the benefit ceremonies of the Miss Universe Pageant.

Oscar Melnhardt, executive producer of the International Beauty Congress that will attract delegates from more than 40 nations and 42 states, will report on the program being planned to open the pageantry.

"It will be a show with appeal for the entire family at all age levels that will be climaxed by a gigantic fireworks display," he said. "Furthermore, it will feature stars from all segments of the entertainment world including stage, screen and video."

Mrs. Moore and her ticket committee have pledged to sell out the stadium that seats 12,000 persons well in advance of the July 14 program.

Mrs. Slaughter reports that the sale of tickets will bring benefits to the Children's Memorial Hospital, which receives vast resources annually from activities of the auxiliary.

Wild Waves

By IOLA MASTERSON

Which Joker slipped the Mickey Finn in our week's glass of weather? Who's the culprit who dreamed up this January in April stuff? Working their own form of magic voodoo against the return of any such drippliness are four smooth hostesses who decided to pop invitations in the mail for a just-before-summertime party on May 3. Obviously no weather man would dare create rain in the face of that.

Hostesses-to-be are Margaret Chase, Jean Plimpton, Ina Harris and Claire Dingler, who have bidden their Peninsula friends to a luncheon and bridge at the Hawaiian Restaurant. In keeping with the easy going spirit of their "homeland" in the east end of town and with the party locale, the affair will be informal and gay. Smart invitations with a tapa cloth design, told about 80 friends to come and have fun.

Bravest men in town—at least on Thursday at 2 p. m.—will be Reg Dupuy, Bill Six and Kelly Williams. They may have to drape themselves with Dutch courage but nevertheless, to date, they SAY they will be present for the first meeting of University Club members wives at an informal business meeting and coffee affair Thursday in the new clubhouse to plan a whole fistful of future women's activities. It has been suggested they carry an extra large gavel, as presiding officials and the only men present, if they expect to get a word in edgewise. Wives-wise, those at the helm will be Gladie Shelley, Ann Six and Louise McClaughry.

Another University Club affair of the coming week stirring up interest is the spring formal dance and pre-dance dinner (the dinner for members only) which "Mac" Scott is chair-manning for next Saturday night.

We've called morning, noon and night trying to reach "Midge" and Jim Crowley to find out about a trip we heard they plan to make to Europe. Suppose we let the phone ring off the hook and put it out of order? If the trip is on, extensive travelers like the Crowleys are sure to have an interesting itinerary.

This is being written before we left town Friday and if there are any grammarians in the crowd they can go back to bed after that one! Anyway, mid-week we talked to Laura Killingsworth, co-star of the Singers Workshop production this weekend of "Bittersweet," and learned that petite Laura had developed the doggondest head cold in town! With no understudy trained, understand, cast, production crew, et al, have been keeping their fingers crossed so tight their pinkies have turned blue. Even her doctor, if it became necessary, promised to stand in the wings, his fingers crossed, too, with little black bag full of sprays and lozenges. Dah szhow muds go on! Did I?

And speaking of "Bittersweet," you can be sure there was nothing "bitter" about the "sweet" party Friday preceding the performance when first-nights Dorothy and Woody Wilsey asked friends to their 1022 Andrews Dr. home for cocktails and buffet before curtain time. Thus pleasantly involved were Frances and Ray Parker, the Jim Herleys, Mary and Carl Brooks, Phyllis and Fred Walcott, the Norton Eastwoods and Villa and Dean Gilmore.

Clairvoyant citizens anticipating gray skies here took to their heels or their cars, or whatever, and skooted for the desert. Flo and John Brooks were Palm Springites with son Bill and a school chum of his. Orange County spring vacation, unlike ours, was last week. Also glimpsed by a roving cactus friend of ours were Alma and Elmer Decker, who drove down from their mountain place with Elmer's mother for a change of climate. "Cec" and Gerry Willis were involved with weekend sun-fun, too.

Thurlyne Walte, who has the enviable ability to present a tea-time appearance and composure before most people have sampled the first taste from their percolator, has more than proved this ability in the last few weeks. Thurlyne has also proved she's a first rate chauffeur and a doting grandmother, to boot. Since daughter Dorothy and Les Still Jr. had their fourth child (and third girl, little Kathleen by name) Thurlyne has been ferrying the other Still moppets (Still? They're never still!) to and from school on a three times a day schedule driving from her home at the Lafayette to Dorothy and Les' at 3063 E. 1st and back and forth and back again.

Whether they all reached Las Vegas on the same date by design or accident we don't know but one thing that's as sure as the whirl of slot machines in Nevada is that Marnette and Len Peek, Anabel and Ben Parks and Evelyn and Dr. Cal Lauer had a wonderful time there last weekend.

With the old pioneer spirit of, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," a gang of husbands banded together for a series of bridge lessons. And you know what these sly fellows did? Got Pat Gilkey to teach them their favorite hobby just like she teaches their wives! Lesson No. Two occurred at Gil Brown's last Tuesday. Lesson No. Three will take place at Jim Carroll's night after tomorrow. Others involved with the serious business of learning how to beat their wives at bridge are Sam Chase, Howard Lawson, Phil Popplar, Jack Graye, Art Kempster, Harry Schumacher, Les Weed, Bob Bledenhorn, Perry Rutherford, John Wilson and Jerry Peterson. Guess we can look forward to long summer nights filled with the noises of slam! slam! slam!

Understand that Mary Jane Jones had one of those milestone birthdays Thursday but came through it unscathed—pert, pretty and provocative as per usual.

No major assault on nicknames anymore, but from time to time, maybe, a clarifying word or two about names that puzzle or delight. In college they called Odie Wright "Wow." Lower your eyebrows, it's not what you think, just read the complete set of initials for William Odie Wright. The Odie is not a nickname but a family inheritance. Every try to look him up in the phone book? Most people don't realize there's a William that comes first and you can look right on through from A. A. Wright till you're blue in the face before you come to Wm. Odie Wright! And that really constitutes the only complaint we have against this fine fellow!

Miss Donna Jean Fisher

Donna Fisher to Be June Bride of Malcolm Lucas

The betrothal of two popular members of the city's young social set, Miss Donna Jean Fisher and Malcolm Miller Lucas, was announced yesterday at an attractive luncheon in the Victor Hugo. The traditional wedding month, June, has been selected by the couple for their nuptials.

Mrs. George Atherton Fisher of 3500 Gaviota Ave. and Mrs. Robert Lucas of 518 Monrovia Ave., mothers of the affianced pair, greeted guests with the bride-elect at the announcement party.

For the occasion, a spring-like atmosphere was created with arrangements of white gladioli, stock and tulips.

Bestowing best wishes throughout the afternoon were Mrs. Mmes. Hugh Auguston, Audie Ashcraft, Douglas Burroughs, Arnold Dunyon, Dean Greiner, John Henderson, Francis Hertzog Jr., Robert Lintz, Randolph Mitchell, Larry McDowell Jr., Glen Mitchell, Bud Townsend, Louis Walton, Miss Virginia Abell, Alice Berry, Carolee Counts, Pat Campbell, Pat Denny, Mary Halbert, Sharon Hilleary, Mary Kukura, Kathy Jackson, Marilyn Lawson, Suzanne Marichal, Shirley Martin, Eloise Moore, JoAnn Parks, Shirley Swigert, all of this city, and Miss Joyce Palmer of Beverly Hills.

The wedding of Miss Dwan Lael Schad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Henry Schad of Bryan, Ohio, to Alexander Charles Grant Van Dyke of Long Beach, took place Saturday afternoon April 14 at 4 o'clock at Westwood Methodist Church Chapel, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul J. Acker before an assemblage of 150 relatives and friends.

The church was decorated in a profusion of white lilacs, dogwood and greens. Five-inch white satin streamers marked the bridal aisle.

The bride was attended by her sister Miss Janice L. Schad as maid of honor, who was attired in a ballerina-length gown of crisp tissue silk shantung in lilywhite blue. The trim bodice was fashioned with a low scoop neckline, accented with tucked detail and short sleeves. The swirling skirt was augmented with an inserted bow at the back of the gown. A matching blue satin petal toque completed her festive ensemble. She carried a spray of white lilacs. Mrs. Donald Miller acted as matron of honor and wore a matching gown.

The petite bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Cloyd Henry Schad, was an enchanting figure in a chalk white gown of imported lace and nylon tulle over tulle. The bodice was fashioned with a bateau neckline, outlined with a delicate scalloped motif, and short sleeves. Tiny iridescent paillettes embellished the bodice of the gown. The filmy circular skirt of tulle, worn over crinolines, ended in a chapel length train. Her veil fell from a tiny calotte of matching lace. A circular veil of illusion covered the shoulders of her bridal gown. The bride carried a prayer book covered in white satin, which was presented to the bridegroom by the Rev. Perry Austin of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Long Beach in 1933, when he was boy soloist at St. Luke's. She carried white orchids and lilacs of the valley.

Mrs. Richard De Golla of Long Beach, sister of the bridegroom, assisted at the wedding reception by taking charge of the guest book. She wore a suit of soft blue satin with a Hattie Carnegie hat and matching accessories. Other assistants were Misses Marilyn Rousey and Jean Stahl, classmates at the School of Medicine, University of Cincinnati.

Dr. Richard C. De Golla of Long Beach served his brother-in-law as best man. J. Davis Moore of Cincinnati, Martin McHenry of San Mateo, and Louis Boyle of Bay Island, Newport Beach, ushered. Mr. Boyle and Mr. Van Dyke were classmates at Thatcher School at Ojai.

The wedding was followed by a reception at the home of Mrs. Frank Wicker, Westwood, Cincinnati.

Mrs. Schad was attired in a pure silk shantung of soft blue with matching shoes and small hat. She wore a corsage of pink orchids.

Mrs. Van Dyke wore an original model of gray silk Chantilly lace over pure silk tulle with a Christian Dior turban of flesh organza. She wore a corsage of pink orchids.

The couple will spend their honeymoon at Sea Island, Ga., after which they will return to Cincinnati, until June 8 when they both receive their doctorates in medicine from the School of Medicine, University of Cincinnati until June 8 when they will reside in Milwaukee, Wis., for one year where both will serve a year of internship at the Milwaukee County Hospital.

Mrs. E. Max Parkin

Mrs. E. Max Parkin Heads Benefit Unit

An impressive afternoon highlighted with an installation ceremony and a report on numerous philanthropic projects was enjoyed last week by members of Children's Benefit League when they gathered at the Petroleum Club.

Mrs. William Mohler, outgoing leader, presented Mrs. E. Max Parkin who will guide this active group during the next year. Serving with her on the executive board will be Mrs. Robert Gray, vice president; Mrs. Edward Goosman, recording secretary; Mrs. Howard Lawson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. A. Schaefer, financial secretary; Mrs. H. D. Cooke, treasurer; Mrs. William Mohler, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Laban Brewer, historian.

Chairmen of the standing committees are Mrs. Byron Morris, bazaar; Mrs. Carl Young, bridge; Mrs. B. W. Neumaner, cards and stationery; Mrs. J. H. Jeffries Jr., handicraft; Mrs. Fred W. Schaefer, membership; Mrs. E. O. Bemis, philanthropy; Mrs. Arthur Doherty, provisionals; Mrs. Joseph P. Wilson, publicity; Mrs. Robert Cuyler, rummage; Mrs. D. J. Daniel, sewing; Mrs. Noble Mounts, showcase; Mrs. Donald Penrose, social; Mrs. James Buckingham and Mrs. Oliver Eaton, general membership representatives.

New active members who have completed their provisional training were introduced by Mrs. Lawson, provisional chairman. They are Mrs. C. H. Blake, James Buckingham, George A. Candlish, Oliver Eaton, W. P. Ellery, Harvey Galbraith, Leo A. Goodwin, L. E. Gray, Clifton Halliday, Walter Hauptman, W. G. Hein, Earl Hallenbeck, George Jager, J. Malcolm Johnson, Charles Muller, Robert Nicholas, James M. Nold, B. L. Pelt, Thomas K. Shuler, Chester R. Smith and James Trupp.

Mrs. Bemis, philanthropy committee chairman, cited the league's work during the year. Contributions have included $200 per month to the Community Hospital's Children's Clinic; a television set for the pediatrics ward at the hospital; $400 to Sun-Air Foundation; $100 a month for 10 months to provide scholarships at the Exceptional Children's Foundation; $1000 to the March of Dimes; and $10,000 pledged to Community Hospital to provide two children's rooms when the new wing for chronically ill is built. In addition, the league has given aid to many individual cases with hospital fees and operation costs.

Funds for these projects have been obtained at the various benefit events staged by the league: Rummage sales, lunas, Christmas bazaar, silver tea, fashion show and bridge marathons. Members also maintain the Showcase at the hospital where articles donated by members are sold to visitors and patients.

Special Night

Backwards night will be observed Thursday by Degree of Honor Lodge No. 108. Members will meet at 8 p. m. in Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave. Mrs. Virginia Hume will lead the meeting. Mrs. Lena Sloan is in charge of the program.

Ebell Slates Book Reviews

Everett Noonan, lecturer, will present a review of current literature at Ebell Club Monday afternoon. In his reviews, Noonan gives first-hand knowledge of trends, personalities and anecdotes, featuring a selection of at least 15 books of late fiction and non-fiction, telling about those who write them and those who publish them.

Noonan pioneered the field of book reviewing on television in 1950, and late in 1952 was chosen by the great book publishers of America as the leading authority on the west coast to inaugurate their television book program over CBS, for which he received the coveted Peabody Award.

Mrs. Will H. Winston will conduct the business session following luncheon served by Group X, Mrs. William M. Sandison, chairman.

Sunshine Circle

The Dr. Margaret Clark Sunshine Circle will meet Tuesday at Colonial Hall, 10th St. and Locust Ave. After a coffee hour at 12 noon there will be an important business meeting, followed by a social hour of cards.

Travel Hints for Trip to 'Marriage Land'

By ILKA CHASE

Miss Grace Kelly is about to marry her Prince. Another attractive young woman, Miss Margaret Truman, will soon have a ring upon her finger. Debbie Reynolds, thank heaven, is taken care of and we can draw a sigh of relief where the Gaborers are concerned. Now if only our problem-child, Princess Margaret, would become engaged we could relax. In that case, we wouldn't have done badly in the first third of the year.

It is a lovely country you are entering, dear and pretty ladies, but as one who has been that way before and made a reasonably comprehensive study of the experiences of others, may I offer a few small sign posts that may help in the meadows and forests and along the mountain paths?

You see, it is possible to fall slavishly in love with someone whom we may discover, we do not like at all and that way lies despair. That is why I feel that even two people madly in love, when nothing but kisses count might still, in the inevitable lull, try to discover—and before marriage if possible—what the loved one is like out of the embrace—a locale, by the way, where the major part of life is spent. This is not to say that the embrace is not vital. It is. Every one knows that, yet they are very glib in telling you that in marriage physical passion dies quickly. This is not so. The passion can last a long time. It is the patience that frays. The unexpected discovery throws us off balance. I don't mean how is he or she going to behave in a crisis. Don't worry about that. In an average life the crises will probably be few and the behavior of your own loved one no worse than anybody else's.

Does one of you appreciate good food and the other not give a hoot if you are eating boiled hams? Watch out! Nobody wants a glutton but a gourmet is a different thing, and indifference to food can quickly give rise to testiness. Does one of you want to turn out the lights, even if the bill were no consideration at all, simply because you dislike waste and realize that the earth's resources are limited and can never be replaced, and is the other totally indifferent to such expenditure, in fact rather liking it considering it gives a sense of lavishness?

And what about picking up the tab in restaurants when a group of friends are lunching or dining together and no one specifically is the host? Through the years the beau who seemed an openhanded em become pretty exasperating when he insists on paying the check that should rightfully be shared, especially when there is a real need for maintaining a reasonable balance for home expenditures. On the other hand, what might at first seem like endearing prudence when the loved one does not go overboard in paying and tipping can gradually, with familiarity, assume the mangy aspects of stinginess.

Prospect around a bit in the beginning. However, there is one habit of a man's that frankly a lady is hard put to it to learn about before marriage, and that through the years she will simply have to put up with, reminding herself that she, too, doubtless has little idiosyncracies that baffle or irritate her husband, I refer to the length of time gentlemen spend in the bathroom. It is supposed to be women who loll in the tub and take forever to apply their creams and makeup, but the girls are swallows compared to the lads. After considerable research and prolonged interviews with both sexes, I am in a position to impart to young brides the secret of the gentleman's hibernation. They read the comic strips.

How do you feel about the windows being open at night and how about parties? Which one must stay until the last trump and which, after a decent interval of pleasure, likes to go home to bed?

No human being can hedge against every contingency, but a little acquaintance with the heart's idol before the door closes is not a bad idea.

So entranced with the rollicking fun taking place at Fine Arts Center Bunny Rabbit is lingering to participate in the parties this week.

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

Razor blade sales may be expected to fall off in the Long Beach area, as last Wednesday males of Long Beach State College signed up for the 49er Day beard growing contest.

Male chin pieces, and face warmers are expected to be "Big" around the campus until after May 11.

Outside of gaining permission from girl friends and mothers the contest was easy to enter. All the contestants had to do was sign their name, while being scrutinized by a cold-eyed judge who checked to see that none of the prospective Smith brothers got in with an advanced case of 5 o'clock shadow.

To properly celebrate 49er Day, classes will be dismissed at 11 a. m. with costumes, beads, food, talent and contests on tap for the celebrants.

Mo Hutchinson, chairman of the event, has promised all pick and shovels at LBSC, "The best school holiday ever."

Stay at homes at Long Beach State College. Not on your life! It's possible for students to travel to Mexico this summer and receive credit for the trip.

Two trips are available. One will leave Long Beach June 18 and return July 27, and the other will start July 1 and end July 27. The course will consist of two weeks of preliminary study at LBSC, and then cover territory from Guadalajara in the north to Oaxaca in the south, and from Puebla in the east to Acapulco in the west and all points of interest in between.

The tours are under the direction of Oliver P. Johnstone, a LBSC instructor. College credit of six units will be given to those taking the full course.

Total cost of the tour is $350, which includes all transportation, lodgings and meals.

Firsts are still popping up at LBSC. A week ago Friday, the first dance ever sponsored by the freshmen class was held in the 49er gymnasium.

Barbara Dower, fresh proxy and her chairmen worked hard to make the first dance a success. Their efforts were rewarded as a Bermuda clad crowd overflowed the gym and swelled the coffers of the class treasury.

Picnic time is here and the girls at LBSC are taking advantage of it. Latest group to hit gingham cloth, wickerbasket smorgasbord, were the Delta Zeta sorority, and the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

The guys and girls picked out the nut and insect trails of Orange County Park to have their open air banquet last Sunday. The TKE's must of been impressed. "The picnic was great, the food was fabulous, and the girls, terrific."

Long Beach State College's delegation to the model United Nations Conference at Oregon State College returned full of praise for the efficiency with which the whole affair was carried off.

The college spent some $8,000 for the conference, and 700 Oregon college students acted as guides for the conference. The 537 delegates were lodged at fraternities and sororities.

There is a possibility that Long Beach State may host the conference in 1937. Which would be quite a challenge to the International Relations Club of the college.

The LBSC delegation pulled a stunt to get recognition for their country of Brazil that drew chuckles at the conference. Coffee beans were passed out to all the delegates of the other countries with the slogan "When you drink coffee, think of Brazil."

The locals precipitated some discussion when they introduced a resolution calling for an investigation of the Cyprus situation. The delegation from Great Britain walked out of the Assembly.

The Business Education Club of LBSC braved the Friday the 13th jinx, and braved the perils of the open freeway to visit the Kaiser Steel Mill in Fontana.

The combined Newman Clubs of LBSC and LRCC are busy getting ready for the 13th annual Central Pacific Province Convention here in Long Beach.

The local clubs are preparing to host groups from Hawaii, Nevada and California. J. F. Cardinal MacIntyre will speak at a breakfast May 5.

HOLY FAMILY GUILD

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Bernard J. Dolan will be guest speaker at the first annual membership tea to be given by Sisters of the Holy Family Guild in Holy Innocents Hall, 20th and Pasadena, April 20 from 2 to 5 p. m. Among those preparing for the event are (standing, from left) Sister Justina, Mrs. Francis Pickett, Mrs. William Morris and (seated, from left) Mrs. Arthur O'Donnell, chairman for the tea, and Mrs. Casimir T. Banis.—(Staff photo.)

Demo Women in Session Monday Night

Democratic Women's Study Club will have a Springtime benefit canasta-bridge luncheon at noon Monday in Linden Hall with Mrs. Helen Sella as general chairman and Mrs. Margie Weatherford assistant chairman.

Hostesses for the event will be Mrs. John Arnold, Thelma Bostwick, Leroy Bostwick, Ella G. Cook, Roy Dunham, Eugene Franks, Francis H. Gentry, Lillian M. Gland, Lelia B. Gilligan, E. D. Griffin, Virginia Henson, Eleanor Jeffries, Lillian Jones and Clara Kahler.

Also assisting will be Mrs. Ida Lakin, G. Kardakals, Nora Malone, Susan Mills, Francis B. McCall, M. McFadden, Amanda Opsahl, Annie M. Osborne, Marie Ruzicka, Evaline Schall, Clifton D. Tucker, S. C. Young, Misses Myrtle Poulney, Laurene Stevens and Laura Whitmore.

Mrs. Lucian F. Remley will conduct the executive board meeting at 10:30 a. m.

Miss Reynolds in Recital

Saturday afternoon close friends and neighbors gathered in the 3962 Rose Ave. home of Mrs. E. O. Reynolds to enjoy a piano recital given by Mrs. Reynolds's daughter, Janet.

Bidden were Mrs. Charles Dumm, Al Williams, Floyd Ray, Nettie Dreyer, Lora Lamb, John Lischer, Bess Brown, Bill McVey, John Ferguson, Ella Heltz, A. B. Porterfield, Art Miley and Gary Miley, Paul Porterfield and Pamela, Jessie Diver and Miss Jeanne Diver, Mrs. Ivan King assisted in pouring at a social hour following the recital.

Miss Reynolds will present a similar program today for faculty, students and friends at Scripps College where she has studied under Lee Pattison for the past four years.

Women of Moose

A friendship chapter night will be observed Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. by Women of the Moose in Moose Hall. Committee reports will be given.

Kathleen Head Wins BPW District Post

Long an outstanding member of local and district Business and Professional Women's Club circles, Miss Kathleen Head reached a clubdom plateau with her election to the presidency of the Sierra Mar District of BPW. The popular Long Beach woman was elected and installed during the district's two-day convention at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel in Pasadena April 7-8.

Miss Head, an attendance counselor for the Long Beach Public Schools, has been with the school system for 30 years. Typical of her thinking, she originated and has conducted classes in leadership training throughout California for the past four years and has achieved meritorious recognition, both nationally and statewide, in developing leadership qualities in women, not only from the club level but for use in their communities.

In line with her leadership classes the new BPW district president is in San Francisco at the present to conduct a workshop class on leadership training and techniques for the Peninsula District of BPW of San Francisco.

Installed with Miss Head as her official "family" for the year were Craven Douglas of El Segundo, vice president; Agnes Owens of East Los Angeles, secretary; Ruth Haggerty of Downey, treasurer; and Pauline Shartzer of Bellflower, auditor.

Miss Kathleen Head

Miss Evelyn Whitlow, attorney and vice president of the California State Federation of Business and Professional Women, was main guest speaker at the convention. She urged members to give stronger support through their organization to qualified women seeking public office. California clubs are grouped in 11 districts and form the largest state federation of BPW in the United States.

Career Women News Topped by Zontians Election

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Here's a true test of popularity! Re-election to the post of president of a progressive and alert business women's club! That test was passed with flying colors by Vivian Showalter when she was renominated to lead Zonta Club through another year at its annual meeting recently at the Lafayette Hotel. She will be installed at the club's May meeting.

Mrs. Showalter, active in other club areas, is a past president of Margaret Ives Business and Professional Women's Club. Serving with her during her second term will be Lucille Murdock, vice president; Maxine Hill, recording secretary; Daisiana Milliken, corresponding secretary; May Clayton, treasurer; and as a new director, Florence Merriam.

In addition to election, the traditional annual reports were heard. A note of thanks from Mrs. Mary Warner, honorary member of Long Beach Zonta and a resident of the Eastern Star Home in Los Angeles, was read in which she expressed appreciation for the party given in honor of her birthday by Zontians recently.

The evening concluded with an informal birthday party for President Vivian and the presentation of a gift from the members and a birthday cake.

Altrusa Club

Celebrating not only Founder's Day of Altrusa International but the third birthday of the local club as well, Long Beach Altrusians turned out en masse for the dinner meeting Monday at the Lafayette Hotel.

Many guests bidden to the important affair were introduced including Evelyn Sweitzer of Los Angeles, Altrusa's governor-elect for District 11, Ruth Tay, president of Pilot Club; Connie Brown, president of Quota; and Dr. Dorothy Prince, vice president of Zonta Club; and Mary Ridder Hartmann, New York fashion correspondent of the Independent Press-Telegram.

Dr. Ethel West, Altrusa Information Chairman, presented Marie Wells, evening's program chairman who, in turn, gave a resume of the milestones of the big women's service organization since its inception in 1917 as well as a resume of the local club's activities during its existence.

Member Irene Trepanier highlighted the excellent program with the piano solo of her own recently published composition, "City Sketches." Maymie R. Kyrthe, world traveler and authoress, was guest speaker and told a gay tale of her various travels, particularly in Australia. Members found her accounting of Aussie slang particular fun and learned that "tucker" to an Australian means food; a check is called a "docket"; a good pal "Down Under" is a real "cobber"; to pay your own way, a la Dutch treat, is termed a "Yankee shout"; the Aussie version of a hillbilly in their pungent language is a "bush bunny"; a swagman is a tramp; and a "flimsy" is, quite understandably, an air mail letter.

Insurance Women

"Public Relations" was evening's program theme for Insurance Women of Long Beach at their April dinner meeting in the Boulevard Room of the Lafayette Hotel. Corn M. Morgan, chairman, presented Leon Catlin, assistant principal of Wilson High School, who served as moderator for a delightfully informal panel discussion with the four high school exchange students here this year, Sezen Harracl of Turkey, Ernest Muhlendahl and Klaus Adamek of Germany and Erik Christensen of Denmark, participating. It was clear that the four are in agreement that the exchange student program can do more to influence peace and harmony among nations than any other means.

Constance Winkler, vice-president, directed reports of the recent regional convention at Hotel Del Coronado. Kay Garrity, Jane Ann Campbell, Audrey Hood, Hazel Struthers and Reva Stewart presented the reports. Mrs. Gaylord B. Eckles, president, welcomed new members Luella Brewer, Vera N. Clamplitt and Margaret B. Earl. They were introduced by Dorla Jean Tilley.

Desk and Derrick

John L. Redding Jr., field engineer for the Texas Co., will be guest speaker at the April dinner meeting of Desk and Derrick Club Tuesday at the Petroleum Club. His subject will be "Pipe Lining Today" and will follow a hypothetical pipe line operation from "request for bids" on through to ultimate operation. Irene Arnold will present the speaker and make him a member of the "Chain Gang" with the traditional gift of a key chain to guest speakers.

Long Beach BPW Club

Garrett List, assistant manager of the Long Beach branch, Social Security Administration, was guest speaker at the Monday dinner meeting of Long Beach Business and Professional Women's Club at Mottell's Garden Room. He stated that prior to the enactment of the Social Security law in 1935, 53 persons out of 100, due in most part to no fault of their own, became dependent upon charity by the age of 65. In comparison, there are now 101 million people working under the provisions of retirement security. In the past few years amendments, adopted by Congress, have continued to liberalize not only the Social Security benefits but the number of people covered.

He stressed that circumstances vary so greatly among individuals that anyone in doubt should contact the Social Security office to learn their own status.

President Kathryn Campbell conducted the meeting and Eve Tichenor, legislative chairman, introduced the speaker. George Griffith was evening's soloist, accompanied by Belle Marie Marti. They were presented by Cornelia Pollard. Ivy Muchmore was in charge of decorations and, with Dorothy Dalton, served as co-hostess of the meeting.

Miscellaneous Data

Maude McNeill's host of friends and fellow employees at the Department of Motor Vehicles, as well as her many sister club members in Margaret Ives Business and Professional Women's Club have kept the phones busy at St. Mary's assuring themselves that Maude was recuperating nicely from major surgery undergone early in the week. This senior cashier at the Motor Vehicle office here will be up and around in quick order, but in the meantime a card or two might help her pass the time away!

Book Review for Council

Edwin Castagna, head librarian of Long Beach Public Library, will present a review of the much discussed book, "The Freedom to Read" by Paul Blanshard, at the April luncheon meeting of the Long Beach Section, National Council of Jewish Women, Tuesday at 12:15 p.m. at Temple Israel.

An added informative feature will be a five-minute talk by a member of the Voters' Service Bureau of the Long Beach Chapter of the League of Women Voters on "Cross Filing and the June 5 Primary."

At this meeting also, Mrs. Louis Hechtlinger, chairman of the nominating committee, will present the slate of officers for the coming year.

Mrs. Stanley Morris, vice president in charge of membership, will conduct the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Zigmora Harris, president, who will be attending the Western Regional Conference of the National Council of Jewish Women in Seattle.

will be installed president of the El Monte Chapter of Business and Professional Women at ceremonies on April 24.

pose of interpreting hospital needs to the community, to render volunteer services to the hospital and its patients and to provide equipment as the need arises. It now has 80 active members. Under the capable leadership of the president, Mrs. Donnell Davis, the Guild has supplied stretchers for the modern recovery room and bassinets for the up-to-date nursery. A hospitality cart is circulated through the corridors of the hospital five days a week for the convenience of the patients and visitors. Mrs. Russell Johnston is chairman of this volunteer service and Mrs. John M. Clarke is in charge of the committee supplying the cart.

Every detail to make "A Day at the Races" an outstanding social and financial success has been worked out by the ways and means committee, of which Mrs. Frende Combs and Mrs. Vernon Pay are co-chairmen. They have been assisted by Meses. Joseph Mullarky, Robert Thornburgh, Ben Knight, John Burrell and Herbert E. Walte.

Following the races the gala Stab Club party will be held in colorful Los Alamitos Turf Club. So-called because the only admission necessary is the stub of the ticket you've bought for the races, this really is "the party of the year." Elaborate plans for the refreshments and food have been made by Meses. William A. Kirk Jr., Byron Wolfe and Fred Crow.

Strolling accordianists Sylvia Haines and Don Comfort will provide entertainment and later in the evening there will be dancing to the music of Jimmy Whetmore and his band until 11 p. m. These plans have been completed by Meses. Julie Bescoos, Alex Kadavany, Herman H. Ridder, Frank Vessels Jr. and Lon E. Peek.

Tickets may be purchased from any Guild member or at Humphreys Music Co.

Missionary Talk

Rev. T. G. Gohlke, pastor at the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Anaheim and a former missionary in Brazil, will discuss, "Mission in Brazil" at the Wednesday meeting of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League of First Lutheran Church. Covered dish luncheon will be served at noon. Mrs. H. Von Wetter, president, will conduct the meeting, and Mrs. William Cooley is program chairman.

Attention, Mothers

Introducing Woman You'll Want to Know

Some 30 years ago Myrtle Meyer Eldred, with three children tugging at her skirts, sat down to write the first release of her now-famous newspaper column, "YOUR BABY AND MINE," which makes its initial appearance in the Press-Telegram Women's Section on Monday.

She wrote as mother-to-mother; as one, who, from actual experience in her own home, recognized the genuine need among mothers everywhere for someone who would advise them, personally and capably, how to rear their children to healthy, vigorous, normal adulthood.

Throughout the years, Mrs. Eldred has kept intact the chatty, helpful, convincing tone of her articles dealing with the solution of perplexing problems arising in the feeding, behavior, and care of babies and children. In no way does she attempt to give medical advice.

Chiefly, through its daily articles, YOUR BABY AND MINE hopes to acquaint parents with the best thinking that is being done on the subject of child care, feeding and training. It is Mrs. Eldred's pleasant task to keep abreast of new developments in this field and to try to interpret them to her readers in a non-professional manner.

When a mother has an individual problem which she cannot solve by applying these principles, Mrs. Eldred is happy to answer any question which reaches her office with a stamped self-addressed envelope.

To help in answering parental questions on all subjects, she has written a host of leaflets covering every imaginable non-medical subject, which are used to supplement her personal answers, and are available by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Eldred's success is no lucky chance. The study of child development, nursing, dietetics and child psychology has consumed her time and attention since early womanhood. Born in Lincoln, Neb., Mrs. Eldred studied at Chicago University and Columbia Teachers' College, New York City. Later she perfected her study along these same lines at Drake University and the University of Iowa.

For three years she engaged in work in the pediatrics clinic of St. Luke's Hospital in New York City. She is a member of the Child Study Association of New York City and of the National Council of Parent Educators.

Be sure to look for her column Monday on the Press-Telegram Women's Pages.

Miss Carol-Hart Procter

Carol-Hart Procter August Bride-Elect

Of top social interest this morning is the announcement by Mrs. Margery Davis Procter of 4226 Locust Ave. of the engagement of her daughter, Carol-Hart, to John Ray Connors, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Patrick Connors of this city. Wedding vows will be spoken by the popular young pair in August.

Families of the couple were told of the betrothal Easter Sunday, and following this event, Miss Procter revealed the news to Alpha Omicron Pi sorority sisters at UCLA by offering the traditional box of chocolates. Miss Procter is a senior in the school of education at that university.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Poly High School and City College where she was student body treasurer and president of Dussahara. She is the niece of Dr. and Mrs. Rufus A. Davis of this city.

The prospective bridegroom, a senior in the school of engineering at U. of C. at Berkeley, served in the Air Force prior to entering that school.

Carnation Club

Carnation Club plans a card party Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Nellie Lloyd, 344 Colorado Pl. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m. by the hostess, assisted by Mmes. Sadie Cramer and Edna Klingensmith.

Church Dinner

To raise funds for the Women's Association of Second Presbyterian Church, a smorgasbord dinner will take place Thursday from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. in the church at Third St. and Molino Ave. The public is invited to attend.

PEO Meeting

Unaffiliated PEO members and visitors are invited to a meeting of Chapter OL at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Stella Faval, 751-A Dawson Ave. Reservations may be made with the hostess.

Seethalers to Encircle Globe

By VERA WILLIAMS
Long Beach Art Editor

Karl Seethaler, who for 10 years has owned and managed the Long Beach Academy of Art in Britany Garden, his wife, Marguerite, and sons, Johnny, 11, and Eric, 4, leave Wednesday for a two-year trip around the world.

Some 25 of Karl's students who call themselves the Academy League, plan to keep the studio open during his absence.

After visiting museums and galleries in Chicago and New York, the Seethalers will sail from New York on the S. S. United States. They will be in London April 30-May 12, visiting galleries and cathedrals and the English countryside. They will see friends, Maj. and Mrs. Bret Pliske in London, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Brooke in Gloucester. Mrs. Pliske and Brooke were former students here.

They will reach Paris by the middle of May and visit the Louvre and other galleries and cathedrals. In Amsterdam they will see the great Rembrandt shows. (This is Rembrandt Year in Holland, the 350th anniversary of his birth.)

They will reach Frankfurt am Main, Germany, toward the end of May and stay for two or three months. They will have exhibitions there, and will visit friends and relatives and the galleries of Southern Germany including Frankfurt, Stuttgart, Munich, Nuremberg. At Darmstadt they will see Mr. and Mrs. Cecil B. Neth. Neth is on the Stars and Stripes; Mary Neth was a former student here.

They will spend the summer in Salzburg, attend the Music Festival and reach Vienna in late summer.

In June they will be joined by Karl, 22, who now attends Whittier College. The son will become a science student in the University of Vienna.

The family will live in the vicinity (Vienna Woods) for a year or two and from there visit the Mediterranean countries.

In two years they will return to the United States via the Orient.

Miss Judith Cieslak, educational curator of the Art Center, will lecture on "American Artists of Today," illustrated by two films, at the Long Beach Art Assn. meeting at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Municipal Art Center.

Miss Cieslak's art background is international in scope. She studied art history at the University of Minnesota, attended New York University Institute of Fine Arts and toured the art centers of Europe. Her lectures have gained a popular following in local art circles.

Following the program, Art Assn. members will have an opportunity to view a craft exhibit. Refreshments will be served by the hospitality committee.

Joan Berthiaume Lovely Bride

White tulle over taffeta and imported Chantilly lace combined to fashion the charming Cahill original wedding gown worn by Joan Denise Berthiaume for her marriage to Virgil Redwine.

The Rev. James P. Lynch celebrated the 3 p. m. Nuptial Mass April 7 in St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Parents of the newlyweds are Lt. and Mrs. George H. Berthiaume, 1400 E. 37th St. and Mr. and Mrs. Leverette L. Redwine, 4851 Pearce Ave.

The bride wore with her ensemble a beautiful choker strand of cultured pearls and matching pearl drop earrings which her father brought from Japan for her wedding day. A crown of seed pearls and sequins in an original design held her fingertip-length veil of silk illusion. Cascading stephanotis, white lilies and lilies-of-the-valley with a cluster of white orchids formed the bride's bouquet.

For her attendants, Miss Sheila Brisk, maid of honor, and Miss Betty Jo Wade and Sylvia Redwine, the bride selected gowns in glowing shades of coral, softly accented by cascade bouquets of pink tulips and lilies.

Edgar Marrotte performed best man's duties. Guests were seated by Ronald Zink and Jack Lynde.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Wilson High School and Long Beach City College; he now attends Long Beach State College.

After greeting well-wishers

moon in Las Vegas. They will reside at 223 Belmont Ave., Apt. 1.

Sorority Confers Award on Mrs. Arthur B. Green

Word was recently received by Mrs. Arthur B. Green, 4160 Linden Ave., of a national honor bestowed upon her by Gamma Phi Beta sorority. The award, in the form of a printed citation, distinguishes her as one of 13 Gamma Phi Beta alumnae in the country whose names were added to the sorority honor roll.

To achieve placement on the roll, an alumna must have served her sorority actively for at least 15 years and to have given "long, devoted and constructive service to chapter, province and international."

Mrs. Green's affiliation with Gamma Phi Beta began at the University of Nebraska where she was president of her pledge class and later house president.

She organized the first meeting of Long Beach alumnae and was influential in helping the group to be first an association and later a chapter. She has served as president of the local chapter several times, as well as in other capacities.

As Gamma Phi Beta's representative to Long Beach Panhellenic, she served as president one term.

Further afield, Mrs. Green served on the corporation board of the USC chapter and has been chairman of the Southern California Inter-City group. From her post as alumnae secretary for Province VII South, which covers Southern California and Arizona, she became province director, a position she held for four years.

A delegate to several national Gamma Phi conventions, she served as official hostess when the convolve took place on Coronado Island.

In addition to work with her sorority, Mrs. Green has been active in the Assistance League of Long Beach. Recently she became a national officer and is now secretary to the regional committee.

Mrs. Arthur B. Green

Symphony Auxiliary to Preview Concert

At a preview salon of the Long Beach Auxiliary of the Southern California Symphony Assn. Tuesday at 10 a. m. in Assistance League Clubhouse, Mrs. John P. Davis will introduce Jose Rodriguez, who will preview the concert to be given April 20 by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

A European pianist at the age of 9, Rodriguez was soloist with various symphony orchestras until his career was interrupted by military service as an infantry officer in the British Army during World War I. He was a pioneer in the field of serious music broadcasting in the United States and presently is chief editorial writer for a Los Angeles newspaper.

Presiding at the buffet table following the preview will be Mmes. Fritz Brueggemann, Victor A. Mingers and Maurice Rosenbaum who have created a special concert magazine in appreciation of Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra on the eve of their departure for a concert tour of the Far East.

All holders of season tickets to the Long Beach concerts of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra will be welcome guests at the preview salon.

Choral Festival at Wilson High

Wilson High School campus will ring with song Friday afternoon and evening when 1200 music students comprising 15 singing organizations representing 11 high schools in the Southland convene to participate in the fourth bi-annual Wilson choral music festival sponsored by the Southern California Vocal Association.

The festival will include two sessions. The afternoon program will be presented at two o'clock in the auditorium, and will include girls' glee clubs from Rosemead, El Centro, Lynwood and Garden Grove, as well as both the Wilson Senior and Junior girls glee clubs, the latter directed by Miss Alberta Carlson.

A cappella choir appearing in the evening session at 7:30 will be groups from Riverside Poly, Santa Maria, San Diego Point Loma, Long Beach Poly, Lancaster, Garden Grove and Pomona in addition to the Wilson men's glee club directed by Philip D. Haynes. Closing the program as host group will be the Wilson High a cappella choir, under the direction of Philip L. Edithorpe, head of the vocal department at the school and president of the Southern California Vocal Association, who is acting as chairman for the festival.

Outstanding feature of both concerts will be the combined performance of the participating groups. In the afternoon the six girls glee clubs will join to sing the inspiring "White Night" by Elliot, directed by Dr. Charles Hilt, head of the vocal music department at the University of Southern California and recognized authority of choral techniques, who is also acting as an adjudicator for the festival.

In the evening, Rex Hogan, vocal music director at Alhambra High School, senior high vice president of the vocal association and festival adjudicator will direct the 600 voices of the combined choirs performing the majestic and difficult "The Voice of Joy and Health" by Janinaconi. Accompaniments for the massed singing will be played by Miss Kathleen Stewart, Wilson staff accompanist.

Miss Mary Shouse, music supervisor of the Long Beach schools, will lead the singing of the Star Spangled Banner as the opening number, and Wilson High principal, Dr. William E. Keeley, will welcome visiting glee clubs and choirs. Wilson high school choirs and glee clubs will act as hosts to the visiting singers and as ushers at both afternoon and evening events.

Adjudicating the festival, in addition to Dr. Hilt and Rex Hogan, will be Milton Young, director of vocal music at Glendale College.

Afternoon and evening concerts are open to the interested public free of charge. Programs have been printed by Max Morrison, print shop instructor at Wilson.

This Long Beach festival is one of the 12 high school and 12 junior high school festivals, with a combined total of over 20,000 participants from the Southland, sponsored each spring by the Southern California Vocal Association. The association is the professional organization of public school vocal music instructors of the junior high, senior high and college levels in the territory between and including San Diego and Santa Barbara. Aims of the festivals, which are non-competitive, are to promote a greater degree of musicianship through constructive criticism of each individual group by well qualified adjudicators.

Skin Specialist Shows How To Rinse Away Blackheads

"Thrilled and delighted," says Miss Jeanne Hains (left) after demonstration, "Could hardly believe my eyes!" said Miss Gilda D'Ambrasi (center), "It's true! I can't believe it! Where did the blackheads all go?" exclaimed Miss Shirley Stratus (right).

Fast, Easy Treatment now available for home use

by CLAIRE HOFFMAN

NEW YORK, N. Y.—I was one of an audience of truly surprised men, women and teen-agers yesterday, when a leading New York skin specialist demonstrated a new rapid way of removing blackheads. Each demonstration took only 15 minutes—and the results were frankly amazing! Ugly blackheads actually rinsed away and many could be seen on the white cleansing tissues that finished each treatment.

But this wasn't all! The treatment also helped reduce enlarged pores and made rough, muddy complexions look cleaner, clearer and smoother.

Here's what I saw...

Five women and two men were each given three products and told how to use them. The specialist himself did nothing but direct them—it was so easy.

First, he had them cleanse their faces thoroughly. Not with any cream that takes off only surface dirt, but with a scientific laboratory-developed pore cleanser that softens and loosens even the grime that has been caked and cemented into the pores for weeks. It is called Queen Helene's Whipped Cleansing Cream. As it is applied, it liquefies and floats out much of the pore "filth" with its rapid emollient action.

I was amused at the look of amazement on one woman's face as she touched off the cream. The tissue was literally gray with dirt—and she confided to me that she had washed her face before taking part in the demonstration! "I'm convinced that any woman who sees, with her

It was explained this way

A special absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns the cream into a plastic-like masque. As this firms and hardens, its suction action draws on the waste matter in the pores... This, he informed us, was the most important part of the treatment.

they just rinse away!

Complete treatment takes only minutes—produces startling results!

1. APPLY QUEEN HELENE'S WHIPPED CLEANSING CREAM. It liquefies instantly on skin and floats out dirt with emollient action. Wipe off with cleansing tissue.

2. APPLY QUEEN HELENE'S MEDICATED MASQUE. It firms and hardens, drawing out dirt and impurities from the pores.

3. RINSE OFF. In about 10 minutes, rinse off. The masque dissolves in seconds. You'll see blackheads and other impurities come off on the cleansing tissue.

4. FINISH WITH QUEEN HELENE'S PENETRATING ASTRINGENT. This special formula astringent helps close "clogged" pores, tones up complexion, makes skin feel vibrantly fresh and alive.

LOOK IN MIRROR—SEE THE BIG DIFFERENCE!

But don't be satisfied with one treatment—repeat daily until complexion is firm, smooth, and pores are reduced.

Reveals Valuable Complexion Secret

RICHARD ESTLIN of Queen Helene

"Now no woman need despair of getting rid of ugly blackheads that mar an otherwise clear and lovely complexion. For here is a wonderful, simple treatment that gives dramatic proof of what it will do the very first time you use it. Thousands of beauty salons across the country, these days of women have found from $2.50 to $10 for single Queen Helene Treatments. Those who have trusted for years to bring you the very best treatment at a cost of less than 10c each... to yourself at home!"

Walker's guarantee you will be satisfied with results. If not, we'll refund your money and be cheerfully refunded.

TRY TISSUE TEST! First wash face thoroughly, then apply treatment; tissue off... Now you can see... tiny specks of black on your tissue that were once ugly blackheads and imbedded pore dirt.

READ WHAT BEAUTY EDITORS SAY:

"A royal blessing for those who've been bothered and blighted by blackheads."—Ruth Magalee, Women's Editor, BOSTON DAILY RECORD

"When a skin specialist is responsible for a cosmetic line from his private formulas you have something."—Antoinette Donnelly, NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

"Effective way to banish blackheads... If stubborn blackheads bother you, you'll be thrilled in using a brand-new treatment which does wonders toward clearing a disturbed complexion."—BOSTON DAILY GLOBE

"Thanks to a doctor's remarkable discovery comes a scientific three-way skin and beauty treatment that takes only 10 minutes but produces startling results."—BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Rinse away with water

After about 10 minutes, the masques were rinsed away with water. Hot or cold makes no difference—the hardened cream dissolves in seconds. You simply wipe your face and—your amazement—you see blackheads and other pore "filth" actually come off on your washcloth or tissue! Your skin feels clean—really clean—and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Pure sponging and closing

The third and final step in the treatment was a quick dousing with Queen Helene's Penetrating Astringent. A very special astringent that sinks deep into your pores and performs the final necessary dissolving, soaking-up action—after which it helps tighten the pore openings and leaves an invisible film that helps protect your skin for hours against dirt and reinfection.

What will happen when you use this 3-step treatment?

You'll find the answer when you look in your mirror. Even after a single treatment, you are bound to see a marked improvement in your complexion. The chances are you'll find it hard to believe your eyes. For example, some of the blackheads and whiteheads should be gone—either completely or partially—while others will be softened and made ready to be drawn out in another treatment or two. You will also see that many of your most prominent pores appear to be smaller—that your skin looks smoother and feels fresher and more alert!

In short, after a single treatment taking less than fifteen minutes, you can expect to see results that normally you would not dare hope for even after many weeks of treatment... but don't expect everything at once. Just the same! The damage done by years of neglect and improper care cannot be undone in a single day. But—with 3 or 4 treatments a week, taking less than 15 minutes each—you may confidently look forward to startling complexion improvements within the next 30 days. From then on, a single treatment a week—or every second week—will probably be all that your skin will need to be kept beautiful and healthy-looking.

Important Discovery for Normal Complexions too!

Even if you are not plagued by blackheads, whiteheads, or other tell-tale signs of skin blemishes, you will find this 3-Way Treatment a remarkable aid to a smooth, glowing young-looking complexion.

By proper cleansing and flexing your skin regularly—just as you flex your muscles—this 3-Way Treatment helps keep your complexion looking and feeling firm, youthful and alive!

If you should be over 35, and beginning to look it, you will see minor lines flatten out, feel tired facial muscles tighten, and enjoy the look and feel of youth for hours and hours! Countless women use Queen Helene's 3-Way Skin and Beauty Treatment as a quick beauty "pick-me-up" just before a party—or important date!

Try this skin treatment in your own home without risking a penny Clinical demonstrations of this treatment have been so startling that we know the results you'll see in your mirror will delight you. This is why we invite you to try Queen Helene's 3-Way Skin and Beauty Treatment without risking a penny. This treatment, developed by a leading New York Skin Specialist for home use, will not only enable you to rinse away troublesome blackheads, but it will also help smooth and beautify your complexion so that you yourself will see the difference—or the treatment won't cost you a cent! All you need to do is return what you have used, and your purchase price will be refunded. It's as simple as that. You have complexion loveliness to gain—and nothing to lose!

No matter what your skin may be like now—if it is anything less than perfect—Queen Helene promises you results you can see in your first 15-minute home treatment and dramatic improvements within 14 days. After the first two weeks, you will discover whether you need to keep on using the treatment several times a week, or less often, depending on how fast your complexion clears. But act now! So right now, while you are determined to help yourself, send in the coupon or phone today!

Honcrine Huitt Becomes Bride of James Stinson

Before 200 guests in First Southern Baptist Church of Long Beach, Honcrine Conita Huitt and James E. Stinson exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony solemnized by Dr. Elmer L. Gray.

For the 8 p. m. service, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt C. Huitt, 2869 E. 220th St., wore a full-length gown of

Nuptial Vows Taken by Candleglow

In a double ring service read by candlelight before the altar of Greenwich Wedding Chapel Miss Suzanne Adren Wolleson repeated marriage vows with Howard E. Sackett of Alhambra. Dr. George W. McDonald officiated at the 8 p. m. ceremony.

Gowned in white Chantilly lace and nylon net, the bride was given in marriage by her father, Harold Wolleson of Garden Grove. Her sister, Mrs. Mary Silverstorf, was seated in place of her mother who lives in the East and was unable to attend.

Bridesmaids Delphia Knowles and Marilyn Shaw wore pastel lace gowns of pink and blue and carried contrasting bouquets of pink and blue carnations.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Wilcox of Long Beach, was assisted by Fred Kurtz, best man, Robert Wolleson, brother of the bride; Michael Silverstorf, her nephew, and Charles Knowles, seated guests.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sackett are graduates of Wilson High School. They will reside in Alhambra.

white satin accented with lace bodice and sleeves. Tiny satin buttons down the back, two full overskirts of net, and lace back and front panels were distinguishing features of the bridal dress. A train of pearls held the long, floating veil.

Mrs. Sandra Yoder, matron of honor, wore ice-blue taffeta. Miss Patsy Balk and Mrs. Irene Huitt, bridesmaids, were attired in pink taffeta and yellow taffeta respectively.

The bride is a graduate of Polytechnic High School and the bridegroom is an alumnus of Evansville College. After receiving congratulations at a church reception, the justweds left for a trip to Palm Springs. They will reside at 4337 Elm Ave.

Navy Wives Complete Course

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

Among attractive spring events on last week's Service Set calendar was a party held at Allen Center honoring 36 women who recently completed the Navy Relief course given by Miss Merle James. At that time 11 women were presented with 100-hour pins.

Rear Adm. M. E. Murphy gave the address to the graduating class and Rear Adm. Robert L. Campbell presented the diplomas and pins. Chaplain W. R. Howard gave the invocation and Chaplain K. J. Keane the benediction. The musical part of the afternoon was furnished by the El Toro Marine Band. Among those attending were the families and friends of the graduating class.

Others present were the Advisory Board to the Women Volunteers of the Long Beach Auxiliary of Navy Relief and Mrs. Francis D. McCorkle, recently appointed chairman of the Women Volunteers of the Long Beach Auxiliary of Navy Relief, who extended a welcome to Navy wives in this area who have a few extra hours they wish to devote to Navy Relief work.

Mrs. T. R. Cathey, chairman of the Thrift Shop, and Mrs. C. C. Klepatrick, co-chairman, will be happy to interview any wives interested in the Navy Relief work in Building 111 at the Naval Base on Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Cmdr. and Mrs. G. E. Dohbins of the Coast Guard set entertained last night at a house warming party beginning at the cocktail hour in their recently purchased new home in the Garden Grove district.

The Coast Guard Officers Wives Club will hold its monthly luncheon party on April 17 at Allen Center with a business meeting at noon and luncheon at 1 p. m.

Senior hostess will be Mrs. T. E. Hawkins; reservations should be telephoned to Mrs. F. F. Nichols of 1844 Shipway Ave.

The NAS, Los Alamitos Officers Wives Club will meet at noon on April 26 at Balboa Bay Club for a luncheon party. Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. J. E. Aggerbeck, Mrs. F. Kemper and Mrs. L. N. Crawley.

An elaborate and beautiful coffee event in attractive spring setting at the BOQ lounge at NAS, Los Alamitos served as a farewell party by the Officers Wives Club of the station for a well-known member, Mrs. B. A. Miles, who with Cmdr. Miles will leave shortly for Lincoln, Neb., for new duty and residence.

A gift from the group was presented to Mrs. Miles. Hostesses for the party, which included canasta and bridge, were Mmes. F. D. McGuffigan, H. D. Sturm, G. D. Swisher, and A. A. Korbelik.

On the morning of April 24, wives of the officers attached to the USS McKenzie will be hostesses at a spring coffee event at the Officers Club, Allen Center. Wives of officers attached to Destroyer Squadron Three will attend.

On Thursday, April 19, the Nautical Club members will meet at Allen Center for their monthly luncheon party following.

lowed by an afternoon of cards. Anyone interested in joining the group should contact the hostesses Mrs. H. E. Keller and Mrs. C. A. Rungdren.

Cmdr. and Mrs. William Morgan entertained recently at a lovely supper event at their home here. Among those attending were Cmdrs. and Mmes. Robert Ross, John Behl, Joseph Rayburn, Joseph Behan and William Rogers.

The group enjoyed seeing slides and motion pictures taken by the Morgans on their last duty station abroad—Spain.

The following officers were chosen at the election luncheon of the Long Beach Air Force Officers Wives Club: Mmes. Nick Di Giglio, president; Durward Haglund, vice president; Charles R. Burton, secretary; Michael Ognisty, treasurer, and Walter McDaniel, deputy. Hostesses at the luncheon were Mrs. George Timbers and Mrs. Robert Huitt.

There was a gay and exciting party recently at the home of RMMC and Mrs. J. P. Crabtree to celebrate the sixth birthday of pretty daughter Rea. Next Tuesday there'll be another candle-blowing event in honor of the youngest daughter, Betsy, who will be three on April 17.

Just returned from a lengthy stay in Japan is CWO Joseph Browning who is enjoying a vacation seeing the southland with his family.

The Navy Chaplain's wives of this area and the Ministers' Wives of this city will gather on Tuesday for a luncheon at Browers.

Among farewell events given for the popular Air Force couple, Capt. and Mrs. John Schwanger, last week was a cocktail and dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Schulz, and a coffee gathering given by the Schwangers' neighbors on Verdura St.

The Schwangers and daughter, Jonelle, left Friday for Kelly Air Force Base, Tex., stopping by way of Oceanside to visit relatives. They also will stop in Phoenix to see friends.

Welcomed home today after a lengthy stay in the Far East was Capt. F. W. Ingling of 1836 Volk Ave., commanding officer of Destroyer Division 132, who was greeted by Mrs. Ingling and children, Betsy, Dick and Doug.

Work, Play, Plan and Pray for Today---Not the Future

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Case R-323: Joe P., aged 42, is a hard working grocer.

"Dr. Crane, something is wrong in my home," he confessed morosely.

"My kids in junior high school rated me recently on your 'Tests for Parents' and gave me a low score. Besides my wife and I don't get along very well. But I am really saving long hours so that I can lay up a pile of money for enjoyment."

"If they'll just give me a few more years, I can retire and leave them well off. The kids may not realize it, but I am working their way through college for them long before they graduate from high school."

Joe is a dutiful parent but he makes the same sad mistake which most fathers do. For Joe thinks happiness is a DESTINATION or future point in his lifespan. Actually, happiness is never a destination. Instead, it is a method of living.

"Tomorrow never comes," is a trite adage that is doubly appropriate here.

All the joy we shall ever experience in life occurs TODAY. So it behooves us to work and play and plan and pray TODAY. We must mix all of our activities in today's prescription for happiness.

Suppose Joe continues at his present plan of slaving long hours to lay up a small fortune for 15 years hence. Meanwhile, he will lose his children's affection and maybe his wife's love. He will possibly jeopardize his health. He will miss the fun and recreation of men's clubs and church affairs and golfing or bowling.

There is a story to the effect that when Marshall Field fell heir to the vast fortune bequeathed to him, a reporter rushed up and gushingly inquired:

"What's it like, Mr. Field, to find $50,000,000 dropped into your lap at one time?"

To which Mr. Field is said to have laconically replied: "I still eat only 3 meals per day and wear only one suit of clothes at a time!"

The average worker eats the same number of calories and drinks the same milk and city water as the millionaire. He sees the same TV and movie shows. He reads the same newspaper and watches the same sports events. So sit down and count your many blessings in bountiful America.

Except for qualitative differences, as by paying $300 for a suit instead of $50, what does a millionaire have that you don't duplicate already on your income?

Parents should realize vividly that establishing a HAPPY home TODAY is far more vital to their children's welfare than laying up a future cash inheritance for them to quarrel about.

And even a future college insurance fund is not as good as wholesome family life NOW. So don't stint yourself and family TODAY for luxuries tomorrow.

College Wives to Be Guests

Our Children

Do Your Habits Encourage the Youngsters to Drink?

By ANGELO PATRI

Dad and Mom sat silently in the living room, doing nothing at all, just sitting in brooding silence. The boy down the lane, home from college for the holidays, would never go back to college. He would be buried in the churchyard next day. He had attended a cocktail party until he and four other boys decided to go to a party in a roadhouse some miles out of town. On the way, the car got out of control and that was that.

Looking through the long room where they sat, this father and mother could see their boy who was about to be graduated next June and be on his way through college. Beside him sat his sister deep in her book. Soon she, too, would be in college. How would it be with these children when they were on their own? So far they seemed to have their feet on the ground, but afterward? How about the cocktail parties, and the rest?

"I'm thinking," said Dad finally, "about this drinking business. The Yale survey learned that the children who came from homes where the parents drank were the ones who drank, mostly. Our kids don't drink so far. Maybe it would be a good idea if we did not use the stuff. Did not have it in the house and took a stand on it here in the family."

"It wouldn't give me a moment's grief if we did," said Mom. "It's a bargain. No drinks, no matter who comes or goes. I hate the house smelling like a bar, anyway."

Why cocktail parties, anyway? Isn't it rather an odd way to have a pleasant evening or afternoon with friends? Sometimes it looks as if the hostess were so short on ideas that this was the only way she knew to entertain her guests. What a reflection the whole idea can be on the culture and intelligence of the guests: That drinking and drinking again is the only thing they can be expected to enjoy, as if they were all stomach and no mind worth speaking to!

What has happened to music, conversation, the pleasure of meeting a friend and sharing his thoughts and experiences? What has happened to the pretty ceremony of serving tea, little cakes and sweets? What has dampened the idea that people have minds and enjoy using them on each other?

Whatever it is, the effect on our young people can be tragic. They all drive cars and they all know that they cannot mix alcohol with the power of a car. The car has no mind, but the driver has. If he mixed the alcohol into the fiber of his brain, then his mind has been diluted and it cannot furnish brains to the car.

Speaks at USC

Dr. Carl Q. Christol, associate professor of political science at USC, will address the Interfraternity Mother's Club Wednesday morning at 10:15 a. m. in Hancock Auditorium. His topic will be "The Meaning of the Constitution."

Rich Dessert

Vanilla ice cream balls rolled in toasted coconut and topped with butterscotch make a tantalizing dessert.

To Relate Sailing Exploit

Alamitos Bay Yacht Club will meet in the clubhouse, 5437 E. Ocean Blvd., at 8 p. m. Friday, with Rear Commodore Harry G. Wood in the skipper's chair.

Dr. E. Allen Peterson, osteopathic surgeon of Compton, under the title of "Sailing a Chinese Junk Across the Pacific" will tell of his many adventures, in addition to showing films of his exploits.

Dr. Peterson, escaped the Japanese aggression by sailing his Chinese junk to America. Leaving Shanghai on April 15, 1938, he first sighted this country off the coast of Seattle and arrived in Los Angeles in October. From Los Angeles he sailed to Mexico and Guatemala, thence to Panama and Peru and across the Pacific. After visit to the Marquesas Islands and Samoa, his junk was wrecked off the coast of New Guinea, where following the loss of his craft, he joined the New Guinea Reserves, serving with them during World War II.

Last year he spent two months in the South Seas making movies which included one of their spectacular hurricanes. He will autograph his book, depicting his adventures at the conclusion of the program.

Why Grow Old? Combine Calorie Counting, Exercise to Lose Weight

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For a long time it has been thought that you cannot reduce by exercise alone. This is true in that you would have to exercise more than you could or should in order to lose many pounds in a reasonably short length of time. But exercise is extremely valuable in weight reduction because it distributes weight more attractively and tones up the body while the pounds drop away.

Of course, exercise also burns up calories. Therefore, the most comfortable and best way to lose weight is to exercise AND count your calories. You can get away with more calories and still lose if you exercise too.

If your doctor says that exercise is safe for you, and in most cases at least some form of exercise is advised, you may wish to cut your calories less drastically and add some exercise to your daily routine. This not only makes reducing more pleasant but will be fine for your health.

With this in mind I am giving you a list of activities and the calories each uses up if indulged in for one hour.

Dancing—generally 200 to 250 calories. This depends, of course, on the type of dance.

Callisthenics—250 calories. Skating—300 to 700 calories.

Walking rapidly—300 to 400 calories; walking slowly, 150 calories.

Sewing—25 calories. Swimming—300 to 700 calories.

Tennis—200 to 500 calories. Bowling—225 calories.

Sweeping or dusting—90 calories.

Dishwashing—(not with a dish washer) 60 calories. Ironing—60 calories.

Golf—(if you carry your own bag) 200 to 250 calories.

This will give you some idea of the calories you use around the house and also in sports. Practically everyone can take an hour's walk a day. You may have to start out slowly but can build up to the brisk walk. This is such a wonderful health measure! Hold yourself well.

breathe deeply and forget your troubles while walking.

South didn't have to struggle in today's hand. The opponents began by taking three heart tricks, and South was down then and there.

Both North and South were dissatisfied with the result, of course. There is no advantage in playing a hand at five of a major suit even if you make your contract; and there is even less advantage if you go down.

Who overbid? North was the culprit. He should have opened the bidding with one no-trump to avoid just this kind of trouble. The opening bid would show 16 to 18 points with balanced distribution and strength in at least three suits.

South would count his own 12 points and would realize that the partnership total was 28 to 30 points. Since 33 points are usually needed for a slam when both partnership hands are balanced, South would be satisfied to stop at four spades.

When North opened with one club, he was trapped. He was too strong to raise to only two spades, but not strong enough to raise to three spades. When he did jump to three spades, he showed a hand that was stronger than an opening no-trump, either in high cards or in distribution or in both. South couldn't be blamed for pushing towards a slam.

Chef of the Week

Proves Culinary Prowess in Boulevard Veal Saute

By MILDRED K. PLANARY
Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

We can't name him, we can only quote him, but whoever penned the words—"Necessity is the mother of invention"—must have had our chef in mind. It wasn't until his wife was down-for-the-count for a time that Chef of the Week Jerry J. Smit ever found his way into the kitchen.

Then he donned the floppy hat, and with a pinch here and a pinch there, has even graduated into the fudge making category. His friends expect him to open the "Smit Bakery" most anytime.

Though "Smit's of Belmont Shore," 5006 E. 2nd St. is where you'd find him now, it was his former business (ties) which brought him to our state in 1913. From the city of Chicago. After 25 years of climbing from the bottom to the top of the "rubber" ladder working days and lecturing nights—the doctor called a halt.

It was while taking time out in the hospital a few months, that he decided to start his own tie and auto supply store in Long Beach. Both fate and circumstances intervened, however—Pearl Harbor occurred—the government froze tires, and issued ration stamps to boot.

It was then that he sold out to the government and changed his line entirely. It's china, silverware and many of those things which make a house a home. He's very ably assisted by Mrs. Smit, who, by the way, was his former nurse.

Golf—just for the sake of exercise—and the desert as often as he can get there, are two of his favorite pastimes. He is actively a member of the Belmont Shore Business Men's Assn., of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Pacific Coast Club.

Fundamentally a perfectionist, our "chef" has many a pantry moment in the kitchen, but there's no evidence of it or his blunders when he completes the meal. He leaves the kitchen immaculately clean.

To prove his culinary prowess he's all involved today with a Boulevard Veal Saute. Here's his recipe:

BOULEVARD VEAL SAUTE

- 2 pounds veal, sliced thin
 - 3 tablespoons salad oil
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - 1 cup white wine
 - 1 tomato, peeled and chopped
 - 4 small onions, peeled and chopped
 - 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
 - 1 cup canned button mushrooms
- Have the butcher cut the veal into serving pieces. Heat oil and butter in chafing dish pan over high heat. Cook meat in it till all pieces are evenly seared; season with salt and pepper; sprinkle with flour; shake pan to distribute seasoning. Pour wine over meat, little at a time; add tomato, onions and parsley. Cook 15 minutes. Add mushrooms and cook 15 minutes more. Serves 4 or 5.

MENU:
Boulevard veal saute.
New potatoes in jackets.
Garlic bread.
Lemon ice with crushed raspberries.
Coffee—Strip cookies.

I ever had

It was 3 a.m., September 2, 1935. I was scheduled to take off from the Los Angeles airport for Cleveland in my first Bendix Air Race. With a lifting of eyebrows, the authorities had opened the race to women for the first time. My plane, a Northrup Gamma — a rebuilt job from a previous crash — had a bad vibration. Since there wasn't time to correct it, the manufacturer asked me not to fly. But in view of the long efforts connected with my unprecedented entry in the race, I considered it necessary to take off even if plane failure might stop me later.

Most of the pilots got away in good order. But shortly after midnight a heavy fog rolled in. By 3 o'clock, Cecil Allen and I were the only ones left. Allen attempted a take-off; his plane cracked up at the end of the runway, and he was killed.

I climbed into my ship to warm it up and was temporarily blinded by flashbulbs; the photographers seemed to be after a last live-action shot of the next victim. My engine man and plane-maker issued a second plea that I abandon the race. The racing officials warned me that a storm was reported across my proposed route, making flight conditions hazardous.

It was at this juncture that I decided to call my fiancé, Floyd Odum, for advice. After much deliberation, Floyd told me that there was a fine line between logical decision and the emotional desire for accomplishment. He said no one can draw that line for anyone else, because each of us must live with his own inner self. And just before we hung up he said simply, "Be true to yourself, Jackie, and your own best convictions."

I rushed out of the phone booth and climbed into my crate. I took off with a fire truck and an ambulance chasing me down the runway; brushed the fence at the end of the field so closely my radio antenna was torn off; fought the storm for 400 miles. Then the vibration and an overheated engine forced me down.

I never finished the race, but I nevertheless had won the real contest that night — a contest with myself. Floyd — who is now my husband — had helped me realize that, in the final analysis, we must rely on ourselves. ■

CONGRESS GETS HEART DISEASE, TOO

by JACK ANDERSON & FRED BLUMENTHAL PARADE WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENTS

WASHINGTON, D.C.

In this hectic election year, President Eisenhower's heart attack has overshadowed the impact of heart disease on another branch of government. The specter of coronary disability haunts Capitol Hill, where it has had a less sensational but perhaps equally important effect on current events.

Since Ike moved into the White House, eight Senators and two Representatives have died following heart attacks. Six were influential committee chairmen. Still alive and active in Congress are 30 other heart patients.

Some have striven to keep their condition secret, on the theory that illness does not help at the polls. Others, like Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson (D., Tex.), have highly publicized cases.

So deep is concern here over coronary disease that the Navy recently assigned a heart specialist, Dr. R. W. Gifford, of the famed Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., to serve his two-year military hitch as "heart adviser" to Congress. He joins Dr. George Calver, attending physician to Capitol Hill lawmakers for the past 28 years.

Without regard for party lines, heart disease has struck with tragic drama. A year before Ike's attack, Sen. Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) clutched his heart, collapsed and died at a political rally in Hawthorne, Nev. He was succeeded as chairman of the Judiciary Committee by Sen. Harley Kilgore (D., W. Va.), who later was stricken by heart disease and died last February of cerebral hemorrhage.

A stormy liberal Republican, Sen. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, was a heart victim in July, 1953. His place as Commerce chairman was inherited by Sen. John Bricker (R., Ohio), a Rock-of-Gibraltar conservative.

Other Senate heart fatalities in the past three years include Willis Smith and Clyde Hoey, both of North Carolina; Dwight Griswold and Hugh Butler, both of Nebraska; and Burnet Maybank of South Carolina.

On the House side, E. E. Cox (D., Ga.), chairman of the powerful Rules Committee, died Christmas Eve, 1952; and Rep. Dwight Rogers (D., Fla.) was stricken and died two years later.

Here are 10 commandments for guarding

Fatalities, however, have been more than matched by the survivors. When Senator Johnson was stricken last July, Sen. Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.) was at his side. For the latter it was like a nightmare relived. Five years earlier, the same sickness had struck Anderson, who has been leading the regulated life of a coronary patient ever since.

Another survivor of heart attack is Rep. Ben Jensen (R., Iowa), who continued to suffer chest pains until he received a drastic "cure" in March, 1954. That was when fanatic Puerto Ricans shot up the House — and wounded Jensen. After he left the hospital, his chest pains disappeared. Said no less an authority than Dr. Paul D. White, Ike's heart specialist: "The long hospital rest helped Jensen's heart."

This dovetailed with advice Jensen had received from his own doctor. "Relax during the day," the physician said. "Think of yourself as a bag of wheat standing without supports in a bare room. The bag gets limp and falls over; the wheat runs over the floor. Try it before each rest."

Jensen did. His verdict: "It works to a T."

Rep. Lawrence Smith (R., Wis.) has carried on for more than a year since his attack. "Today," he says, "I feel I can do as much work as before, but the doctor says 'don't try,' so I don't."

Facetiously, Smith invites colleagues to join the "Coronary Club" by neglecting their health. He read the following qualifications into the Congressional Record: "Go to the office evenings, Saturdays and holidays; take your brief case home evenings to review all the worries of the day; never say 'no' to a request; do not eat a relaxing meal; never delegate responsibility..."

Like Smith, 80-year-old Rep. Dan Reed (R., N.Y.) returned to his office after an attack on Good Friday a year ago. He used to walk two miles each day; now he takes short strolls around the Capitol grounds. But he's convinced he can run for re-election.

The "Hidden" Cases

Another coronary case decided to quit politics. He is Rep. Oliver Bolton (R., Ohio). "I'm a young man, just 38," he says. "I have a family. I want to live out my life with them. The prospect of 25 years in elective office puts a strain on a man."

Other Representatives, like John Fogarty (D., R.I.) and John Shelley (D., Calif.), readily admit to their heart conditions. But more than one heart case has been covered up on Capitol Hill.

One Congressman, rushed to the hospital after an attack, claimed he had received a gall-bladder operation. A New England Senator nervously denies his heart condition — although he has been a patient of Dr. White. Another Senator, who suffers from both arthritis and heart trouble, talks publicly only about the arthritis.

When, 28 years ago, House Speaker Nicholas Longworth sent out a call for "a doctor in the House," Dr. George Calver, then a young naval officer, got the assignment. Strenuous Congressional sessions were taking their toll of heart victims. Longworth had been told that prompt attention could have prevented the coronary-caused deaths of at least three members.

Dr. Calver, assigned a tiny cubicle at that time (he now has eight assistants and a suite of offices in the Capitol), dug right into the task. As the first resident physician in Congressional history, he set up a program of medical advice, regular examination and early detection.

Today he rarely treats cardiac patients. As a rule, that job is handled by doctors at the Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md.

SEN. LYNDON JOHNSON: Since his attack, he has lost 32 pounds and works at a more even pace.

REP. DAN REED: Despite his age — 80 — he says he'll be a candidate for re-election this November.

SEN. CLINTON ANDERSON: He relived his own experience when Senator Johnson was struck down.

REP. BEN JENSEN: After Puerto Ricans invaded Congress, he got an unexpected "bonus" from his wound.

your heart against disease

Primarily, Dr. Calver concentrates on preventing, if possible, the conditions that seem to predispose Congressmen (and anyone else) to coronary disease.

Thus, early in the game, Dr. Calver worked out a series of daily menus, which came to be known in the House restaurant as "Calver's Daily Dietary Platter — a Menu Especially for Brain Workers." The menus emphasize vegetables and fruits and go slow on heavy, fatty foods and rich desserts.

In addition, Dr. Calver boiled his medical advice down to "10 Commandments of Health." Posted prominently in the Capitol and distributed on pocket-size cards, they are: 1) Eat wisely, 2) Drink plentifully (water, of course), 3) Eliminate thoroughly, 4) Bathe cleanly, 5) Exercise rationally (walk a great deal), 6) Accept inevitables (don't worry), 7) Play enthusiastically, 8) Relax completely, 9) Sleep sufficiently, 10) Check up occasionally.

A strenuous life doesn't hurt anyone, says Dr. Calver — nor, he adds, does it bring on coronary disease. "What hurts is the inability to know when to stop, how to relax, to ward off strain and fatigue," he cautions.

What can you do to safeguard against heart disease? Dr. Calver answers by pointing out that you must maintain a delicate body balance.

The Role of Emotional Stress

"You have to walk enough to burn up the excess energy produced by food," he explains. "The man who eats and exercises regularly has a 100 per cent better chance than the other fellow to ward off heart trouble."

"Heart attacks are brought on by what is technically known as the 'serum cholesterol' — blood solids that clog arteries. Tensions and strains that produce high blood pressure should be avoided, because serum cholesterol is five times greater when the blood pressure is high than under normal pressure."

Excitement of heated political debate appears to be a contributing factor in some Congressional heart attacks. Dr. Calver recalls that Rep. Michael Edelstein (D., N.Y.) died in the House lobby in 1941 five minutes after a bitter exchange with Rep. John Rankin (D., Miss.).

"Emotional stress can produce a change in the hormone pattern, a change in the gland secretions," says Dr. Calver. "They may be increased or decreased; or there may be a stoppage. There are cases in which the entire intestinal tract has been paralyzed by anger. These changes in gland secretions may cause heart spasms which are fatal."

With all his staff and equipment, Dr. Calver's greatest weapon in the battle to prevent heart attacks is his persuasive way with the lawmakers. Hardly a day passes that some Senator or Representative does not march to Dr. Calver's office in a state of tension for a "calming down" session.

If there is any doubt that both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue are concerned about coronary disease, consider this incident:

President Eisenhower asked for $22,106,000 for heart research to be allocated through the U.S. Public Health Service and the National Institutes of Health. His own heart specialist, Dr. White, went before the House Appropriations Committee to plead for the money.

"Could you use a couple of million or so more?" asked Representative Fogarty.

"Oh, yes," replied Dr. White, caught a bit off guard.

The usually tight-fisted committee then proceeded to raise the heart-research budget to $25,106,000 — $3,000,000 more than had been requested.

Weight-Watchers' Lemon-Chiffon Pie

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
- 4 egg whites
- 3 egg yolks
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water

- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons Sucaryl Solution or 40 Sucaryl Tablets
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup cake flour
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup boiling water
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup non-fat dry milk solids
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup ice water
- $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon yellow food coloring
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup fine toasted bread crumbs

Mix gelatin with lemon juice and rind. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Beat egg yolks with water, salt, Sucaryl and flour until blended. Add boiling water. Pour into saucepan, bring to rapid boil. Stir vigorously as mixture thickens, about 1 minute. Remove from heat. Add softened gelatin immediately, stir until blended. Fold beaten egg whites into lemon mixture. Whip dry milk solids with ice water and coloring. Fold into lemon mixture. Brush 9-inch pie plate with oil. Coat sides and bottom of plate with crumbs. Add lemon mixture. Chill.

For low-calorie topping, add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup non-fat dry milk solids to $\frac{1}{2}$ cup ice water and 1 teaspoon Sucaryl. Beat on high speed until consistency of whipped cream. Spread on pie. Sprinkle with grated lemon rind. 8 servings.

Sucaryl is for weight-watchers. It gives you all sugar's sweetness without bitterness or aftertaste — with no calories at all.

It's the first non-caloric sweetener that tastes exactly like sugar in ordinary use. Sucaryl sweetens coffee, tea, iced beverages, cooks, bakes or freezes. It comes in tablet or solution form.

Look for Sucaryl on the label when you're shopping for dietetic foods and beverages. (They don't taste like "diet" foods.) Sucaryl is intended for dieters and diabetics. Why half our kids quit school

FED-UP sophomore leaves Newark school to tackle the outs de world

DAMAGED CAR he's repairing above was reason Bill Reardon (l.) gave for quitting high school. Actually, investigation showed he'd been on verge of dropping out for some time. His friend Tony Touriello (r.) is still in school, plans to stay.

This is a shocking

NEWARK, N.J.

IN A FEW WEEKS, high-school graduation season will begin. All across the U.S., teenagers in traditional caps and gowns will file off rostrums, diplomas in hand, to be acclaimed by beaming parents and relatives. This year there will be 1,463,900 of them.

But suppose you could line up, in similar ranks, all those youngsters who should have graduated this spring, but won't—who, some time during high school, chucked the whole notion of a diploma and fled to the outside world. According to the latest (1952) figures, there would be 48 of them for every 52 boys and girls receiving diplomas. Even though the law in most states requires all children to attend classes until they are 16, nearly one out of every two youngsters entering high school won't survive four years.

Bright Kids Quit, Too

Furthermore, the "drop-outs" are by no means limited to the slothful, the dullards or the disciplinary problems. One-fifth of the top 25 per cent in intelligence don't wait for a diploma. Among the average in intelligence, about half graduate, half don't. And although a few quit because of financial need at home, or to get married, or because of the draft, they make up only a small fraction of the total. Nor are vocational schools an answer. Studies show their drop-out rate is higher than in general high schools.

There is consolation in that estimates for the class of 1954 indicate that only about 41 per cent quit before graduation—a substantial improvement if upheld by the final figures. And there is further consolation in a steady upward trend since 1910, when only 14 of 100 teenagers got high-school diplomas.

Still educators are worried. At a time when the nation needs all the trained personnel it can get, and when a high-school diploma (or even a college degree) is a virtual necessity for most jobs, even a 41 per cent drop-out rate is far too high.

Accordingly, across the nation, local school systems have been working with the U.S. Office of Education for six years to determine how curriculums (among HIGH IQ STUDENT William Butcher, 16, came from broken home, "just didn't like school." His mother calls him "resentful of authority." William, working as a stock boy, plans to enlist in the Navy.

EXIT INTERVIEW with Counselor William Rubinfeld is last step before quitting for sophomore Sandy Curtin, 16. Sandy had low grades, was a frequent truant, "wasn't interested" in school any longer. Such interviews manage to "cool off" a few drop-outs, but most counselors admit that by the time interviews are held, curriculum or school changes have little effect.

figure. Here's what schools are doing to reduce it by SID ROSS and ED KIESTER other things) can be improved to cut down drop-outs. Some schools have completely shaken up their approach, hoping thus to hold more of their students.

In the high schools here, the old rigid curriculum was replaced several years ago with a more flexible "Patterns of Studies" program after a pilot study of the drop-out problem. The drop-out rate correspondingly fell off from 40.5 per cent to 26.5 per cent in four high schools used as a yardstick.

In spite of such impressive improvement, local school officials believe the program can expand to hold even more potential drop-outs. The schools, they feel, are still losing too many students like William Reardon. A fairly intelligent 17-year-old junior, with good marks, he recently walked into the office of Central High School and turned in his books. The reason, he announced, was that he needed money to pay for an auto accident.

When guidance counselors and PARADE researchers talked to Bill Reardon, however, they found that — as in most cases — the announced reason only scratched the surface. Bill had been fed up with school for some time. "It got harder every week to keep really interested," Bill says. "Like in History. It was constantly work, work, work. He just put something on the blackboard and then you had to look it up in the book and write it down. What do you learn that way?"

Bill's decision to leave school to find a job (he now works for $50 a week as a greenhouse helper) ran into a flurry of what he calls "hollering" at home. Both his mother, who manages a lunch counter, and his typist older sister, who quit school a few years ago, wish they had diplomas. "I'll regret quitting school to the day I die," Bill's sister says. "I could have been a lot more than just a typist if I had my diploma. If you don't have the education and don't know how to mingle with people, you lose confidence."

Bill "misses the diploma" already. "A lot of the trouble wasn't the school — it was me," he admits. "But I liked some subjects in school. The trouble is, the ones you like, you get less of."

Recently Mrs. Alice S. Ruotolo, placement counselor for Newark's secondary-school department, summed up the reasons students give for leaving school. Bill's — "I can't study the subjects I like" — led all the rest. (In second place: "Why should I study mythology or ancient history or algebra?"). The same reason was cited by Ellsworth Tompkins, assistant secretary of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, as a major cause of drop-outs.

PARADE discussed the problem with Tompkins, Paul E. Elicker, executive secretary of the principals' group, and Dr. David Segel, specialist in pupil appraisal for the Office of Education. "We must admit that there's a definite lag between what we'd like to give the student and what he feels he's getting out of school," Tompkins says. "It's not a matter of lowering standards, but of allowing considerably more elbow room within the curriculum."

Tompkins, who considers drop-outs secondary education's greatest problem, recommends three improvements within the present school framework: 1) less memorizing and reciting without explanation; 2) more of an attempt to relate studies to the child's interests (through field trips and the like); 3) a greater effort to build loyalty to the school and make students feel welcome there.

The three experts cited an effective program at a Buffalo, N.Y., school which cut drop-outs from 40 per cent to 6 per cent through a system of home visits, extensive individual guidance, help with course planning and a "big brother" program to introduce the students to high-school life.

Tompkins' belief in the counterattacking qualities of friendliness are upheld by a recent study in Detroit. The typical drop-out was found to be a boy, 16, a sophomore, average or better mentally — but one who felt no sense of belonging and had never participated in a school activity. "We find," declared one report, "that if a student is interested in only one subject or one activity, he often will remain in school for that reason alone."

The four-year "Patterns of Studies" approach used here attempts to give each student that one subject — or more. Built around a small core of required subjects (such basics as English and U.S. history), it includes another area of "sequence" electives, worked out by the student and a guidance counselor with his particular goal in mind; then there is a third area of electives chosen on the basis of individual interests. Counselors keep a close watch on each student's progress, in order to help realign his program in case he stumbles.

The school also keeps a cumulative record file which includes not only the student's grades but his health data, family background, personality traits, hobbies and interests. Periodic additions by teachers may raise warning signals that a child's interest is waning. Then his counselor will attempt to revise his curriculum — even transfer him to another school — in order to keep him in classes.

If all else fails, the counseling service requires an "exit interview" before the student drops out of school. If he cannot be persuaded to stay in school, counselors help to place him in a job and urge him to attend evening classes.

Sometimes these interviews turn up bizarre reasons for dropping out of school. One classic remembered by Newark counselors involved a 16-year-old boy, a chronic truant. "If the cops would leave me alone, I'd go to school," he told the counselor.

"But why won't the cops let you alone?"

"Because I don't go to school!"

LAUGHS AND A STRONG LEFT ARM

ST. LOUIS.

Eight prominent men will toss out the first balls of the 1956 baseball season this week and eight catchers will lunge grimly for eight wild heaves. From then on, though, the pitching — put back in professional hands — should get better, with the teams that get the best pitching, according to a respected baseball axiom, winning the pennants.

If that law holds true, the National League flag will float over the park of the St. Louis Cardinals next spring, say Redbird fans here. First place, they admit, would be quite a leap for a club that ran a bad seventh last year — but this year something new has been added. The addition: an impishly grinning strikeout artist named Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, who may well be the most colorful pitcher, on and off the field, since the heyday of the great Jerome "Dizzy" Dean.

The 25-year-old Mizell is no stranger to St. Louis. He came up to the Cards in 1952, won 10 while losing 8; in '53 he won 13 and lost 11. Impressive as that record was for a raw rookie, Mizell made it even better by striking out 173 batters in 1953, just 26 short of the Cardinal record held by Dean. Over the two seasons his buzzing fast ball averaged seven strikeouts a game.

Now back with the Cards after a two-year Army hitch, Mizell is being counted on to win "at least 17 games" by general manager Frank Lane. There are some, Lane included, who think Mizell will win a few other games in which he won't even pitch. "A guy like Vinegar," says Cardinal great Stan Musial, "relaxes the ball club by keeping us laughing even when things aren't going so good."

But just why he keeps 'em laughing is a deep mystery to Mizell. "Ah'm no comedian," draws the Mississippi-born left-hander. "Honest. Ah like to kid around but Ah don't think Ah say anythin' very funny."

He says quite a few funny things, but he gets most of his laughs simply by being himself. Card pitcher Ellis Kinder put it best while trading gibes with Mizell one day this spring. Said Kinder: "Vinegar, you don't have to say anything to make me laugh. All I've got to do is look at you."

Mizell is a handsome 6'3", 200-pounder with an unconscious knack for doing almost everything in an unusual way. He wears a cap a shade too small, giving his head a slightly pointed look. He dons the cap by grasping the top "and sort of screwing it on." He walks with a remarkably long stride, slightly stooped, his arms swinging in long arcs at his sides. His face is continually lit with a variety of expressions, ranging from boyish innocence to devilish mischief.

All this, of course, is fodder for the mills of wisecracking ball players. "Ah'm the butt of all the jokes," says Mizell sadly, "but they're never anythin' serious. Mostly it's just agitatin'."

Mizell is well able to puncture the agitators. He'll fix a player with a burning stare, snap: "You just wait till Ah pitch battin' practice to you. You'll see nothin' but screwballs, curve balls and knockdowns."

He kids himself as well as others. A terrible hitter, he once was asked how good a base runner he was. Mizell put on a mournful look and said slowly: "Don't know. Don't get on base often enough to find out."

His whole baseball career has had a slightly bizarre touch to it. After showing his wares at a Cardinal tryout camp in 1948, Mizell was visited a few months later by a St. Louis scout at his home near Vinegar Bend, Ala. (pop. 59). The scout found Mizell swimming in a creek but Vinegar didn't hesitate a second: he hopped out of the water, jumped into

HOT BUTTERED OATMEAL

A golden pat of butter melting on each serving of good hot Quaker Oats is a little luxury you can give your whole family often. For tasty breakfast variety, also try such other toppings as:

Brown Sugar	Chopped Dates
Honey	Jelly
Chocolate Chips	Maple Syrup

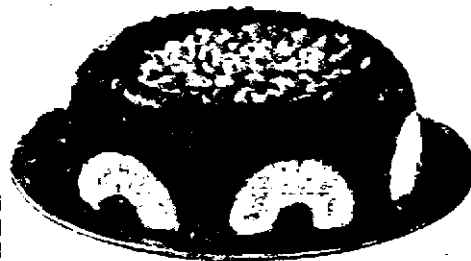

Note for faster breakfasts: New Quick Quaker Oats requires only 1 minute of actual cooking. (The oat flakes are rolled thinner to give you creamy smooth oatmeal in less time.)

If you prefer the flavor and texture of old-style oatmeal, try Old Fashioned Quaker Oats cooked a mere 5 minutes.

PINEAPPLE GLAZED HAM RING

HAM LOAF:
1½ lbs. ground cooked ham (loaf)
½ cup Quaker Oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon ground cloves

1 cup milk
2 eggs, beaten
GLAZE:
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar
3 PINEAPPLE SLICES

For ham loaf, combine ingredients thoroughly.

For glaze, mix together brown sugar, mustard and vinegar until smooth. Pour this glaze into bottom of greased ring mold (1½ quart size).

Put pineapple slices in half; stand the half slices around edge of ring mold. Pack ham mixture into mold. Bake in moderate oven (350°F) 55 to 60 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before turning out of ring mold. Makes 6 servings.

SELF-FROSTED OATMEAL COOKIES

COOKIES:
1¼ cups sifted enriched flour
¾ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening, soft
¾ cup brown sugar
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk

1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups Quaker Oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

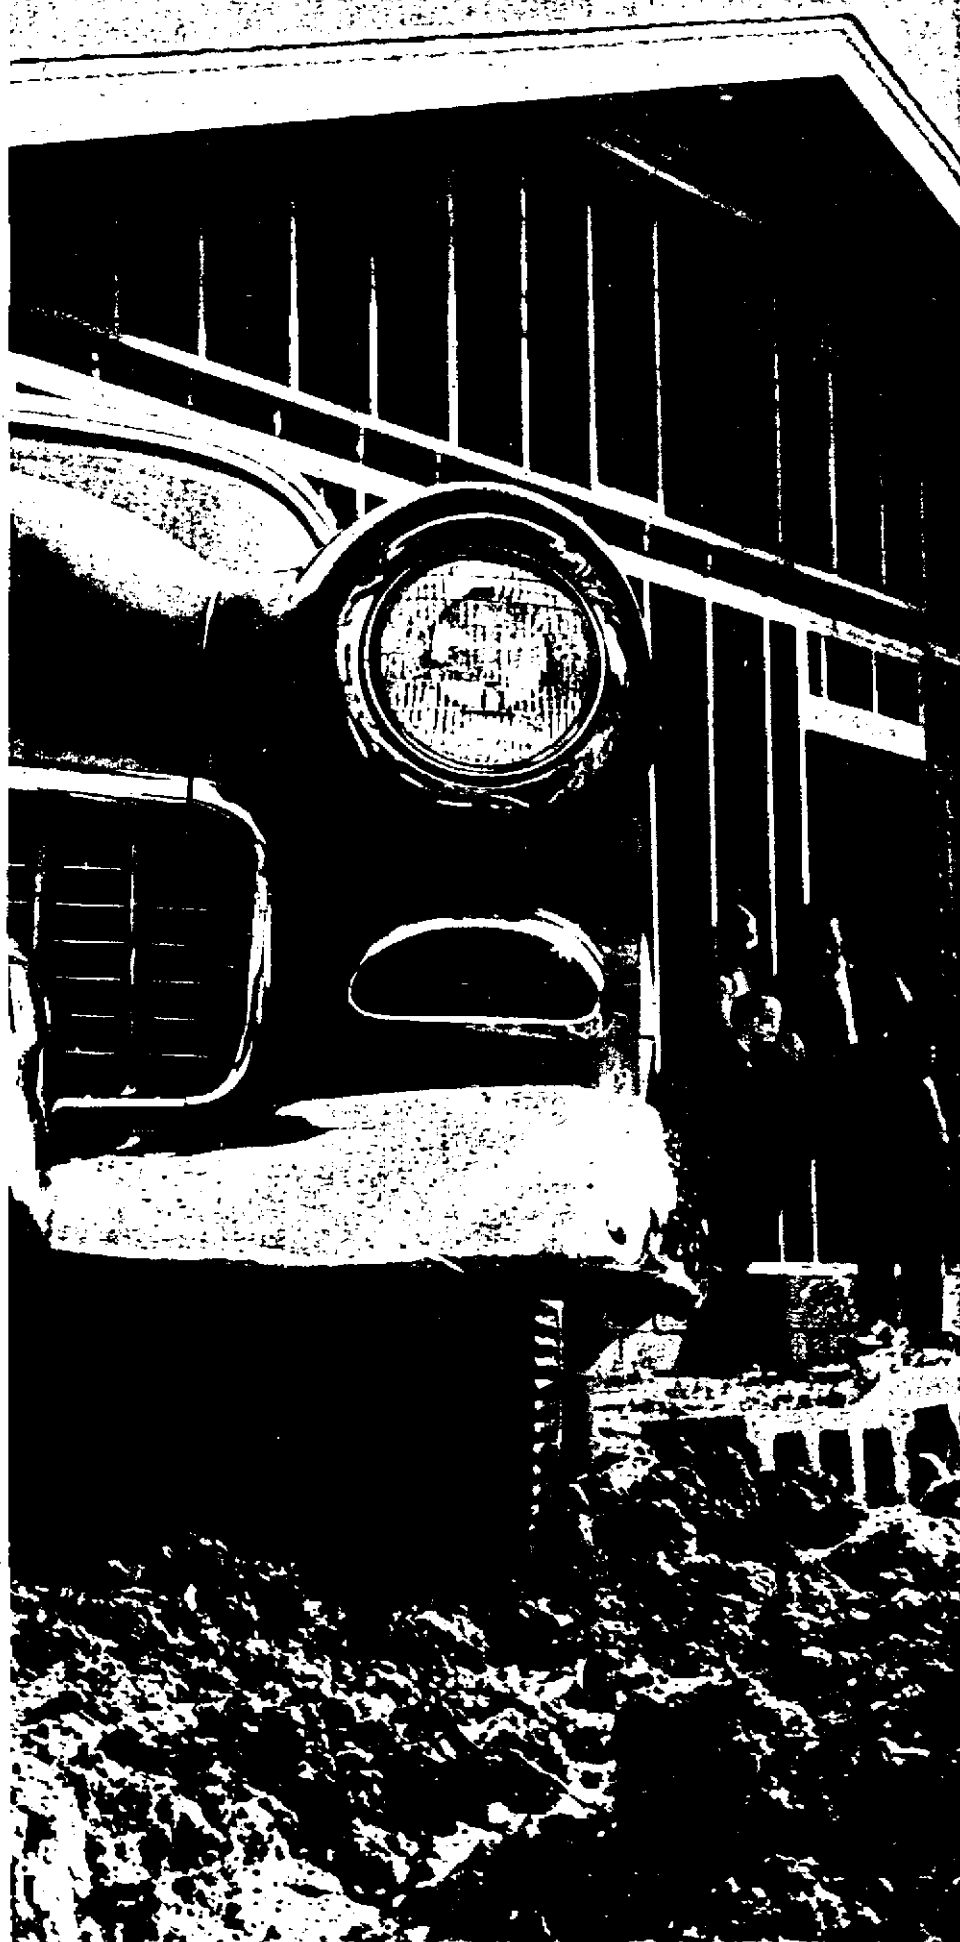

TOPPING:
4 milk chocolate bars (about 1 oz. each)
Pecan halves

Sift together flour, soda and salt into bowl. Add shortening, sugar, egg, milk, vanilla. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Blend in rolled oats. (Dough will be quite stiff.) Shape dough to form small balls; place 2 inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Flatten each with bottom of glass covered with waxed paper. Bake in moderate oven (350°F) 12 to 15 minutes. Remove cookies from oven; immediately place a small square of milk chocolate on each. Remove cookies from cookie sheet; press half pecan into chocolate on each. Makes 3½ dozen cookies.

A brand of well-groomed cars that provide road-worthy dependability whether you're dodging over the unpaved streets of a new "development" or cruising over a satin-smooth ribbon of superhighway.

Now, we Chevrolet dealers can't take the credit for engineering rugged dependability into the various makes and models of used cars we handle. But we are responsible for restoring it before we confer the red OK tag that means, "This car has been thoroughly inspected and reconditioned for performance, safety and value." That's why we are unafraid to sell it with a written warranty signed by us.

A good man to know in any neighborhood, new or old, city or country, is your authorized Chevrolet dealer. Because he sells more new cars in your community, he takes in a greater variety of trade-ins. You'll find the make and model of your choice, equipped the way you want it, at your Chevrolet dealer's. Drop in, when you find the time, and get the up-to-date, down-to-earth savings data that will make it easy to make a thrifty selection on an OK Used Car.

Mocha Pecan Pie Mates!

New Mocha Sprycrust Sensational with Nescafé Mocha Chiffon filling

Simple but Sensational!
SPRYCRUST IS FLAVORED PIECRUST!

With this new idea in pastry, you can now make almost as many different kinds of piecrust as there are flavors—mocha, chocolate, honey, just to mention a few.

Based on and only possible because of the famous Spry "Water-Whip" pastry method, Mocha Pecan Sprycrust is amazingly simple to prepare. You whip in Nescafé Instant Coffee . . . you roll in chopped pecans. Important: Do not make substitutions for Spry or Nescafé.

Spry has the "built-in" safety to guarantee perfect piecrust every time you bake. So don't take chances. Take Spry and be sure!

Homogenized Spry is best for pie and everything else you bake or fry!

NESCAFÉ Amazingly easy way to marvelously rich flavor!

You've never tasted a pie more luscious than this Mocha Pecan masterpiece. And you make it so easily with Nescafé Coffee!

Because it's truly tastier coffee, Nescafé is as wonderful for cooking as it is in your coffee cup. Saves time and work in all recipes that call for mocha or coffee flavor . . . measures easily, accurately. Always comes to you fresh and rich with full coffee goodness!

Do not make substitutions for Nescafé or Spry in this recipe! Remember, Nescafé is all choice coffee, nothing but coffee. It's so rich, so smooth, no other coffee satisfies "coffee hunger" more deliciously than Nescafé!

Mocha Pecan SPRYCRUST

- ½ cup less 1 tablespoon Spry
- 2 teaspoons Nestlé's EverReady® Instant Cocoa
- 1 teaspoon Nescafé
- 3 tablespoons boiling water
- 1 teaspoon milk
- 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4 tablespoons chopped pecans

Put Spry in mixing bowl. Dissolve EverReady and Nescafé in boiling water and pour over Spry. Add milk and whip with fork until all liquid is absorbed and a thick, smooth mixture is formed. Sift flour and salt onto Spry- whip and stir into a dough. Pick up and work until smooth; shape into a flat round. Roll between two 12" squares of waxed paper into a circle ¼" thick.

Peel off top paper, sprinkle 2 tablespoons chopped pecans over pastry, leaving a 1" border plain. Re-cover with paper and roll pecans into dough. Turn pastry over and repeat, rolling in remaining pecans. Peel off top paper, place pastry in 9" pie pan, pastry next to pan. Remove paper, fit pastry into pan, trim ¼" beyond pan, turn back even with pan, flute rim. Prick shell all over with fork. Bake in very hot oven (450°F.) 12-16 min.

Nescafé® Mocha Chiffon Filling

- 1½ cups milk
- 3 egg yolks
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1 tablespoon Nescafé
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ 6-oz. package (½ cup) Nestlé's® Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- 3 egg whites
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- 1½ teaspoons Spry

Beat together milk and egg yolks in top of double boiler. Mix 2 tablespoons sugar, gelatin, Nescafé and salt. Add to milk mixture. Cook over boiling water 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from hot water. Stir in ½ cup semi-sweet morsels till melted (mixture will be speckled). Chill, stirring occasionally, till mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon.

Beat egg whites with vanilla till stiff, but not dry. Beat in sugar gradually till stiff and glossy. Fold gently into semi-sweet mixture. Pour in baked Sprycrust.

Melt and stir semi-sweet morsels with Spry over hot (not boiling) water. Drizzle in for stream back and forth across top of filling. With knife, cut through top of filling in opposite direction. Chill in refrigerator till firm.

These are Kitchen-Tested recipes.

MIZELL CONTINUED

"Smile like Ah just won my 15th game? Why mister, if Ah won 15 games in this league..."

...no photographer would have to tell Vinegar to smile. Ah'd be doin' it day and night."

Only once did he lose his calm his trousers, grabbed a baseball and fired four fast balls. The scout signed him on the spot.

While pitching for Albany, Ga., a Cardinal farm club, Mizell was nicknamed Vinegar Bend by a sportswriter. He's since gotten so used to it that he now signs his name Vinegar Bend Mizell. This sometimes confuses him in writing back home and several times he's absent-mindedly addressed his letters to "Vinegar Bend, Mizell." All the letters, surprisingly, were delivered.

He's become so fond of the nickname, in fact, that he likes people to address him as Vinegar. Most people do, but when J. Roy Stockton, sports editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, asked him what his mother called him, Mizell shook his head and said despairingly, "Wilmer."

Mizell's colorful personality doesn't bother the Cardinal brass one bit. "Only one team can win a pennant," says Lane. "You try to make your team a pennant winner, but if it isn't, you've got to keep the fans coming so you can build a winner. And the best way is to give them ball players they like to see. Mizell is one. While pitching for Houston in the Texas League, for instance, he'd draw 10 or 11 thousand fans, while games with other pitchers wouldn't attract 3,000."

Being colorful is good for the player as well as the owner, says Lane. "There's no substitute for ability," he says, "but a player isn't a good salesman of his talents if he doesn't display some color. One player may get $25,000 a year while another player — with the same ability — might get only half that because he hides his light under a bushel."

The easy-going, apparently imperturbable Mizell shows no sign of pressure as he begins the double task of helping the Cards toward a pennant and building himself into what most St. Louis fans expect — a left-handed Dizzy Dean. His calm, though, was shattered at least once. While pitching in the Cuban Winter League this February, he received a telephone call from his mother-in-law. His wife, she told him, had just given birth to their first child, a boy. There was a long silence.

"Are you still there?" asked his mother-in-law.

"Yes ma'am," came Mizell's voice, "but for a minute Ah thought Ah'd fainted."

If there seems to be a lot of dribbling in the basketball game shown on these pages, it's because in this game dribbling is considered good strategy.

There's nothing fishy about this, either, because the players aren't — well, fishes. They're porpoises, warm-blooded characters who make up the "team" of the famous Marineland at Palos Verdes, near here.

How you can help the police

Be a good citizen—and protect yourself—by following these rules

by JOSEPH KAHN

Recently a woman shopper stopped on a busy New York City street, fumbled in her purse, took out a lipstick and scribbled down the license-plate numbers of a double-parked auto. Four men had just gotten in and their actions aroused her suspicions.

Within an hour, the woman's quick thinking paid off. The four men had robbed a $13,500 payroll and the police, armed with the lipsticked numbers she had given them, picked up the bandits.

This is one kind of aid the police in your city seek to head off the alarming postwar surge in major crimes—now occurring at a rate of one every few seconds. Actually, an estimated 50 per cent of all solved crimes are cleared up through citizen help—a tip that a stranger was seen in the neighborhood, the description of an abandoned car, etc.

"The citizen should call us on anything suspicious, no matter how trivial," advises Clarence F. Hofacker, Chief of Police of Portland, Me. "We don't mind going out on a wild-goose chase. That's how crime is prevented."

A typical case occurred in St. Louis. When a young girl was picked up by a man on her way to grammar school, a suspicious passerby called police. The man proved to be a would-be kidnaper.

"In this particular incident," observes Police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell, "the arrested man had no prior police record and would likely still be at large had it not been for the citizen's alertness and prompt action."

Another prompt response was demonstrated in Roanoke, Va., after a taxi driver was robbed and his cab taken by the thief. When the cab was found, police discovered a lunch package on the front seat.

"We publicized a detailed description of the lunch," explains Maj. Frank Webb, Roanoke's police head. "A boarding-house owner recognized the lunch she had prepared for a boarder. She came to us with the information and the man was arrested."

"Citizens should come forward promptly," points out Inspector James J. Walsh, veteran New York detective. "Their identities are protected and their information is confidential. Very often they don't understand the importance of time and the value of the evidence they have."

For example, Walsh recalls when a jewelry store was held up by three men. After seven months police finally tracked them down. Said one of the thieves: "I thought you would have caught us long ago. I left my coat behind."

The puzzled detectives questioned the jewelry-store clerks. "Sure," one admitted, "I grabbed a crook's coat and held on. I didn't think it was important, so I threw it on a hanger in the back room."

Detectives found the coat still on the hanger. Neatly printed on a tailor's label were the thief's name and address.

If you were a witness to a holdup, what clues should you look for and try to remember? Detectives stress these:

- The holdup man's height, weight, age and complexion; his dress; his speech; his movements. If there are two or more men, concentrate on one; compare his physical proportions and age with your own or those of someone you know.
- Distinguishing marks—a ring or other jewelry; a tattoo or scar; a missing tooth or finger; bowlegs or a limp.
- The direction he took: if he used a car, its color, style and license number. If a license plate has several numbers, remember the ones that come first.

Chief of Detectives M. B. Pierce, of Jackson, Miss., stresses another point.

"A citizen," he says, "should not hesitate to appear in court when called. The full cooperation of the citizen in this respect is necessary for a conviction."

Above all, don't invite crime. Based on advice from across the country, here is a valuable list of "Dos and Don'ts":

At home: Don't admit unidentified callers.

Don't leave key under mat or in mailbox. If out for the evening, leave a light burning and blinds up.

If awakened at night by an intruder, don't try to apprehend him. He might be armed. Lie still, observe and, at the first chance, call police.

Report any theft, no matter how petty. In case of a burglary, don't enter residence if door has been forced. If theft is noticed after entry, don't touch anything; notify police at once.

After a burglary, have tumblers changed on locks.

Outside the home: Don't flash sums of money in public places.

When shopping, don't leave purse lying on a counter. Hold on to shoulder bags; pickpockets like them as well as men's wallets kept in the hip pocket.

Don't take short-cuts when traveling alone at night. Stay where it's well lighted and where there are other people. Carry a police whistle; it's a quick way to get attention.

If held up, do as you are told. Observe as much as possible and call police at the first opportunity.

For your child's protection: Know the length of time it takes a child to walk to and from school. Check immediately any delay in arrival home.

Don't allow children to accept rides or gifts from strangers or casual acquaintances. Train children to check first before going anywhere with anyone.

Be sure a baby sitter is responsible and capable of acting in an emergency.

Report suspicious actions of adults in the vicinity of school yards and playgrounds.

Businessmen: Don't send the same employe over an identical route each day with bank deposits.

Don't leave expensive merchandise in display windows overnight.

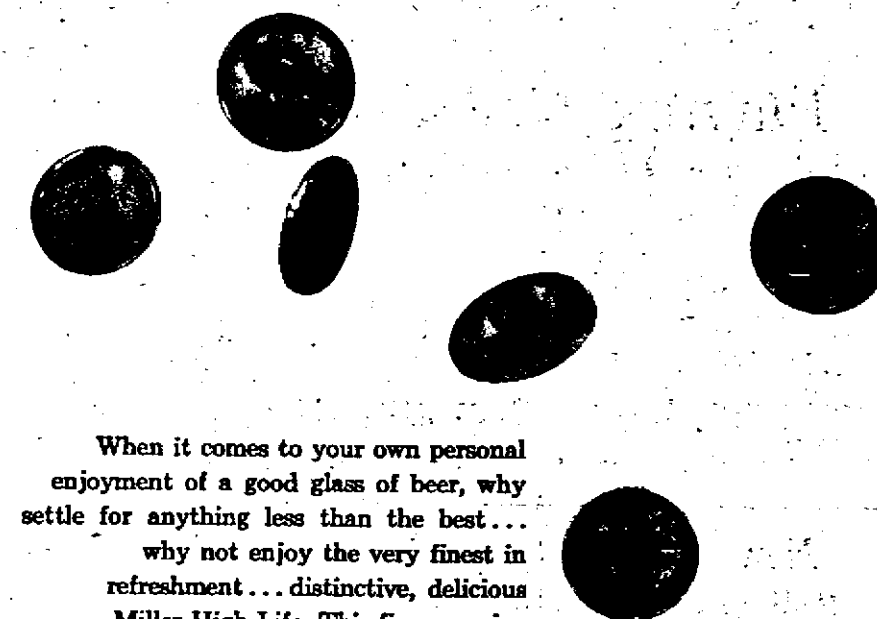

Place your safe or cash box where it can be seen from the outside. Keep a light over it at night.

Keep an eye out for the employe who indulges in petty thievery.

Plan a signal with the man next door or someone close by in case of trouble.

Finally, remember the police are your friends. They risk their lives every day to protect you and your family. When they need your help, cooperate!

PACK TRIP

... IN THE ROCKIES

For this family, fun begins where civilization ends

by BILL BRENNEMAN

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, COLO. It's not that Doris and Gates Gooding or their 5-year-old son Tyler or their Labrador retriever Chester dislike people, or the comforts of civilization. As secretary of the town's winter-sports program, town clerk and an abstractor (which means that he investigates property titles), Gates is as amiable and outgoing a man as you'd find. But for 51 weeks a year, the Goodings plan for the week when they won't see another human face, or a car, or a drugstore.

Being in business for himself, Gates gets just one week of vacation a year. A pack-horse trip into the rugged, remote timberlands of the Rockies' Rout National Forest seems the ideal way to spend it. "Maybe it sounds silly to some folks," Gates grinned before their most recent trip. "But to us there's something about getting out into the wilderness, miles from nowhere, that gets inside of you."

In a way, the Goodings' plunge into the deep woods typifies the five vacations in PARADE's 1956 vacation series. It's more strenuous than the others. But its virtues are the same: fun for the family; doing rather than seeing; spontaneous, unorganized recreation. And it centers on the greatest playground of all—the American outdoors.

What kind of fun do the Goodings have, 10,000 feet up on the Continental Divide? They fish. They go boating (in

Vacations CONTINUED

IN CAMP, Doris Gooding changes Tyler's boots while Gates hunts firewood. After tough uphill pull, horses graze and rest before next day's mountain climb.

DREAMERS Dpris and Tyler stare into campfire on first night of vacation. Like most pack travelers, they headed for sleeping bags early, rose with the dawn.

They sunbathe. (They don't swim much;
the water, mostly from melting snow, is too cold.) They explore. They take pictures. They flop down in alpine meadows and read. They live in a tent and eat simple outdoor food.

And mostly they ride. Usually they spend about half a day aboard their three rented saddle horses, the two pack horses trailing behind. Surefooted and experienced, the horses know the steep, narrow trails as well as a veteran ranger.

For Tyler, making his first trip (his parents have made four), all the riding convinced him he should be a cowboy.
He was a bit let down when he and his mother made the first leg of the journey by jeep, in order to squeeze in two extra days on the Divide. But when his dad appeared with the horses, Tyler's eyes shone. Even rain, followed by hail and a dash of snow (although often in the 90s during the day, the temperature may drop to freezing at night), couldn't dampen his enthusiasm.

In the rain, Gates transferred their equipment to the pack horses. Each car-day on the Continental Divide

ries a load of about 200 pounds on a frame called a pannier. Loading is a science: a bad pack may make a horse fall, perhaps break a leg.

Luck was with the Goodings. After four hours of rain the sun broke through just as they reached Luna Lake, their first night's camp. Officially, their vacation began as soon as they arrived at the lake shore. The packs were untied: while Doris organized equipment, Gates searched for dry wood. Tyler helped by piling tent gear in one place, saddles and blankets in another.

Within 45 minutes a warm fire was blazing, the tent was up and Doris was unwrapping a precooked chicken dinner. The first night on the trail, the Goodings have learned, everyone's too tired to cook a meal over a campfire.

The jovial, chatty Goodings make a first-night rite of a campfire for banter and dreams. Then into the sleeping bags, for the day begins early in the mountains. Theirs began, in fact, just after dawn, with sausages and pancakes. Before long they were in the saddle again, heading upward through the pines.

When his parents wanted to rest or read or sunbathe, Tyler romped, with all the outdoors to romp in. He caught his full limit of fish and stumbled across a herd of deer at close range. He burned about twice as much energy as his parents. They spent their seven days' alternately being vigorous and soaking up the atmosphere of the wilderness.

Could you and your children take a vacation like the Goodings? If you're city folks, the answer is, "Not quite." This is Nature's last stronghold against civilization, and it can be dangerous to BOATING high in Rockies is off-beat pursuit. Goodings made it possible by carrying collapsible raft. All equipment is carefully calculated for minimum weight, bulk.

A guide to other destinations for the would-be pack traveler

Most pack trips center in the wilderness areas west of the Mississippi. But in this day of high-speed travel by turnpike, they're only a few days by car from the East. Here are a few other escapes to Nature that might appeal to your family:

MINNESOTA CANOE TRIP: Nine-day trip by canoe through Quetico-Superior Wilderness, near Canadian border, costs $200 a person, includes canoeing and trout fishing in area where no roads are permitted. Expedition takes own physician, has more "extras" than most. Information: American Forestry Assn., 919 Seventeenth St. N.W., Washington, D. C.

HUNGRY MOUNTAINEERS Tyler and Chester watch as Doris Gooding starts day on the Divide with pancakes. Dishes are washed in clear, cold streams.

A pack trip for your family? Here's how you can go about it the unwary. Such trips shouldn't be tackled alone unless you're familiar with the mountains and an expert woodsman.

But with the help of a trained guide, even the tenderest of tenderfeet can pack into the wilds. Not only will your guide see that you don't get lost, he'll direct you to the best trout streams, pack the horses, find the firewood, cook the meals and wash the dishes. Some even provide guitar music.

Most such professionals charge from $10 to $25 a person a day. But that cost includes your whole outfit, except for personal items like clothes, toilet articles, boots, cameras. (Most outfitters furnish sleeping bags, but a few do not; it's best to inquire before making reservations.) Unlike the Goodings, who have invested in a complete camping outfit, you need buy almost no equipment.

Can the children stand such a trip? Tyler Gooding doted on it. Most guides like to look over the younger fry first, before deciding whether they should go.

But professionals say the best pack travelers of all are children — particularly 10- to 14-year-olds.

If you're an average-income family, like the Goodings, price is important; a week's trip for a family of four should cost about $280. (To this you must add the cost of transportation from your home to the pack country.) You probably can cut the price in half if you furnish your own equipment (though this costs $250 and up to buy), rent your own horses and dispense with a guide.

Your first step should be to obtain a list of pack-trip outfitters by writing to the Colorado Advertising and Publicity Dept., Room 38, State Capitol, Denver, Colo. From the list, pick the outfitter and location you like; then write for data on costs, equipment and schedules.

Then start shopping for riding boots (high-heeled ones are best), practice your best cowhand drawl and get ready for a real fresh-air vacation in an area civilization has never touched. ■

GREAT SMOKIES SADDLE TRIP: Spring ride into Smokies (starts May 23) is timed to catch wildflowers at their best. $200 a person, three days camping out, seven at ranch in forest. Information: same as above.

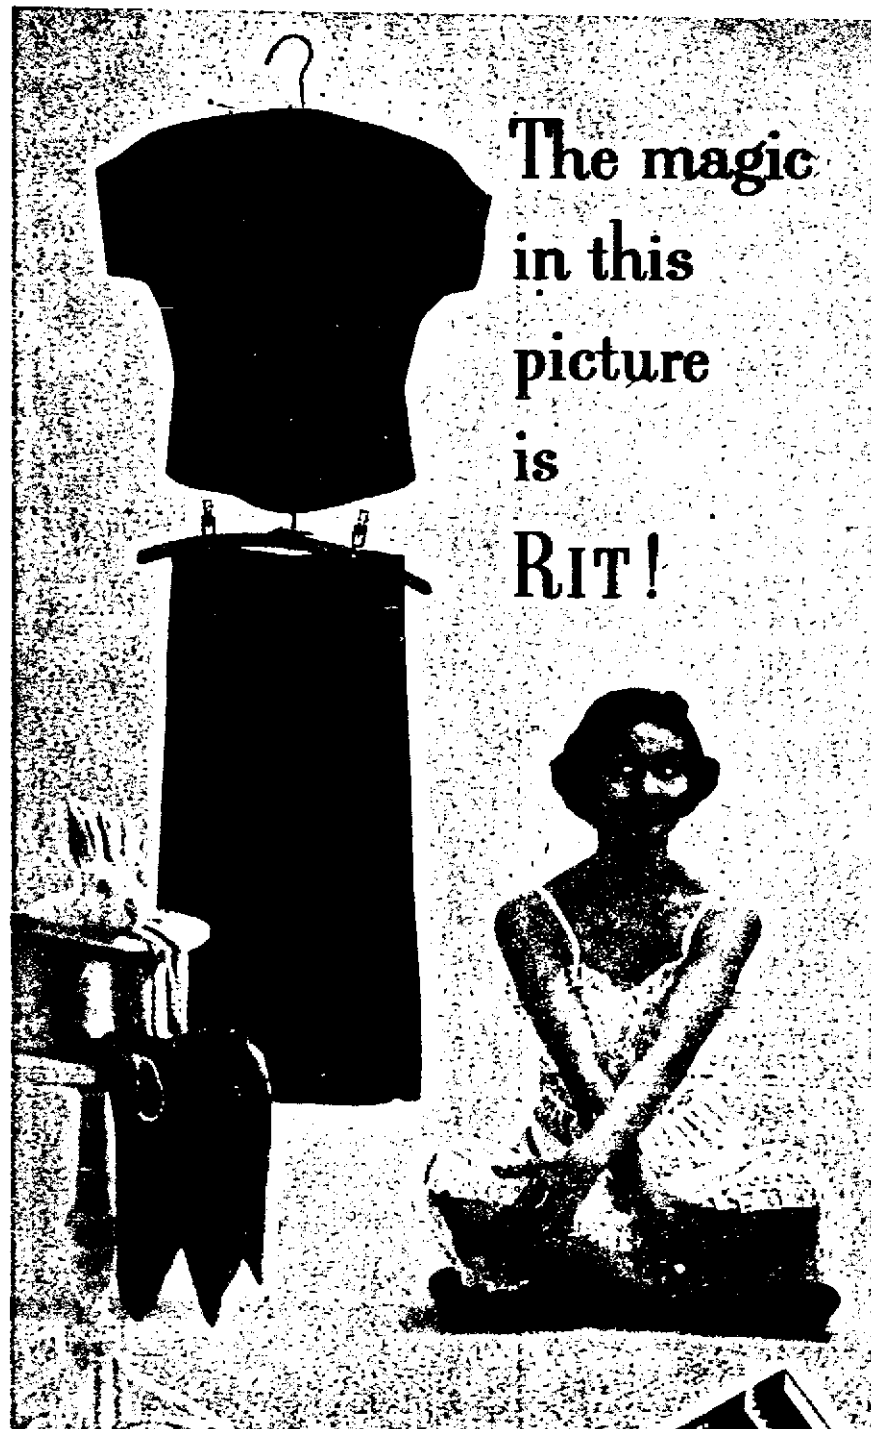

MUIR TRAIL, CALIF.: Eight trips through summer. Cost: $110 up. Age range: 6 to 75. Trip touches Yosemite and Sequoia National Parks, covers 20 miles of wilderness country where no roads exist. Information: Wampler Trail Trips, Box 45, Berkeley 1, Calif.

GRAND CANYON: Most famous of all pack trips leaves Canyon's South Rim, heads for the Phantom Ranch on Colorado River far below. Cost for two-day trip, $32.75; additional cost for extra days spent at ranch. Information: Fred Harvey Public Relations Dept., 80 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago 4, Ill.

OVEN-BAKED

Ham 'n' Cheese Puff

by Beth Merriman PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Here's a wonderful dish for those days (every family has them) when thrift-plus-flavor is the No. 1 factor in menu-planning. It's economical, it's a breeze to make — and, best of all, it's downright good eating!

KITCHEN HINT

If you are in the market for a kitchen range, consider the new separate built-in ovens and range tops, electric or gas. Ovens are installed at a convenient height, make kitchen planning easier.

HAM 'N' CHEESE PUFF

8 1/2" slices day-old bread	1/4 teaspoon salt
2 small cans (2 1/4 oz. each) deviled ham	1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups (8 oz.) grated process sharp American cheese	1/4 teaspoon hot-pepper sauce
	3 eggs
	1 cup evaporated milk
	1 cup water

Remove crusts from bread; spread with deviled ham. Cut slices in half, vertically. Arrange half the bread on bottom of greased 8" square baking dish. Sprinkle with half the cheese; cover with remaining bread and cheese. Add salt, mustard, hot sauce to eggs and beat until blended. Stir in milk and water and pour over bread and cheese. Let stand 1 hour. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) 45 minutes until browned and puffy. Serve immediately. Makes six servings.

Teen-age Topics

After a five-week trip to Europe, I have found that behavior patterns differ considerably from country to country. But, everywhere, loss of reputation is a very serious thing for a young girl — or boy — and young people are properly concerned over the reaction to their conduct. Here are typical questions:

Q. I am 15 and a sophomore in high school. It sure isn't hard to get a bad reputation in high school — and I did. I went out with a boy who is a junior, and on our date he kissed me three or four times. A couple of days later all kinds of rumors were spread about me. Now everyone thinks I am a bad girl and all the nice boys I know won't have anything to do with me — and all the bad ones try to date me. My girl friend is included in these rumors because we double-dated that night. Should I ask this boy to admit that he lied about me? Or should I get my 16-year-old brother to do it? — C.L., Long Beach, Calif.

A. Have nothing to do with this boy or his friends. Your brother should tell him not to spread any more rumors about you or your friend. And in time, if you maintain your dignity, nice boys will ask you out again. Your ladylike behavior is the best denial of the lies.

Q. I am 15 and have been going with a boy who is 16. Recently we had a date with three other couples, after which my boy friend said he would never go out with me again because "you flirt with other boys too much." What can I do? — D.M., Mineral Point, Wis.

A. You made this boy feel that you were just using him to circulate socially. In your contacts with him at school, ask him questions about your work together and in general make him feel important and masculine. If he does date you again, pay strict attention to him and don't flirt with the other boys.

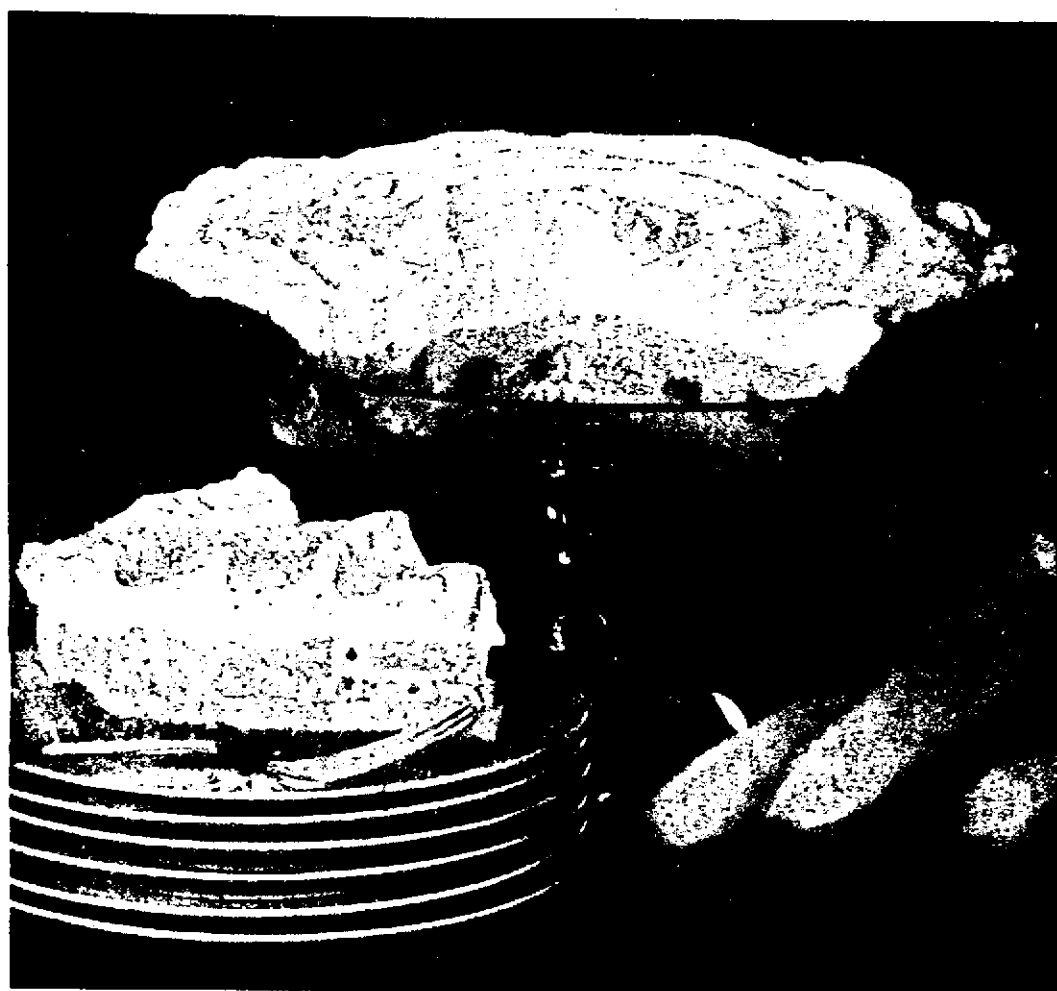

Q. I want to have my share of fun and popularity. So many of my friends have new homes to entertain in; should this make a difference? What are the ingredients of popularity? — P.J., Fort Worth, Tex.

A. A new house is no criterion of popularity. A home that is gracious, clean and tastefully decorated is an ideal background for any girl. The important thing in being popular is to be the kind of person others normally seek out. If you are interested in other people, they will be interested in you.

Q. I am 14 and my parents make everything very difficult for me. They say I am not old enough to "car date." When I do, my mother wants to know the boy's life history. What can I do? — J.T., Detroit.

A. You can be very grateful for sensible parents who love you enough to protect you and your reputation. Perhaps if you give them the information they require without such a fuss, they in turn will have confidence enough in you to let you go on limited dates with boys in cars — provided you tell them fully about your plans and get home when you say you will.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS will be answered as space permits. (Miss Vanderbilt cannot answer letters personally.) Address Miss Amy Vanderbilt, PARADE, 285 Madison Ave., New York 17, N.Y.

At last—a LIGHT Banana Cream Pie!

The secret is CARNATION—the "Magic Crystals" INSTANT!

In 3 qt. and 8 qt. packages

Never before a banana cream pie so light, so tender.

Light in calories, too. The secret is "Magic Crystals" that burst into fresh milk flavor, without heavy fat.

Even the luscious topping is whipped Carnation Instant Nonfat Milk. Delicious for drinking — nutritious, too — with all the protein, all the calcium and B-vitamins of fresh, whole milk. Discover the only "Magic Crystals" Instant—Carnation.

For drinking, cooking, baking—
SAVE 1/3 ON MILK BILLS!

RECIPE

"MAGIC CRYSTALS" BANANA CREAM PIE

(Makes single-crust 9" pie)

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 cups CARNATION INSTANT mixed with 2 1/2 cups water
2 eggs
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 medium bananas
9" baked pie shell or crumb crust

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in top of double-boiler. Add liquid Carnation Instant, mix well. Cook over hot water until thickened (15-20 minutes), stirring occasionally. Add small amount hot Carnation Instant mixture to beaten eggs; mix and return to milk mixture over hot water. Cook 4-5 minutes longer. Remove from heat; stir in butter and vanilla. Cool; then pour part of filling into pie shell. Slice bananas over filling; pour remaining filling over bananas. Just before serving, top with whipped Carnation Instant.

YES, CARNATION INSTANT WHIPS!

FOR 3 CUPS whipped topping with 1/3 less calories:

1. Mix 1/2 cup Carnation Instant "Magic Crystals" with 1/2 cup cold water in bowl. Beat until soft peaks form (3-4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons water.
2. Continue heating until stiff peaks form (about 3-4 minutes longer). Fold in 1/4 cup sugar. Arrange on pie; serve at once.

Tums Is The World's Fastest Relief for Acid Indigestion!

Gives Special Prolonged Relief, Too
No Over-alkalizing Stomach—No Unwanted Extra Drugs

Now by simply carrying a roll of Tums in your pocket you can be sure that you have the fastest method known to relieve the pains of acid indigestion.

A well known college of pharmacy testing all leading antacids found that Tums work so quickly that they bring relief in less time than it takes to "get ready" with some preparations.

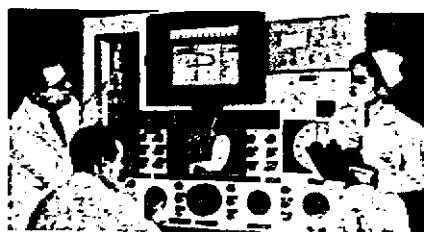

Tums actually work in seconds to relieve heartburn, sour stomach, gas—after-eating distress.

Other equally important advantages of Tums were proved: Tums has a special prolonged action which soothes and guards the stomach against further acid pain. Tums never over-alkalize the stomach. (And Tums contain no unwanted extra drugs such as aspirin laxatives, diarrhea medicine.)

So always carry Tums to have record-fast relief for distress caused by some food, the wrong thing to eat or drink, too much smoking. There is no waiting, nothing to mix, no fuss.

Get the benefit of Tums scientific formula unmatched in its great combination of speed, safety, 100% specific stomach relief. Always carry Tums—never be without them. Get a handy, economical roll today.

Electronic Acidity Recorder—This instrument—a combination of 23 scientific devices—was used to make the tests referred to. It tells the effectiveness of any antacid—shows how fast it works—how long it is effective—whether the stomach is over-alkalized. Results are measured electronically, automatically recorded. No antacid tested, regardless of price, matched the combination of Tums' advantages.

MARILYN

The 'dumb blonde' has

by LLOYD SHEARER

Marilyn Monroe, president of Marilyn Monroe Productions (a New York corporation, 200 shares no par value), stood on the front lawn of her rented Holmby Hills mansion ($1,000 a month for nine rooms, swimming pool and cabana) and posed for a small army of photographers.

This done, she pulled the belt of her polo coat tightly around her 24-inch waist, solidly planted her high, thin Italian heels in the soft sod, glanced momentarily at Milton Greene, vice-president and treasurer of her company, then pointed her index finger at me.

"Why does everyone ask," she demanded, "whether or not I've changed? They've been asking me that same question over and over again. Just because I've lived in the East for a year, is that why? I'm exactly the same person I've always been. What makes you think I've changed?"

Nine Revealing Points

In reply, I pointed out to Marilyn that in 14 months she had:

1) Formed, with ex-magazine photographer Greene, her own movie-production company;

2) Attended the famed Actors Studio and taken drama lessons from the well-known director and coach, Lee Strasberg;

3) Spent $210,000 on the screen rights to Terence Rattigan's play, The Sleeping Prince;

4) Signed Sir Laurence Olivier, one of the world's top actors, to direct and star opposite her in this film;

5) Negotiated a new contract with 20th Century-Fox which calls for her to make four films in four years at $100,000 each, starting with Bus Stop;

6) Won from that studio the right to approve directors and to make as many outside pictures as she likes;

7) Signed to release her first independent film through Warner Brothers;

8) Bought a more conservative wardrobe of cocktail and sports clothes;

9) Appeared more confident and businesslike than ever before.

"So much has happened to you since you were last here in 1955," I wound up, "that I'm sure you've changed."

Marilyn shook her freshly hennaed

Executives and friends, Monroe and Greene are snapped in cordial pose.

MONROE: pinup to president been away a year, and look—now she's a financial wizard head. "Only people who never really knew me," she said flatly, "think I've changed. I haven't."

Ever since she first won international fame as a pinup girl and, later, a comedienne, Marilyn Monroe has been the most incorrectly depicted star in the Hollywood constellation. She has been described as "beautiful but dumb... sexy but slow... a figure and face but no brain... unsophisticated and childlike... unambitious."

As a result, the public has regarded her as the prototype of the dumb but well-stacked movieland blonde. Last year, for example, when Marilyn revealed that she would very much like to play the role of Grushenka in The Brothers Karamazov by Dostoyevski, people smiled and scoffed.

They felt that a fatuous, empty-headed pinup babe was becoming pretentious and arty.

The truth about the 29-year-old actress is that she is about as naive as Errol Flynn, as simple as an equation by Einstein, as unambitious as a man running for President. She is, in short, the shrewdest, sharpest little cookie the movie colony has spawned in ages.

Corporate Assets

With no background, no money to begin with, no friends or influence, she has taken her physical charms—the measurements of which are no different than those of a thousand other girls—and in 10 years parlayed them into the leading asset of one of the most potentially profitable corporate setups in the entire entertainment field.

One of her former agents estimates that the world-wide gross of The Sleeping Prince will range between $10 and $15 million. A minimum net profit of $3 million will go to Marilyn Monroe Productions, of which Marilyn is controlling stockholder. Add that to her basic annual income of $100,000 from 20th Century-Fox—which is far from a corporate push-over—and the truth begins to emerge.

When Marilyn walked out of Fox 15 months ago because the studio wouldn't give her the right to make outside pictures, the general feeling here was that the poor kid had gone and loused herself up.

"Milton Greene may be a fine photographer for Look magazine," one columnist wrote, "but what does he know about producing motion pictures? In fact, what does Marilyn Monroe know? I predict that their company will never get off the ground."

What few people realized was that she had received $100,000 for each of her last two films, No Business Like Show Business and The Seven Year Itch. She had more than enough money to hold out indefinitely, and last year that's exactly what she did. She flew to New York, moved in with the Greenes "and tried to grow both as an actress and a human being. I went around to museums and art galleries. I met new and exciting people. I enrolled at the Actors Studio as an observer. I'm also taking private lessons from Mr. Strasberg. I studied and tried to broaden my knowledge and outlook."

"I Lost Weight with Ayds! So can you!"

says Mrs. Bob Cummings*

"AYDS can do amazing things for your figure—whether you want to lose 5 pounds or 20! I recommend it!"

Bob and his pretty wife appreciate that rare evening alone, without the family. Mary says, "AYDS can do amazing things for your figure! I know!"

Clinic proves Ayds Best and Safest in tests on 240 overweight women and men!

Mother of four children, Mary Cummings agrees it isn't always easy to keep one's ideal weight. But with AYDS you can, she's learned. This was proved in a New England clinic where experts tested four reducing methods—cellulose wafers, lozenges, pills, and modern AYDS. 240 people participated. Those who took AYDS averaged the greatest weight loss—almost twice as many pounds as the next best product! And AYDS users alone had no nervousness, sleeplessness, or unpleasant "side effects"! A reprint of this Medical Report will be sent to your physician at his request. He should write: CAMPANA, BOX MD, Batavia, Illinois.

No Drugs or Diet—No "Hunger Pangs"!

It's easy! Taken before meals as directed, this delicious AYDS candy—containing added vitamins and minerals—curbs your appetite. So without starving yourself, you automatically eat less and lose weight normally, safely, quickly.

Guaranteed to Work for You!

AYDS Plan users report losing up to ten pounds with their first box. And you must lose weight with your first box ($2.98), or money back. At leading drug and department stores. *Wife of the star of 'The Bob Cummings Show' on CBS-TV.

MONROE CONTINUED

BUSINESSWOMAN Monroe is caught whispering to Warner Bros. production chief Jack Warner.

'I'm more serious about my work than anything else'

She also became a businesswoman. "Marilyn Monroe Productions," says 34-year-old Greene, "wasn't a particularly new idea. Three and a half years ago when I first came out to Hollywood to photograph Marilyn, we talked about movies. We both decided that someday we'd like to make pictures that were artistic and commercial successes.

"We spoke about the project intermittently. A year or so ago when Marilyn was in New York for location work on Itch, four of us—Marilyn, Joe [DiMaggio], my wife Amy and myself—went to El Morocco and spoke about it some more. Then when Marilyn got divorced I came out to the coast, and the organization plans jelled.

"No matter what superficial impression she gives, Marilyn is a very sincere and sensitive person. She's also very smart, very shrewd and very serious about her work. Anybody who sells this girl short is making a big mistake. In addition to The Sleeping Prince, our company has five other properties under consideration. While Marilyn may not act in all of them, she'll have the major say because she's president and our single biggest asset."

Last winter, after trying unsuccessfully to fill a Monroe-less year with newcomers Sheree North, Joan Collins and Dana Wynter, executives at 20th Century-Fox capitulated and met Marilyn's terms. In January she and Greene returned to Hollywood. During pre-production work on Bus Stop she got up early, went bicycle riding to lose weight, posed for layouts, granted interviews. Today she is hard at work on the picture, alert, conscientious, eager to learn from Bus Stop's noted director, Joshua Logan.

To interviewers she is cautiously cooperative, gives a sensible and fairly standard series of replies.

● On marriage: "I'd love to get married again. I'd love to have a child or children. But I haven't got the husband picked out. I haven't got anyone in mind."

● On romance: "There's none in my life right now. I haven't even been dating. I go to work early in the morning and I'm usually in bed by 9:30."

● On men: "I like men. I guess I lean towards mature men who are considerate and have a certain sensitivity. Physical characteristics, whether they're bald or not—they don't mean anything to me."

● On Joe DiMaggio: "Let's say we're friends at a distance."

● On her future: "After this picture is finished I'd like to travel around Europe before The Sleeping Prince begins."

● On her work: "If I say I want to grow as an actress, people look at my figure. If I say I want to develop, to learn my craft, they laugh. Somehow they don't expect me to be serious about my work. I'm more serious about that than anything."

As she approaches 30, Marilyn realizes that her tremendous sex-appeal quotient is good only for another five or six years. She knows what's happened to Betty Grable, Lana Turner and the other pinup queens of yesterday, and she is determined to build her future on more than sex. She also is determined to put something aside for the proverbial rainy day.

From here, it looks as though this Monroe girl is only getting started. ■

Constipation now gone

"For 15 years I took laxative drugs daily. Then I tried All-Bran. It did the trick for me," writes Mr. S. L. Leaman, Greenwood, S. C. For over 40 years good-tasting Kellogg's All-Bran has been helping folks overcome constipation by restoring the good food bulk we need daily for natural regularity. Unlike laxative drugs (that ordinarily do not contain bulk), All-Bran corrects a common cause of irregularity—lack of bulk. Try All-Bran, a bowl a day, for 10 days. If not absolutely satisfied, return the empty carton and get double your money back. Kellogg's—the original ready-to-eat bran. Delicious!

Parade of Progress

GARBAGE DESTROYER: Throw this new preparation into your back-yard pail and, claims the maker, its bacterial culture consumes and liquefies all organic waste -- even bones, coffee grounds, egg shells. Moreover, the residue it leaves makes good compost for gardens or flower beds. Comes with sanitizer to prevent odors. $2.95. DAMAR, 763 Damar Bldg., Newark 5, N.J.

PIPE SMOKERS' AID: A practical and inexpensive ($1) pouch keeps your tobacco the way you like it -- and makes it easy to get at. It's plastic, with an ingenious metal-free zipper along the top edge. Slide your fingers along the edge and plastic tracks engage so securely that the pouch won't leak. Opening is just as simple: lift a flange and the tracks disengage. TOMILLS SALES, Box 3086 UC, St. Louis 5, Mo.

WALK AND IT'S DONE

With a "pelletized" fertilizer packed in a perforated tube that serves as a spreader, you just insert the wire handle and roll the fertilizer on your lawn. It contains nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, iron, copper and zinc -- plus a wetting agent for deeper penetration. $5.85. OLIN MATHIESON, 460 Park Ave., New York 22, N.Y.

STRIPS OFF PAINT: Newest paint remover is a non-inflammable paste said to dissolve even latex-based paints so they're easily removed from walls and woodwork. It's fast-acting, needs no neutralizing or after-wash. $1.15 a quart. KLEAN STRIP, Box 10083, Memphis 6, Tenn.

AUTOMATIC PITCHER: Here's a delight for the young ball-player at your house, and for dad, too: an electric-powered batting-practice machine. It throws eight or nine harmless 1 1/4" diameter rubber balls a minute. It's safe for use indoors or out. You can adjust it to throw fast, slow and curve balls. $39.50. DEDOES, 2070 W. Eleven Mile Rd., Berkley, Mich.

TIE PRESS: Insert a necktie between the two webbing-covered rollers of 10"-high press, turn a knob until tie is fully engaged, leave it there 24 hours and out it comes -- band-box neat and ready for wear. $16.50. COUNTESS MARA, 445 Park Ave., New York, N.Y.

There's something about a beautiful lawn....

(Illustrated, the 21-inch Power Propelled Rotary by Jacobsen with leaf mulcher attachment)

As a charming stage setting for easy outdoor living, a verdant show case to display your home to perfection, your lawn demands smooth, clean-cut grooming.

To achieve this distinctive appearance, a power mower by Jacobsen has been the choice of those who accept nothing less than the finest. Yet this precision made equipment is within the means of all who appreciate a beautiful lawn.

Only Jacobsen, with specialized knowledge of lawn care accumulated since 1921, provides such a wide selection of Power Lawn Tools to meet every need of terrain or turf.

For the reel or rotary mower suited to your lawn, consult your Jacobsen dealer, a reliable authority who has been carefully selected for his experience and standing in your community. If you do not find a Jacobsen dealer in your community listed here, write the factory for full information.

TOO TIRED
to face the day

THE GRAY SICKNESS

When you wake up feeling "old" and worn... too tired to face the day's work... you may have the GRAY SICKNESS. It keeps millions pale, tired and weak... needlessly!

*IRON deficiency anemia has been aptly called the GRAY SICKNESS. Not only because its victims have lost their once healthy color, but also because life itself has become gray and drab for them. For you simply can't enjoy work or play when you have to drag through day after weary day feeling tired, weak and listless. And sleep doesn't seem to refresh you for you wake up tired.

The GRAY SICKNESS means your blood isn't getting enough iron. It becomes weak, thin, washed-out... just can't supply your body with the full supply of oxygen it needs for buoyant health and radiant color. Signs of the GRAY SICKNESS may be due to other causes so you should see your doctor regularly.

REBUILD STRENGTH FAST

Fortunately the GRAY SICKNESS responds quickly to proper treatment... and normal healthy color, strength and vigor return. In cases like this doctors usually prescribe an iron tonic containing many times your daily iron requirement. Each daily therapeutic dose, 6 tablets of IRONIZED YEAST, contains 10 times your daily iron need... and this iron is fortified with vitamin B. Now this iron goes right to work... within 24 hours... to start building rich red blood... the kind of blood that soon brings back your normal strength and energy... fills you with your old-time pep... brings healthy color back to your cheeks again.

FEEL STRONGER IN 7 DAYS

Actually in just one week you'll start to feel your old self. You'll begin to enjoy doing a normal day's work again. So get IRONIZED YEAST tablets today. They are very economical to use even when taken in maximum dosage of 6 tablets daily. Just be sure you get genuine IRONIZED YEAST.

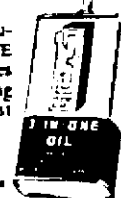

SIGNS OF THE GRAY SICKNESS

- ☐ PALLOR ☐ WEAKNESS
- ☐ TIREDNESS ☐ NERVOUSNESS
- ☐ LOSS OF APPETITE
- ☐ FREQUENT HEADACHES
- ☐ LOSS OF ENERGY

MOTIVATION WITH A BRUSH

Art Sharpens Kids' Perception

By Ben Zinser

A 9-YEAR-OLD BOY wetted a slender brush with yellow poster paint and stroked across the drawing paper:

/ / / / /

He liked what he saw so added some similar brush strokes farther down the page:

/ / / / /
/ / / / /

That done, he inscribed some white circles here and there:

o o o o o
o o o o o

Deep in thought, he pushed back the paper moments later and examined his work critically. The 11-year-old girl seated next to him, glancing up, could not help but notice the finished product.

"Looks like toothpicks and marshmallows," she remarked, giggling.

THE BOY BRISTLED. "It's a good example of an all-over pattern, and you know it," he retorted.

And he was right. At the same time it seemed to him the girl's artistic endeavor on the study table reminded him of something. She had sketched down the page like so:

"I know," the boy exclaimed suddenly. "Hop scotch and marbles."

"Silly," the girl said. "This is an all-over pattern, too."

She also was right.

The conversation is typical of that among 30 young voices when classes convene in Municipal Art Center.

THE OCCASION is a special course in basic design problems. To be eligible you have to be enrolled in the third to the sixth grade in school.

And you have to care tremendously about art.

Mrs. Samuel W. Heavenrich, the instructor, puts it this way: "Only those children who are highly motivated are permitted to sign up."

Her theory is that "any child may have plenty of talent but it's motivation we're interested in."

Mrs. Heavenrich, wife of the municipal art director, has taught the course for three years now, volunteering her time free of charge. The kids like her despite her insistence upon "discipline in art."

For every assignment has at least one control factor. Other than that, the child is given freedom to express himself artistically — but he must conform to the problem at hand.

Yet there's a waiting list of those who want to enter the class.

THE PROBLEMS presented are the same as those given to adult art students. However, Mrs. Heavenrich knows how to make it fun.

For a "space-filling" problem, she called for drawings of imaginary animals. The challenge immediately energized young imaginations. One boy sketched a new kind of octopus; he called it an "octopicture." A girl drew a creature entitled "Two Snakes With One Head."

Then there was a problem in "collages" — a pasting exercise. This was met by preparing a poster asking for materials. It read: "Wanted — Milk bottle tops, bottoms of milk cartons, coffee cans . . . and other fascinating collage items."

Do you know what a "space divider" is? Well, these young artists do. They can either identify one or draw them. Thus they learn about composition.

Action sketches? The kids call them "skeletons." To illustrate human action, they draw characters with toothpick-like torsos.

THEY ALSO STUDY basic shapes and problems in color.

Parents are not allowed inside the classroom. But they may stand outside the door and watch from a distance, and many of them do.

When painting exercises are completed, they are lined up outside for exhibition to the parents. After the pictures have dried, they are brought back inside for a student critique.

Mrs. Heavenrich formerly taught art to children in the Toledo Museum Art School. She also has been an art instructor at Wayne University and at the University of Southern California. She is a former assistant director of the Montgomery Ward & Co. Bureau of Design in Chicago and has taught good design in merchandising to executives of Marshall Field's in Chicago and Macy's in New York City. She was also educational director at Detroit and Denver Art Museums.

THE COURSE at Municipal Art Center is supplementary to the art instruction given in the schools, Mrs. Heavenrich says. Duplication is avoided.

"We're not trying to train artists," she explains. "Instead, we're attempting to sharpen perception as it concerns art values."

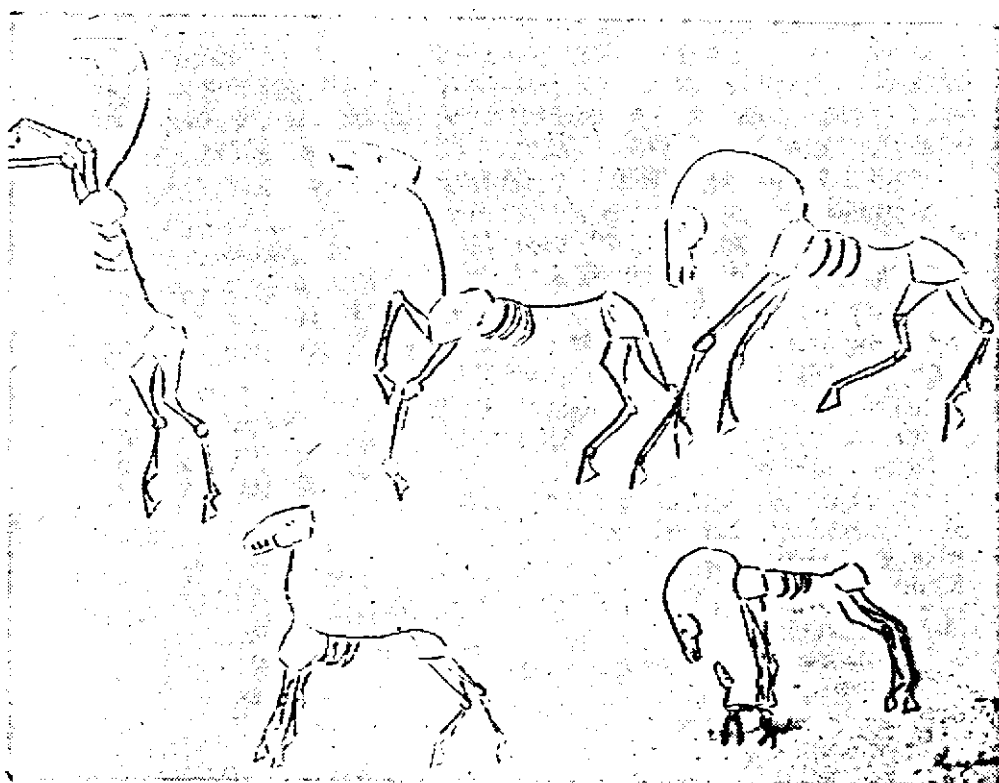

"It isn't how well the child paints to illustrate a design problem. The important thing is that he understands the problem."

"In other words, art appreciation is what counts. We're giving children something that will stay with them all their lives — something that will enable them to enjoy their lives more."

Salome and the Tailor-Made Dance

By Aubrey B. Haines

Carmen de Lavallade, garbed for "Sarong Paramaribo," will help carry on Lester Horton theater traditions.

THE LESTER Horton Dance Theater and School, at 7566 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles, is the only permanent theater in the Western Hemisphere devoted exclusively to dancing. It is a small auditorium with only 133 seats. Yet its dance productions have built up such a consistent following that the organization has performed a single program for six and eight months of weekend performances.

This group did not spring up overnight. For the past quarter of a century its founder, the late Lester Horton, proved himself a prolific creative artist. Horton's earliest training came as designer and stage manager for the Indianapolis Civic Theater, the city of his birth. But he soon abandoned this for brief study with Adolph Bolm and Andreas Pavely in Chicago.

Horton's spirit was adventurous and inventive by nature — so much so that it led him at once to an impassioned study of the North American Indian dance. His research in this field carried him to Indian reservations, where he studied the dance in its original and primitive forms. Here he would spend many hours watching eagerly and making notes. Then he would practice the steps he had seen. By the time he reached his late teens and early 20s Lester Horton was already considered an authority on the North American Indian dance.

THIS RESEARCH and study brought him to Los Angeles, where he was commissioned to stage an open-air Indian spectacle. Large works, requiring from 40 to 60 dancers, soon followed. The performances were given at the Philharmonic and the Shrine Auditorium.

Once in Los Angeles, Horton began studying with Michio Ito, and Ito's work had a profound influence on Horton, as was soon seen in his extension of the Japanese theory of usage of props to the dynamics of dance. Teaching and gathering successive groups of dancers around him, Horton was soon in demand for film work. Between 1912 and 1933 he racked up some 17 major film dance credits. These ranged from tailoring dances around a personality, such as Yvonne de Carlo for "Salome, Where She Danced," through primitive works ("White Savage") to the staging of the operatic spectacle in "Phantom of the Opera."

A BRIEF TRIP in the East put Horton on a Bennington summer project, creating dances for the ill-fated Broadway musical show, "Shootin' Star." Soon afterwards he was back again in Los Angeles, where with three associates he founded the Dance Theater in 1946. A few years later he purchased their interests and became sole owner.

After two long years of groundwork the quartet staged a first production in 1948. The next few seasons found Horton's activities sprinkled with such diversions as staging Earl Carroll's Theater-Restaurant revues, the Los Angeles Greek Theater's musical shows, and intimate commercial revues, such as "Tongue in Check," as well as a series of dances for television.

On the morning of Nov. 2, 1953, Lester Horton died of a heart attack. He had had a previous attack in the late spring or summer of 1950 but continued to drive himself at his work. He had willed the school and theater to Frank Eng, a former newspaperman. Since then Eng has completed plans for continuing both with the help of the principal dance-instructors, Carmen de Lavallade and James Truitte.

Carmen as Yerma and Richard D'Arcy as the lover appear in Lester Horton production of "Prado de Pena" (Field of Pain) from Lorca tragedy, "Yerma."

It's 1910 in Hungary and Princess Alexandra (Grace Kelly) and Prince Albert (Alec Guinness) are introduced by her mother, Princess Beatrix. Prince is seeking bride; Alexandra is princess without a throne.

Prince Albert is only mildly interested in Alexandra and she and her mother give ball, invite handsome tutor, Prof. Agi (Louis Jourdan) in effort to stir jealousy. Agi and Princess show interest in each other.

SOUTHLAND'S MOVIE PREVIEW

Girl With 2 Princes

THERE ARE TWO HANDSOME PRINCES in the life of Grace Kelly. One is Prince Rainier III, to whom the beautiful star will be married this week in Monaco. The other is Prince Albert (Alec Guinness), who meets, woos and wins her in "The Swan," magnificent romantic comedy in CinemaScope and color which M-G-M boasts may be its most important picture of the year. For details of Miss Kelly's wedding to Prince Rainier, readers must watch for on-the-spot news from Monaco during the next several days, but here is what happens when she romances with Prince Albert in "The Swan."

On learning how he was used as a decoy (to no effect on Albert), Agi in anger tells off all concerned, including Fr. Hyacinth (Brian Aherne) and is ready to fight. Princess discovers incipient love for young commoner.

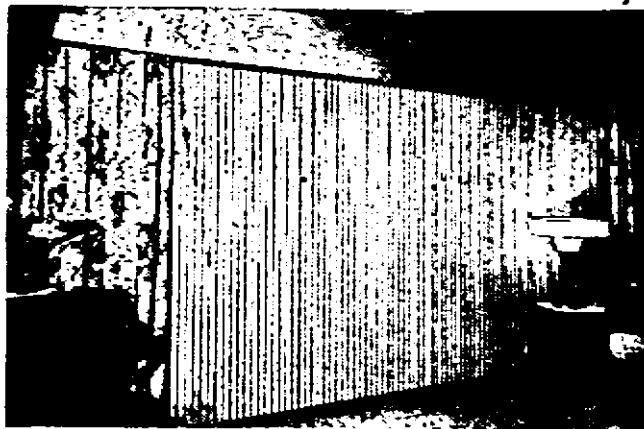

Alexandra defends Agi in spirited manner and Prince becomes interested. But Agi has listened to Fr. Hyacinth's advice, and sees marriage as impossible, packs up and leaves the palace.

Alexandra pleads to go with Agi; refused request, she stands on terrace, watches him leave. Albert, now no longer indifferent suitor, talks with her and turns her interest to him.

Round trip fare, Long Beach to Catalina, was $1 aboard the Nellie (above) in 1908. Capt. A. C. Malone (inset). 250 Termino, was the Nellie's skipper.

Excursion to Catalina—1908

By Vera Williams

ABOARD the launch Nellie, A. D. Sea and Mrs. A. S. Taylor were united in marriage by Capt. Malone, master of the launch.

So says a yellowing newspaper clipping in the possession of Capt. A. C. (Gus) Malone, 250 Termino Ave., and he chuckles as he recalls that he married not one but three couples at sea when he was skipper of the Nellie.

With Malone's steady hand on the helm, the Nellie, a sturdy two-deck pleasure craft, plied daily between Long Beach and Santa Catalina Island when the century was young.

Malone (he still is called "Cap," "Cap'n" or more formally "Captain"), treasures his pilot's license, second class, authorizing him to pilot "steam vessels of any gross tonnage."

A RESIDENT of Long Beach since 1901, Capt. Malone was an early day owner and business manager of the Long Beach Press. He sold his newspaper interests in 1953.

In 1908 he bought the Nellie from H. S. Callahan and John Daly.

"The Nellie was a centerboard boat," he recalls. "She carried six tons of lead on her keel. Her sticks (masts) towered 85 feet from her main deck. She won races from San Francisco to Honolulu and from San Pedro to Honolulu."

The Nellie, which had 225 life preservers, was allowed to carry 200 passengers.

But Malone recalls that once many people swarmed on, and the Nellie put off without counting them. "We were out beyond Dead Man's Island before we realized we had 300. It was too late to turn back, we couldn't push the people into the ocean so we kept on going. Nothing happened."

THE NELLIE LEFT from the end of Pine Ave. pier and she tied up at the Avalon wharf.

The trip took 3 hours, 20 minutes. Traditionally, she left Long Beach at 9:30 a. m. and Avalon at 3:30 p. m. Round-trip fare was $1.

How about the marriages at sea?

"Well," says Capt. Malone, "the captain of a vessel can perform marriages at sea. I was the captain and the San Pedro Channel between here and Catalina certainly is the sea."

"I married three couples. We always made quite a thing of it, inviting all the passengers to witness the ceremonies."

A LOS ANGELES judge, about that time, had said if marriages were performed at sea, divorces should be granted at sea, too.

"I warned my couples about that complication," Capt. Malone says. "But they said 'Oh, we'll never want a divorce!' And I never heard of their getting divorced, so I guess they didn't."

In 1916, as Capt. Malone recalls, he sold the Nellie to Sam Lindsey, who then had a glass-bottom boat at Santa Catalina Island. He bought the Nellie for $2,500; he sold her for $5,000.

Capt. Malone also operated the Fashion, largely on trips along the coast. She usually was hired by excursion parties for the day or by the hour. A favorite trip was to Newport. Capt. Malone finally sold the Fashion for $2,500.

Families can enjoy camping out before one of natural fireplaces found in clefts of rocks at Indian Coves.

Paul C. Smith Photos

Crevice rocks of Indian Coves, not far from Twentynine Palms, provided Serrano Indians with perfectly functioning natural fireplaces and chimneys.

Chimneys of the Serranos

By Helen Smith

NO ONE will deny the attraction of sitting before an open fireplace. Watching the flashing flames as wood smoke silently rises and hearing the staccato snap of embers bringing a mesmerizing warmth always pleasurable.

If you would add to this pleasure, get a dividend of exciting adventure by relaxing before a fire in one of nature's own rock-formed fireplaces which draw so perfectly they were used by thousands of Serrano Indians and were in use until just over 40 years ago.

Called Indian Coves, it is now a national forest campground located a few miles west and south of Twentynine Palms. It is easily accessible by paved road.

After turning right off the main highway and starting the gentle ascent from the desert floor, the visitor sees silhouetted ahead a jumbled upheaval of sienna-colored stone. The campground is almost surrounded by the smooth, crevice rock. In each semi-circular "cove" the rock is blackened up its face to a height of almost 25 feet.

HERE THE SERRANOS built their fires for warmth, cooking and counseling. The olive green creosote bush, which forms a sea of small-leaved plant growth over much of the desert area, was used for fuel because of lack of wood, hence the unusual soot-coated walls.

As darkness falls, and the glow from a comforting fire reaches out to the ebony, desert night, campers are acutely aware that they are repeating history in these naturally sheltered primeval patios.

Here once were the Serranos. Here, too, was prehistoric man who inhabited this section of California some 9000 years ago.

The Serranos were a branch of the Shoshones and lived throughout this arid land which ranges from 1000 feet to more than 5000 feet in elevation. At the upper levels there is also evidence of rock fires but since it can snow there (and did last February) the savages sought the less rugged climate, especially in winter.

SIGNS OF INDIAN occupancy can still be found in the region but all articles must be turned over to personnel at Twentynine Palms Ranger Headquarters. Arrowheads, pottery, beadwork and other products of their civilization are on display at the headquarters station.

A visit to Indian Coves is memorable in many ways. From the car, most desert flora looks much alike; actually it varies considerably and is well worth studying. Cat's claw, beaver tail and smoke thorn are but a few of the descriptive names. Predominant are the Joshua tree, nolina, cholla, and ocotillo.

THE DESERT is dry for most of the year and plants look brittle and grayed. But in April and May they bid for glamour by bursting forth with blossoms as exotic and colorful as orchids which show to advantage against the clay and sand earth.

VISITORS MAY camp at several trailer and tent sites besides Indian Coves. There are Jumbo Rocks, Hidden Valley and Cottonwood Springs. Only the latter provides drinking water so travelers should carry at least ten gallons of water with them.

Plenty of firewood is also necessary to ward off night chill in the spring and winter seasons in the campgrounds.

As campers sit before one of the cove fireplaces and the flames are reflected on the seasoned stone, they will find it not too difficult to imagine that swarthy figures of long-departed tribal folk may be warming themselves approvingly in the shadows near the blaze.

"If we rent a car in England how do you arrange to take it to the Continent? Or do they allow this?"

I'M SURE nearly all the car rental agencies let you take the car anywhere in Europe. With limitations on Iron Curtain countries. You do it like this: The agency will get you an International Driving Permit (take along a half dozen extra passport pictures). They also get you a carnet de passage, a ticketed document describing the car. Each time you enter a country, you give customs a ticket. Give them the duplicate when you leave. Proves you didn't leave the car in the country. The cost of all this I forget exactly. But it's in the $30-$40 bracket.

As to getting across, there's either a Channel boat from Dover or an air service that hauls the car to Paris. Not expensive and the rental agency arranges everything. Matter of fact, the whole thing can be arranged in advance in the States with a travel agent. No cost to you.

"We had some kind of fish cocktail in Acapulco, Mexico. Also some kind of drink in a coconut. You wouldn't know what it was or how to make it, would you?"

THE FISH cocktail is called saviache, no? You take a flaky, bass-like fish. Cut it in chunks. Chopped onion on top. Soak it all raw in lemon juice overnight in the refrigerator. A little sprinkle of tobacco sauce and serve. You vary this with added chopped tomato and/or chopped green peppers.

Don't know the name of the drink. But you make it by boiling out one of the eyes of a fresh green coconut. Pour in a large jigger of dark rum. Let it stand 24 hours. Ice and shake it up before pouring. Salud!

"Where is the best place to buy toys in Europe? We must bring back something for the grandchildren."

GERMANY tops everybody for toys, I think. Especially the mechanical toys. Everything from inexpensive magnet-driven cars to wonderful toy trains.

But if you are getting dolls, I think the best and most lifelike are in Spain. Japan is the best but if you are limited to Europe, then either the Street of Serpents in Seville or the shops on the Gran Via in Madrid.

Now It's 'Undo-It-Yourself'

THERE MUST BE other people just like me. For example, when my latest "Do-It-Yourself" creation acted like an electric toaster I did a slow burn because I had serious intentions of building an FM tuner. I must admit I did deviate a little from the schematic instructions furnished to me but it was only done for the sake of improved performance.

Please don't get any wrong impressions. These "Do It Yourself" Kits on the market today are excellent. In fact, they defy criticism. Directions are consistently lucid, pictures always graphic, and there's never a part missing but... well, I still think some people must be just like me!

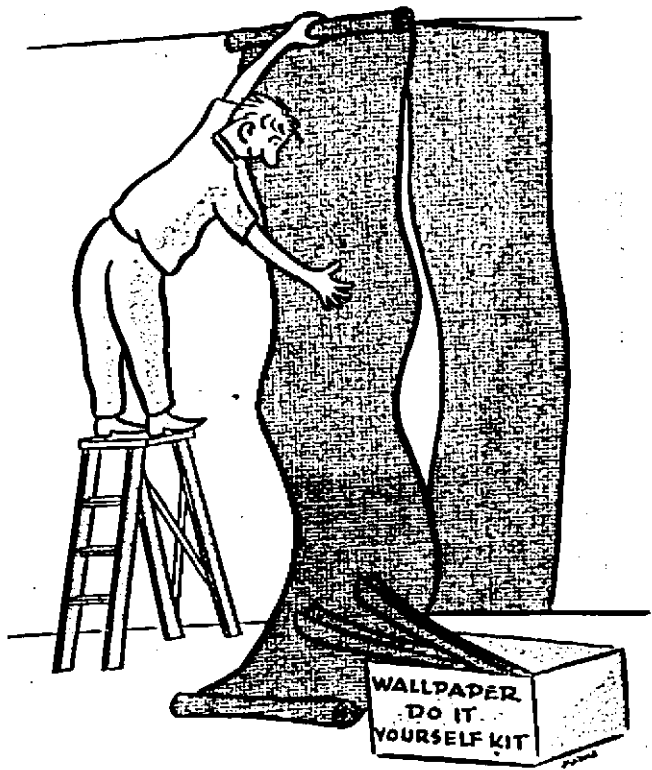

My last paperhanging job is an excellent example. At the time I purchased the very expensive wallpaper for our dining room the clever pattern depicted Hannibal crossing the Alps with elephants. I just couldn't resist improving as the job progressed and believe it or not, when I was finished you couldn't detect a single elephant and the picturesque Alps had a striking resemblance to our own Grand Canyon.

My wife didn't say much. Just exclaimed, "What a mess!" This derogatory remark must have been aimed at my paperhanging methods because I know she loves the Canyon.

Now, when a fellow gets into an embarrassing position like this as the result of honest effort, there should be an easy way out which he may execute in good grace. This, I believe, could best be accomplished by the medium of Undo-It-Yourself kits.

AS TIME WILL PERMIT (I'm supposed to be mowing the lawn) I will list a few of these kits:

Kit No. 1: "The Disintegration Set" Consisting of five mono-programmed sticks of dynamite

Beauty Queens of the Royal Court

IN "THE KING AND I" $6,000,000 movie version of the Broadway hit, Yul Brynner as his highness has the finest supply of wives ever to hit the CinemaScope screen.

Moviegoers will recognize two of them as graduates of the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant. In keeping with the picture's theme, both are suitably of Oriental descent.

One is Maureen Hingert, the sloc-eyed Miss Ceylon who placed third in the 1955 contest and who had been a favorite with the crowds for the Miss "U" title.

THE OTHER is Judy Dan, already a film star in China who won third place in 1952 as Miss Hong Kong.

For the first time since hitting Hollywood, the two girls believe they are rolling in high gear on the road to movie success as a result of their roles in the big picture based on the Rodgers and Hammerstein hit.

But film polygamy is not the only interest of these Universe beauties.

MISS HONG KONG, who remained over to be an actress, not only acquired a movie career but also a husband and now a baby daughter.

Instead of returning to her parents — both of Dutch and Ceylonese descent—in Colombo, Ceylon, Maureen Hingert is planning to pursue studies at UCLA. Her father, a banker, recently cabled approval of her educational project.

The 18-year-old beauty is living at what her studio publicists describe as the "well-chaperoned Hollywood Studio Club" while considering more roles before school.

SEVERAL FILM offers have been made to the young lady, whose winning measurements are, reading from top to bottom, 38-25-37.

Jon Hall is paging her to play the jungle queen in his "Ramar of the Jungle" TV series. Maureen is hesitating because she doesn't want to undertake a series that might hinder her education.

Judy Dan, who married architect Tom Woo and remained in America after the 1952 Universe pageant, rejected a bid to return to her native China and star in a movie to be directed by her father.

She is busy making a home for her husband and their 5-month-old daughter, Judiann.

MISS DAN, now 25, majored in drama at George Pepperdine College for three years after the Long Beach beauty contest, but quit college because it interfered with domestic life.

"When Judiann is a little older and able to be left with my parents-in-law, I expect to go to UCLA and get my degree," she says.

"And I hope she'll be an actress when she grows up," Miss Dan adds. "You meet the nicest people in the movies."

Both Universe beauties had wide backgrounds in motion pictures before coming to Long Beach for the pageant.

MISS DAN, daughter of top Chinese producer-director Dan To-Youe, was starred at the age of 9 by her father in a picture called "The Birds in the Flowers."

She made eight other pictures before coming to America. Her sister, Sally Dan, is now a noted Chinese film star.

Miss Hingert starred in "Ram Gopal," a Ceylon film and "Stars Over Ceylon," a German picture

Maureen Hingert, "Miss Ceylon" and also third in '55 "Miss U" event, also plays royal wife in "King and I" made in Ceylon, and had a part in the American movie "Elephant Walk."

Both beauties arrived in Long Beach for the pageant with fabulous wardrobes.

JUDY BROUGHT 60 silken Chinese gowns. Maureen had 35 saris of various jewel colors woven with gold and silver.

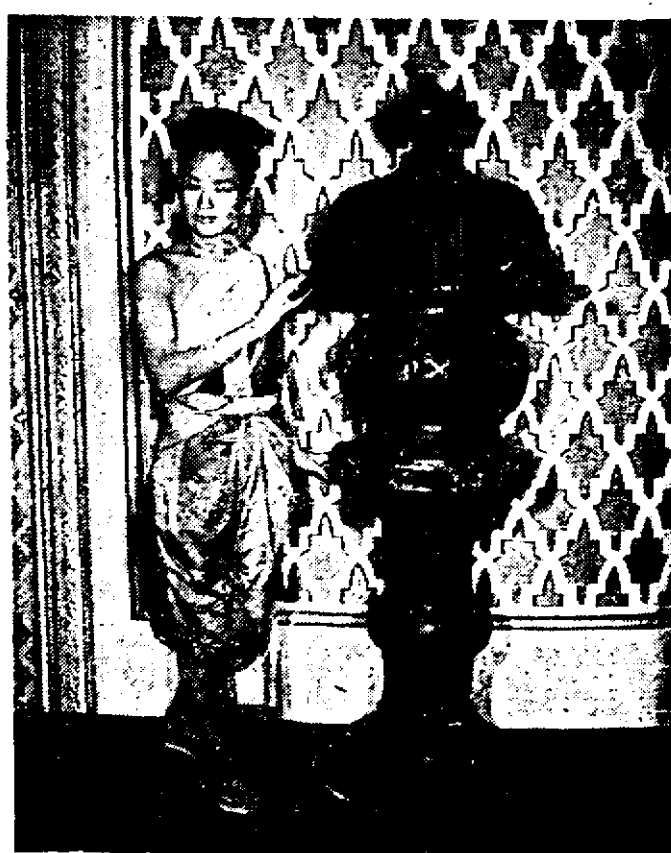

The girls wowed the crowds with their beauty, but until "The King and I" failed to impress Hollywood bigwigs.

Awarded beauty winners' contracts at Universal-International, Miss Ceylon appeared in a short and had a bit-part in "Pillars in the Sky."

Miss Hong Kong made no pictures during her stay at U-I, but made her U. S. film debut as a Mongolian princess in "Destination Gobi" for Fox. Later she appeared in "Cisco Kid," "Cowboy G-Men" and "Fireside Theater" TV films.

Now, with "The King and I," both girls hope to move ahead as actresses—and to cram college work in along the line.

Judy Dan, 1952 "Miss Hong Kong" in "Miss U" contest in which she was third, now has role in "King and I"

Art That Moves

By E.V. Sutliff

NOVEL HOBBY is that of Mrs. Pat Wasson whose participation in a course called "exploratory art" led to her prominence as a designer of mobiles, modernistic suspended ornaments.

The class offered at Long Beach State College is designed to encourage students to explore all possible art forms. Eventually artistic "possibilities" can be seen in bits of string, leaves, wire, clay and chalk. Unfettered by tradition, students begin looking about them for material to be exploited.

Accepting the challenge, Mrs. Wasson began speculating upon the uses to which sheaths from a bamboo tree growing in her yard might be put.

THE SHEATHS fantastically light and tough and fairly easily cut. Mrs. Wasson began experimenting with cutting and sanding pieces into abstract shapes—ovals, triangles and gently curved segments. Few of the pieces were flat since there is a natural curvature to the sheath.

Interested for many years in the mobiles created in the 1920s and exhibited in the Museum of Modern Art, Mrs. Wasson pondered the possibilities of creating a newer sort of mobile, one that had the lightness of leaves in a breeze. (The earlier form of mobile was an exceptionally heavy and ponderous creation.)

CAREFULLY BALANCING one part against another, Mrs. Wasson constructed mobiles containing many moving segments, all of which respond to the slightest air current by gently swinging and turning. This, Mrs. Wasson explains, typifies art in motion. The picture created by a mobile is ever changing and ever captivating. Existing for no other reason than for the art they present, they are delightful, whimsical and refreshingly new.

Several of Mrs. Wasson's mobiles have been displayed at the Art Mart in conjunction with the Long Beach Art Center. One of her prized models hangs at State College.

Made entirely of bamboo with tiny lengths of thread needed to suspend the parts, the mobiles attest to the fact that from the simplest materials, pleasing art forms may be created.

Designer of mobiles, a modernistic form that brings motion to art, Mrs. Pat Wasson works on new project.

WHAT WILL IT BE LIKE?

Our Future System of Freeways

By Clarence Bernard Propes

LONG BEACH will one day be laced and surrounded by a system of freeways. A San Diego Freeway may run on an east-to-west diagonal. An Alamitos Freeway may follow the present Pacific Electric right-of-way from the Marine Stadium out through the northwest corner of Long Beach. Artesia Ave. may become a major freeway and a brand new road may be built through Long Beach to lead traffic from the east and the west.

These are the plans but no one is sure when any of these roads will be constructed. An engineer with the State Division of Highways ventured the guess that the San Diego Freeway through Long Beach and into Garden Grove will be completed within eight to ten years.

THE LOS ANGELES County master plan for freeways calls for their completion by the year 2000. Some engineers say they will be completed by 1960. Others say 1960. No one really knows.

There even isn't agreement about the meaning of "Freeway." According to the California State Highway Department engineers, a "freeway" is a road with limited access. To them a "parkway" is a street with free access. In Long Beach the terms are interchangeable.

A freeway is a special sort of multi-laned highway from 160 to 300 feet wide, depending on the contour of the land.

The construction of freeways is an enterprise of city, state and county government, and many times the federal government is concerned. The planned freeways could be built within a few years if the money were available but this money is budgeted from year to year. The Highway Department uses it where the need is greatest.

ALTHOUGH the San Diego Freeway is not budgeted for the coming fiscal year, it has been completely laid out. It will start in San Fernando and end in San Diego. Entering Long Beach at about 223rd St., it will take a diagonal course and leave the city south of Atherton at the San Gabriel channel where it will head east through Garden Grove. Another freeway, this one proposed, would leave the San Diego Freeway at the San Gabriel River and enter Long Beach south of Seventh St.

The proposed Alamitos or Apian Freeway would lead off the Garden Grove Freeway and follow the present Pacific Electric right-of-way from a point on Colorado St. between the Marine Stadium and the Colorado Lagoon. It will continue into Los Angeles after leaving Long Beach near Artesia and Alameda Sts.

State plans call for a proposed freeway to run between the Alamitos Freeway crosstown to the Long Beach Freeway east of the Los Angeles River. It would handle traffic into the downtown section as well as take traffic into the harbor area.

LONG BEACH FREEWAY is scheduled for completion within 18 months into Los Angeles. Final proposals call for its traffic to flow to and from the present system of one-way streets in the downtown area.

Although they will not be freeways, there will be new roads leading to Long Beach's waterfront. There are plans to establish a road from Bellflower and Seventh St. to join Livingston Drive, Palos Verdes Drive and Studebaker Rd. may be extended to the Marina. City officials regard the San Gabriel Freeway, which will run along the east bank of the river, as a critical road even though it is not in the city.

One official called attention to the fact that the majority of the people using the beaches and the Marina come from all over the Southland. An efficient system of roadways to the beach areas would relieve congestion on such streets as Lakewood and Bellflower Blvds.

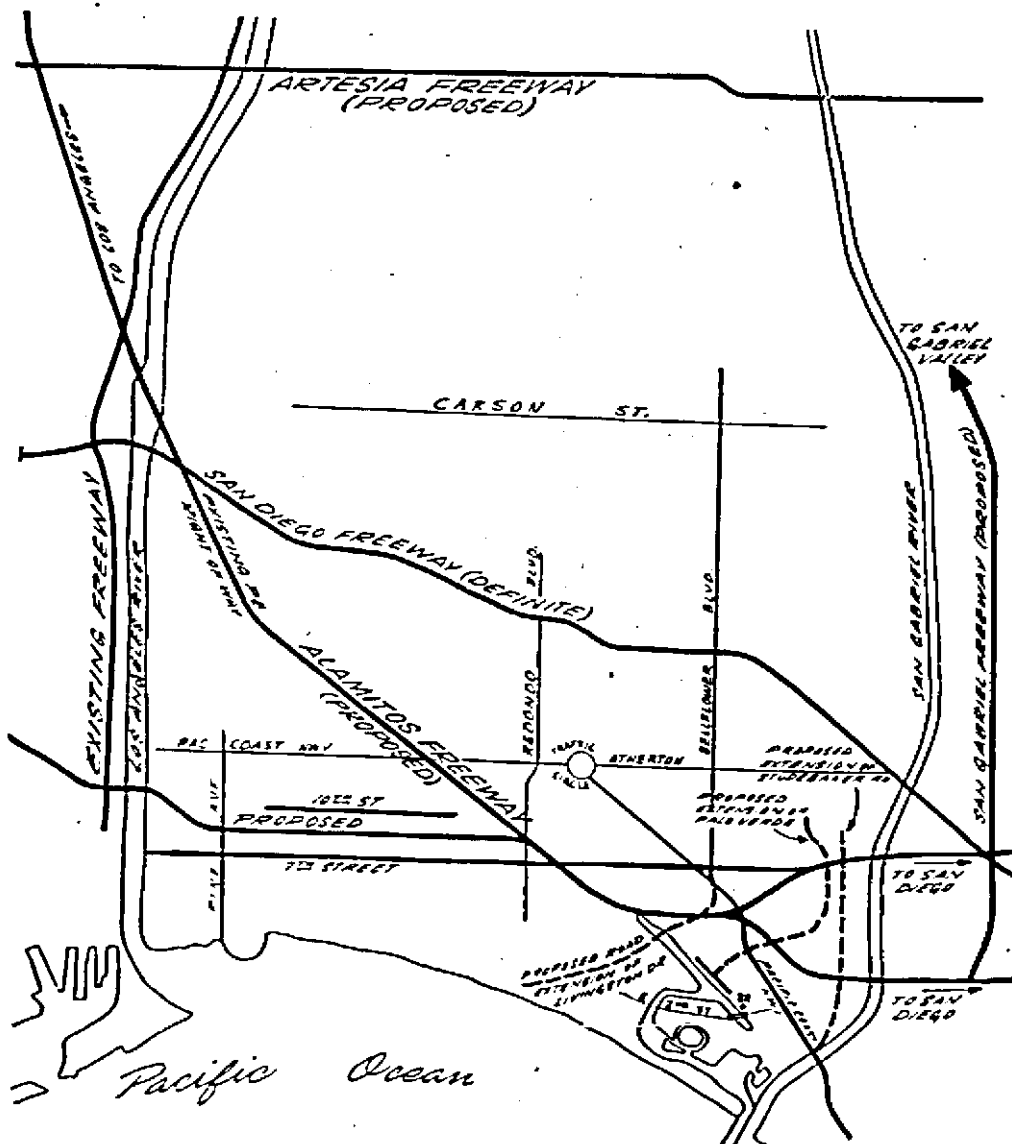

The exact route of the crosstown freeway from the Pacific Electric right-of-way has not been established although planner's maps show it starting from Ninth St. and Mira Mar Ave.

A CITY ENGINEER said, "You must remember these lines are tentative. They can vary as much as half a mile."

"We have to have a point to begin our studies," he continued, "and we selected these streets at random. A great many things will enter into our final decision; topography, soil and buildings are just a few of the factors. All we are certain of is the fact there will have to be a crosstown freeway in the downtown district."

The freeways are part of an overall pattern. The freeways through Long Beach will help the traffic flow in San Diego, San Fernando or even San Bernardino.

As one engineer said "Freeway" is a fighting word in a lot of places but it's the safest and fastest way we have found for moving traffic. They're coming, boy. The freeways are coming."

—Drawing by Parker Markle.

Map shows definite and proposed freeways in the Long Beach area. The Los Angeles County Master Plan calls for their completion by the year 2000.

Spring sees yuccas in flower in Southland foothills. Early Spaniards referred to them as "Candles of God."

Candles of God

By Bertha Blanchard

TRAVELING along desert highways in Southern California during the spring months from April through June, Long Beach motorists will delight in seeing the enchanting beauty of the tall, picturesque blooms of the yucca plant. Candles of God, these yuccas were called by the early Spanish settlers in California. By sunlight, these lovely flowers do resemble huge candles burning with white flames, lighting the barren desert regions and hillsides; by moonlight, they become magic torches—a sight never to be forgotten.

Although, the yuccas belong to the lily family, at first glance there seems to be little resemblance to the familiar garden variety. However, each one of the innumerable tiny flowers is a true lily.

THE YUCCA is a Cinderella plant. For two or three years, the lowly yucca sends forth bayonet-like leaves, with needle-sharp tips. These spines grow directly from the ground without stem until a large cluster is formed. The plant remains unnoticed until the miracle begins. From the center of the bristling leaves, a stalk shoots out that resembles a giant asparagus. The stalk grows rapidly, nearly a foot a day, until it reaches upward to a height of from eight to 15 feet. Branchlets grow out from the main stalk, buds appear and open, then as if by magic thousands of creamy-white waxen blossoms transform the yucca into a thing of radiant splendor.

This queen of desert blossoms is not only exquisitely beautiful, but useful as well. It was used for food by both early Californians and Indians. The young tender flower shoots were boiled, baked or roasted in a pit. The flowers were also boiled and eaten by the Indians, the seeds being ground for porridge.

The leaves produced a strong fiber that was used in making ropes, nets, and saddle blankets. The roots, being rich in saponin, were used as soap in washing clothes.

ANOTHER INTERESTING feature of this unusual plant is the way in which it is pollinated by a tiny moth, Pronuba yuccasella. This moth lays her eggs in the yucca and nowhere else. Neither the plant nor the moth could live without the other, such is the strange cooperation of the plant and insect.

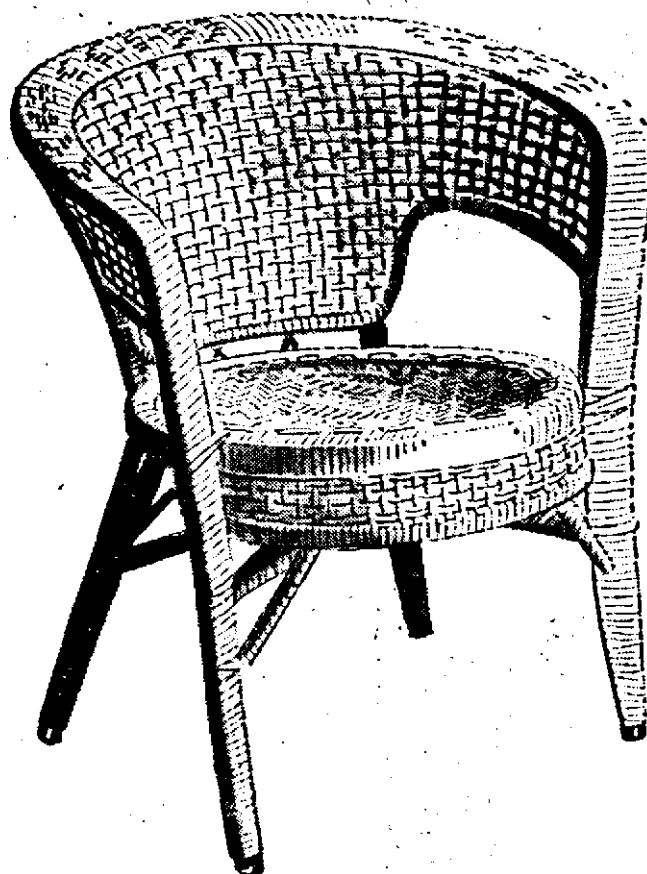

As the lovely blossoms fade and wither, green pods replace them by late July. These pods become dry, rattle in the desert breeze, and as they pop open, scatter seeds on the ground around the yucca. The flower stalk now becomes brittle and breaks off. The spiny bayonets turn towards the earth. Thus ends the life cycle of the magnificent yucca.

Unveiling in the Temple

By Ellen Saunders

WHAT Hebrew scholars believe to be the first major mosaic mural to be installed in a Jewish temple since Biblical times recently was unveiled in the foyer of the new $850,000 Temple Emanuel in Beverly Hills.

The theme of the mural depicts the three main functions of the contemporary temple — study, assembly and prayer. It was designed by Joseph L. Young, Los Angeles muralist who is recognized as America's leading exponent of this 5,000-year-old art.

Young recently created the world's largest cantilevered mosaic mural for the new Los Angeles Police Facilities Building.

First major mosaic mural installed in a Jewish Temple since Biblical times, detail is shown in this close-up.

They Read Your Line

Hundreds of letters each day for "What's My Line?" are sorted and read by Ann Kaminsky and Frances Trocaine.

By John Frederick

Press-Telegram TV Columnist

IF YOU LIKE to read letters, then you should have a job like Frances Trocaine or Ann Kaminsky — they read between 750 and 1,000 letters a week and all about the same thing.

Picking up a letter at random, it starts off:

"Dear Sirs:

"I am a jelly bean polisher . . ."

That's a good start and now the two girls have a pretty good occupation to use in their constant efforts to baffle the panel of "What's My Line?" on the CBS-TV network each Sunday night.

Frances and Ann have a little office on E. 57th St. and there they go through the letters, sort out the occupations, look at the snapshots of the applying contestants, catalogue them and get set to pick the four or five who'll maybe get a chance to appear.

THE FILES in the office start with A for African hunting guide and wind up with Z and a zipper repairman. In between are some of the strangest occupations ever heard of . . . many never heard of before.

It takes a tough occupation to baffle the panel, comprising Bennett Cerf, Dorothy Kilgallen, Arlene Francis and Steve Allen or a guest panelist.

So far the panel is away ahead in the scoring but they did fail to find out that one man managed an embalmed whale, another spent eight hours a day counting nickels taken from parking meters, another was a man who made eyeglasses for chickens and still another was a fish counter for Uncle Sam.

The two girls work for the show's producers, Goodson-Todman, and are not surprised at anything that the mail brings in. They've gone through thousands of letters to find such unique jobs as bird bath builders, bagel bakers, bloodhound breeders, candy tasters, yo-yo testers, gorilla hunters and a man who

You need

Jacqueline Cochran's
FLOWING VELVET

This modern flowing formula has helped countless women—just like you—who had despaired of a dry, prematurely aging skin.

Jacqueline Cochran has found a whole new answer to the dry skin problem and its main cause, the dehydration of the sub-surface tissues. After years of research, she discovered Hydrolin, a new ingredient that, for the first time, can and does transfer beneficial moisture into the deep tissues of the skin. Thanks to exclusive Hydrolin, blended with other rich components, Jacqueline Cochran created an entirely new kind of 3-way beauty formula.

Unique Flowing Velvet acts 3-ways:

- It furnishes moisture that actually sinks into your skin.
- It provides necessary oils for essential lubrication.
- It maintains the normal balance of oils and moisture.

One touch mirrors the beautiful change! Tiny lines soften, years seem to melt away. Use Flowing Velvet day and night. It's hormone-free, greaseless, won't smear your make-up or smudge your pillow.

Our specially trained Jacqueline Cochran expert will be happy to show you what just a few drops of richly concentrated Flowing Velvet will actually do for your skin.

COOKING

Try Cheese for Something Special

By Mildred K. Flanary

Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

SURPRISE ELEMENTS, as all good cooks know, convert standard foods into the "specials" that brighten the routine of dining at home. And one of the surprisers is listed among the oldest foods known to present-day mankind. It's cheese.

Cheese is one of the standards on the pantry or refrigerator shelves, but how it is employed lifts it and the other foods with which it is combined into the special class. A deft hand with a bit of cheese saves many an otherwise drab menu.

As an example, a cheese soufflé, high, handsome and fluffy, is gratifying to serve and enjoyable to savor. But a dish as delicate-looking as a soufflé often frightens beginning homemakers into passing it by. But soufflés are not really difficult; there is no long or involved preparation. The main thing is the timing—a soufflé should be served the minute it comes from the oven, before it has a chance to go pffft! Just be sure the rest of the meal is on the table and your family is alerted that dinner won't wait.

A recipe for an olive-cheese soufflé is pictured and the recipe is featured on this page.

Following are other suggestions for using cheese:

Basic Welsh Rabbit

- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- Dash of cayenne pepper

- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 pound Chateau cheese, grated
- 1 egg, if desired

Combine salt, paprika, cayenne and dry mustard in chafing dish (or top of double boiler). Gradually stir in milk, blending well. Add cheese and mix thoroughly. Cook over simmering water, stirring often, until cheese is melted and mixture is smooth. If a thick rabbit is desired, stir a little of the cheese mixture into a slightly beaten egg, then return to remaining cheese mixture and cook over hot water, stirring constantly until thick and smooth, about 3 minutes. Serve at once on hot toast, rice or in patty shells.

Mushroom Cheese Fondue

- 4 eggs, separated
- 1 cup (4 ounces) grated sharp cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 can (1 1/4 cups) condensed cream of mushroom or celery soup
- 2 cups small bread cubes

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Then beat egg yolks until thick. Combine egg yolks, cheese, mustard, soup (whichever flavor soup you prefer), and bread cubes. Gently fold in egg whites. Bake in a greased 1 1/2-quart casserole for 1 hour in a slow oven (325° F.). Six servings.

Olive-Cheese Soufflé:

- 1 cup ripe olives
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 pound American process cheese slices
- 4 eggs
- 1 (10 1/2 or 11-ounce) can cream of mushroom soup

Milk
Cut olives into large pieces. Melt butter; blend in flour and salt; add milk gradually and cook, stirring until thick and smooth. Add cheese and continue stirring until cheese melts. Beat egg yolks; add a little of hot sauce to them; then combine the two mixtures. Stir in half the olives. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold gently into cheese-olive sauce. Pour into ungreased 1 1/2-quart baking dish. With spatula, trace a circle through the mixture, 1 inch from edge. (This makes a crown when baked.) Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 1 hour, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Heat mushroom soup with 1/2 canful of milk; add remaining ripe olives and serve with soufflé. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Olive-cheese soufflé is one method of using standard foods in combination which provides something special.

Small, in-the-wall bar provides a handy pass-through between kitchen and den, living room or dining room.

By Eileen Ball

STORAGE PROBLEMS have beset a major segment of the nation's housewives down through the ages. Even in grandma's day, when building costs were low and houses big and bulky, often storage was skimpy.

If such was true in days gone by, how much more strongly it applies to modern home construction where rooms have shrunk as building costs climbed. Fortunate is the homemaker with ample storage space — the kind that is available where it is most needed. And wise is the builder who sees to it that such storage is provided.

Much of the success in obtaining the traditional "place for everything . . ." lies in many shallow, adjustable shelves and tray-drawers efficiently installed.

Little-used items, such as trunks, suitcases, old chairs awaiting a day to be upholstered, can usually find an overhead shelf in the garage. It's the every-day items like shirts, socks, towels, sheets, cooking utensils, table settings and others that pose the problems.

UNHAPPILY, the housewife laments the shortage of "closet space." Actually, closets, as such, pose no solution to the storage problem of most items. While a closet is certainly adequate for the hanging of clothes, it is a poor candidate for the housing of a card table, movie projector, tennis racket, overshoes or scrabble game.

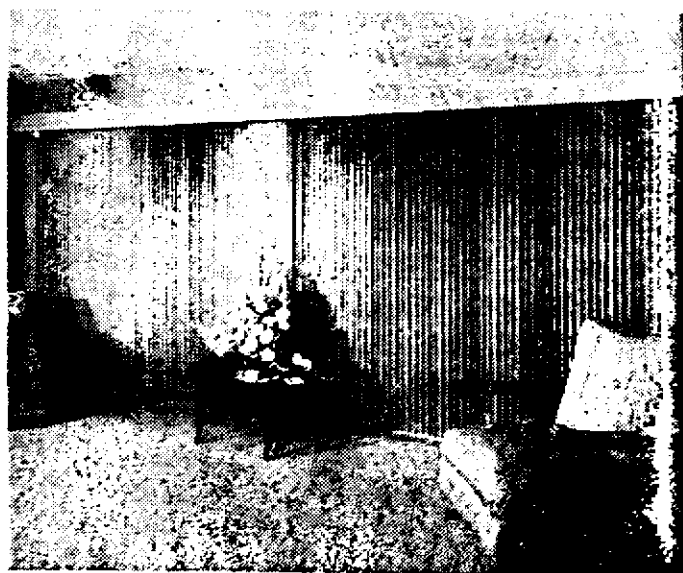

What the typical housewife seldom realizes is that most of the troublesome items could be stored on shelves no deeper than 10 inches. Once this idea is accepted, it is somewhat easier to work such shallow storage all into a house plan.

For convincing, the housekeeper need only contemplate the way store keepers, be they grocers or hardware merchants, store their inventories. They use narrow shelves and lots of them. Another help is the adjustable shelf that, by means of slotted hardware installation, can be raised or lowered at will.

PICTURED IS a kitchen cupboard that was custom-assembled to provide proper storage for short items (juice glasses and sherbet cups) and tall storage for turkey platters and large serving dishes. For this far-sighted homemaker there is no maddening necessity to prop the meat platter at an angle because the space was too short to accommodate it. How naïve to space the kitchen shelves all equidistant from each other!

Wall storage units installed in bedrooms happily dispense with bureaus and chiffoniers that cost money and pose cleaning problems.

The time wasted by the necessity of cleaning behind and under such case pieces is saved when storage is built in. In such a unit one can store linens, blankets, shoes, hats and clothing while open storage may be included for the display of books and hobbies. What a boon for the boy or girl who has dolls or model airplanes, games and school supplies to store!

THE DINING ROOM is one of the most logical and useful places for a storage wall. Silver, linens and china may be stored within handy reach of the table, and elimination of sideboard and china cabinet increases the usable area of the room. Here, again, thought should be given to the spaces necessary for all the special items, such as punch bowls, tureens and platters that the average china cabinet could not have accommodated, anyhow. Before planning such a unit, the homemaker should take inventory of her possessions to be sure the demi-tasse cups or the Tom and Jerry bowl aren't forgotten.

There is increasing belief that the place for a radio, speaker and phonograph is in a wall someplace where they don't need to be moved, dusted or looked at when not in use.

If it is the tradition of a family to serve cocktails in the living room, thought could be given to the possibility of installing a small service bar unobtrusively in a wall, possibly in one separating the living room from the kitchen or dining room. Pictured with this article is a compact bar that, with its shutter doors closed, appears to be a small louvered window. It actually functions as a serving counter and pass-through into the kitchen.

MANY A NEW homeowner has been disappointed in the linen storage facilities when they find themselves putting place mats and napkins, which require three-inch drawers, into drawers eight inches deep. Also pictured is a highly functional linen storage unit which has very shallow, sliding tray-drawers for the wrinkleproof storage of table linens, hand towels and the like.

Closets, to operate at greatest efficiency, should be divided for double-row hanging of such short items as shirts, blouses and skirts. Shoe storage should be handled separately, relieving the closet floor of hard-to-clean clutter.

Adjustable kitchen cabinet shelves answer question of what to do with large items best stored on edge.

Super Hacienda, due to its unusually close, tight weave and clear, vibrant colors, makes a stunning carpet on the floor. For long, hard wear only 100% nylon can surpass it.

ARTICLE 5—Continuation of a Series

There is no such thing as a 100% fast color in anything. Even the natural color on the sheep's fleece is affected by the sun. After World War I, the dyes used were poor, as we had been dependent upon German and Swiss dyes. Today, however, we have a tremendous dye industry. Dyes used today in carpets are the fastest known to science. Fading is not a serious problem today.

There are several methods of dyeing. The fastness of the colors is not due to the method but to the type of dyes used. Piece dyeing (dyeing the entire carpet after it is woven in a natural or white color) is usually employed for plain cotton and plain viscose. Raw stock dyeing is used chiefly for wool carpets and tweed viscose. Solution dyeing is employed for some forms of viscose and means dyeing the chemical solution before it is made into viscose, whereas raw stock dyeing means dyeing the raw stock of wool or viscose before it is spun into yarn. Steam dyeing has only limited use in wool dyeing and is mainly used for frieze or twist, as the twist can be made firmer and more lasting by dyeing wool in steins. "Vat dyes" is a name given to a certain group of dyes that are particularly fast to washing and certain chemicals. It does not mean dyeing in a vat.

Five or more dyes are often used to obtain certain tertiary shades, such as beige, brown, sandalwood, etc. These dyes are uniformly fast, otherwise the color would change completely which never happens. Accordingly, it is a fallacy to say that certain colors such as blue or green fade more than others. Light, pastel shades, however, will fade faster than deeper tones using the same dyes. Primary colors such as blue, yellow or red will show their fading more because there are no other dyes mixed with them.

Great caution must be used in employing a powerful bleach such as Clorox in removing ink stains from solution-dyed viscose, as Clorox can harm the fiber and the backing.

In Lithuanian costumes, Marion Wilson and Garland Ayers demonstrate a dance to be given at Spring Folk Dance Festival April 21 in Municipal Auditorium.

The Folk Dancers Are Coming

IN BRIGHT, richly embroidered costumes from many countries, 600 folk dancers will present the dances of South of the Border and many European countries in Municipal Auditorium the night of April 21.

It will be the fourth annual Spring Folk Dance Festival sponsored by the Long Beach Folk Dance Co-op and the Recreation Commission, and will be free and open to the public. Any person in costume who knows the dances may participate. Three thousand spectators are expected to crowd the balconies to watch.

Folk Dance Co-op, will have charge of the exhibitions. They will be Jarabe de la Botilla from Mexico, Albert Pill; Huapango from Veracruz, Jarabe Dancers of Pasadena; Yula, from the Ukraine, Gandy Dancers of Santa Monica; Gazakhi from Azerbaijan, between the Caspian and Black Sea, Yosemite Work Shop, Los Angeles; Harvest dance and Cuckoo polka from Germany, Folkdancers of San Diego.

"The Mad Hatter" will be the decoration theme of the Spring Folk Dance Festival, with large figures of the Mad Hatter and other Alice in Wonderland characters. Big hats and dancing costumes representative of many countries also will be used for decoration.

THE SPRING FOLK Dance Festival will begin with a hi-fi concert from 7 to 7:30 p.m., followed by Yugoslavian Kolos, which are line dances, instead of dancing with partners. The Kolos are to be danced smoothly, easily, as they are danced by peasants in from hard days in the fields.

Then will come the Swedish Hambo, German Bruder Lustig, Marklander and Schuplattler, mid-European Hopak, Spanish Caballito Blanco, Russian Peasant dance, South of the Border Tango and American Square Dances.

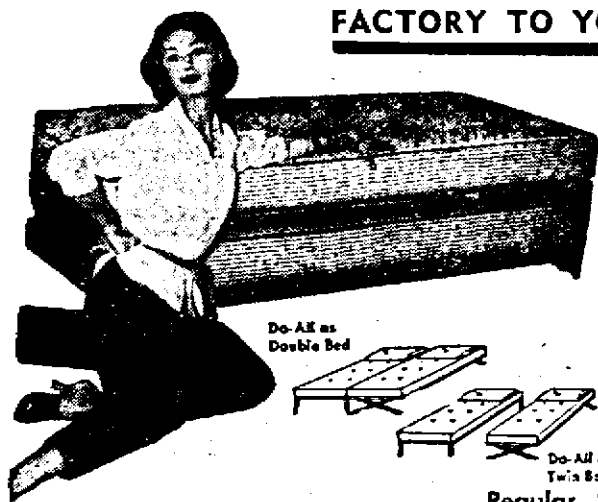

MARION WILSON, teaching chairman of the Long Beach

Oliver Seely is general chairman; Gene Minor, decorations chairman; Marion Wells, publicity chairman. Bob and Cora May Kemp, Ernest and Harriet Smith and Charles and Grace Dimmick will be masters and mistresses of ceremonies.

Dolls live in style in Kimberly Waite's doll house, made by her father, Wayne Waite. Interior view above shows in detail how house is furnished.

Her Dolls Keep House in Style

KIMBERLY WAITE'S dolls keep house in style — in a beautifully furnished five-room house with bath.

Wayne Waite, Kimberly's father who is a former Navy man and now is a postman, made the doll house, 51 by 18 inches, for Kim and her dolls. It attracts children for quite a few blocks around to the Waite home, 2201 Ximeno Ave., and it is popular with Kim's sister, Beverly, 12. The family blond cocker, Tressy, also watches proceedings.

The house is of plywood, with redwood stain. Floors have wall-to-wall carpeting. Under the living room is a big drawer, a catch-all which many adult home-makers would be glad to have. The living room has upholstered davenport, chairs, television, floor lamp, an antique brass lamp, fireplace. The dining room has a table covered with a lace cloth, chairs; kitchen is fully equipped. Bedrooms have beds with real mattresses, covers and afghans.

Mrs. Waite made curtains for all the windows.

dives 90 feet into a tank of flaming oil and water each night.

BESIDES THE MAIL, they get phone calls from agents who want to get clients on the show, from parents who want to get their offspring on the program, or from promoters who hope to get a nationwide plug for some show.

"We just aren't surprised at anything," say the girls. "Our main idea is to get a person who looks entirely different from the type that would usually be found in a given job. A pretty girl who looks like a model but is really a sandhog would be a dandy."

"It's a tough assignment to try to beat that panel every Sunday night. They have worked out a formula of questioning that leads them straight to the point most of the time but oc-asionally we can really fool them."

DURING THE SIX years that the show has been on the air the girls have selected more than 850 contestants and made a card for the file on each one.

Says Fran: "I wouldn't be surprised at all if someone called in and said, 'I'm Peter Piper. I pick pickled peppers.'"

Twelve-Fingered People of Spain

If you don't have at least 12 fingers, the people of Urdes think you are abnormal!

This is a section of Spain near the Portuguese border, where many people have six and seven fingers on each hand.

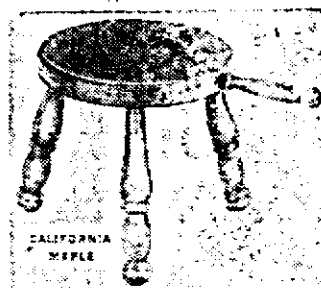

Through close intermarriage due to isolation from "foreign" elements, these people have managed to sustain in this oddity of heredity for many generations.

The Urdesians are among the poorest people of a very poor country. Highways and railroads have ignored Urdes for so long that it is now established as the most backward section of the Iberian peninsula.

Some rather strange beliefs have taken hold of the Urdesians. It is thought that if a mother and father have seven fingers on each hand, then their children must necessarily follow suit.

If a child has only six fingers, then the eye of suspicion is cast upon the wife. To have a son or daughter who has only five fingers would cause a major scandal in the village.

Such an occurrence would require that the local priest write to the University of Madrid asking for a document stating that such a five-fingered phenomenon is quite normal.

Walter Kendall, National Dog Welfare Guild chief, and his Scottish terrier.

PET PARADE

In the Interest of Dogs

By Eleanor Avery Price

ganizations as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boys' Clubs, Camp Fire Girls, always ready to assist in teaching youngsters everywhere that helpfulness, unselfishness, friendliness and other good character traits can be learned through humane treatment of pets.

The Guild grew out of National Dog Week, which was instituted in 1928 by a small group of people headed by Capt. Will Judy of Chicago. Although non-profit, with none of the women and men receiving pay for administering the Guild's business affairs, this organization has grown to a membership of thousands of dog lovers. Ed Sullivan, Gene Tunney, Adm. Richard E. Byrd, Eleanor Roosevelt and many notables are members.

THE GUILD needs the continued support of all who are interested in promoting the welfare of dogs and who would like to support the forthcoming National Dog Week, Sept. 23-29.

Those who have a book about dogs that they would like to donate to the Guild library may help. All types of such books are wanted — fiction, non-fiction, even poetry. Dog eared or not, these books will be welcome. Send them to the Guild at 114 E. 32nd St., New York 16, N. Y.

According to Raymond J. Hanfield, Guild executive secretary, Walter Kendall of Los Angeles, a man prominent in several phases of the dog world and long a loyal supporter of the Guild, was recently re-elected Guild president.

BOTH KENDALL and his wife are known for their active participation in show rings throughout the United States and Canada with the breed of their choice, the staunch and active Scottish terrier, and they have developed many American and international champions, including Champion Killiecrankie MacTavish, winner of numerous "Best in Show" and popular all

SANTA ANA Valley Kennel Club presents its unbred dog show and obedience trial on Sunday, April 29, at La Palma Park, Hwy. 101, in Anaheim. Entries with fees must be in Jack Bradshaw's office not later than midnight Monday, April 26. The superintendent's address is 1412 W. 12th St., Los Angeles.

A NEW STATE LAW reads that all parakeets hatched after last Jan. 20 must have metal leg bands, and a sales record must be kept on each sale, according to City Health Officer I. D. Litwack. This is a move to help control psittacosis (parrot fever), a virus disease carried and spread to humans by birds of the parrot family.

CITY OF LONG BEACH has made arrangements for the Lakewood Dog Obedience Club to use a portion of the grounds at Veterans Memorial Stadium, southwest corner, for drill team practice on Tuesday evenings and obedience refresher classes on Wednesday evenings. Spectators are invited.

You Make It

Corner cupboards like or similar in design to the one shown in sketch probably were the most widely used built-ins to be found in Early American homes. The increasing popularity of these cupboards in modern homes likely stems from their beauty and utility. Here is a design that combines these two qualities. The saw lines for the scallops and other irregular shapes are traced directly from the pattern to the wood. Pattern allows for variations in ceilings. Pattern No. 318 for making the cupboard and Pattern No. 261 for three styles of wall pockets are 25 cents each if ordered separately. Pattern 261 is included in the packet of five patterns for making Early American reproductions and is priced at $1 postpaid. CAMERA ANGLE

Be Clever With Your Color

By the Shutterbug

WALTER BENSER is a modern photographic vagabond in his mid-forties who has built his hobby of taking interesting color slides around the world into a full-time lucrative lecture career.

In one of his talks, entitled "35-mm Magic," Benser is dynamic, informative and witty; his pictures are bright and interesting; his presentation is unique. In fact, he is an inspiration of the rest of the shutterbug clan. Those who see his work are inspired to try for deft touches that will lift their slides out of the ordinary.

THE NEW, FASTER color films of today give camera fans an excellent opportunity for unusual color pictures, says Benser, because of their speed and a bit more latitude. "New color is like black-and-white," he explained. "You can use back-lighting and side-lighting instead of being limited to sun-over-the-shoulder only."

It sometimes is necessary to reflect a little light into the shadow side. Take advantage of a white towel, a bright surface, a sandy beach or a fill-in flash, if necessary. "However, don't overdo the fill-in by flash," he cautioned, "or you'll lose the atmosphere."

Benson's photos illustrate his recurring theme of simplicity in subject matter. "Too little," he advises, "is better than too much, especially in the background." Camera angle can be used to help achieve this result: get up high and shoot down; get low and shoot up and the background is usually simplified.

PHOTOGRAPHERS are never as free as painters in changing color as they find it . . . they must be happy with the way Mother Nature arranges a scene. But that doesn't mean they can't add a warm color to the foreground here and there, in the shape of their wife, daughter or a model in a red dress or coat, for instance.

Some of his most effective photos were made by moonlight. He pointed out that moonlight is reflected sunlight therefore daylight type color film is best to use. At sunset, with the light fairly strong in the sky, he used an exposure of 1-100th at f 2.8. At dusk, with buildings or trees silhouetted against the sky, he shot at 1-25th at f 2.8. Later, by actual moonlight he gave an exposure of seven minutes with the camera on a tripod. It was a wonderful photo of a village in a snowbound valley with the warm glow of electric lights shining through many windows.

LONG BEACH camera Guild will have a color slide competition at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2900 E. Ocean Blvd. Winners in the April black and white print competition: Murray Shaner, first; Clare Grounds, second; Murray Shaner, third; E. M. Bartlett and Clare Grounds, honorable mention. The judge was Claude J.

Unusual view of Eiffel Tower shows Walter Benser's deft touch with 35-mm. color slides. Imitation of his imaginative technique will improve any photographer.

Brooks, member of the Photographic Society of America and associate of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs.

The Guild will show black and white prints made by members and color slide projections, the work of color photography enthusiasts of the club, at the Hobby Show April 28-May 1 in the Municipal Auditorium.

E. M. Bartlett, black and white print chairman, asks that members bring slides for the Hobby Show to Wednesday's club meeting.

FORREST KELLOGG will present "Eskimo Land" and James Unsworth will show "Holiday Through Europe" at the meeting of the Long Beach Cinema Club at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Houghton Park clubhouse.

Alcohol, Adolescents and an Island

A NOVEL with precocious children in it is off to a good start. But when the children are part of a theatrical family (four families, that is! for one father and one mother have other mates) and they smuggle a dog onto an island in the Caribbean, a rollicking story is bound to come off.

"The Island Players" by Ilka Chase (Doubleday, $3.95) is the mischievous account of the famous players, Carla Hill and Chet Danforth who lend their acting skills to a one-week run with a local stock company. That the island is governed by one of Carla's ex-husbands, and is invaded by a dizzy sequence of outrageous events, adds to the fun. One actor whose art is great except when tempted too far by alcohol is only one problem faced by Carla and Chet; another ex-husband of Carla's is wooing a wealthy countess. If Carla can only advance the affair to the altar, she will be deviously repaid a large sum of money which is not only attractive but is necessary to her present and future happiness. When all looks fairly orderly, the actor with the alcoholic problem is primed on stage with genuine Martinis.

The wild results of that plot includes a trip to jail for everybody concerned. Author Chase has contrived delightful entertainment for both old and new readers.—G. L.

THE HONEY-BLONDE swore her brother had been murdered, that she had seen with horrified eyes the blood oozing out of a gaping hole in his throat, but private dick Michael Shayne still wasn't convinced. And red-headed Mike was more puzzled than ever when a suspicious-looking stranger with a scarred face appeared and claimed to be her brother. Mike had two hours to solve the mystery, and that he did in Brett Halliday's "The Blonde Cried Murder" (Dodd, Mead, $2.95), his 28th case for mystery readers. Here is action and surprises!

PHYLLIS A. WHITNEY, author of a number of juvenile books, proves her worth as a writer of adult fiction in "The Fire and the Gold" (Crowell,

COUNTESS CASSINI
—No Dull Memories for Her—

Daughter of a Czarist diplomat who was created a countess in her own right by Czar Nicholas II, Marguerite Cassini writes of her fabulous experiences as a belle of the world's capitals in the years before the Russian Revolution in "Never a Dull Moment" (Harper, $5). The Countess is today a familiar figure in New York and Washington society.

$2.75), a spellbinding story with the background of the great San Francisco earthquake of April 18, 1906, and the resulting fire.

As happened in the temblor that brought grief, suffering and property loss to Long Beach March 10, 1933, nationalities and social positions ceased to exist in the common struggle to survive: Nob Hill mixed with Telegraph Hill; Italians and Chinese rendered mutual assistance.

The book seemed especially interesting in view of the fact that the 50th anniversary of the San Francisco earthquake and fire falls this month.

The love story that Miss Whitney tells so charmingly seems incidental to the picture of the awful tragedy and how the hardy Bay City people built back their city — even as did the hardy folk of Long Beach 27 years later.—P. F.

A FINE ACCOUNT of how western cattle brands originated, what purpose they serve, and how to read them appears in the April issue of "American Heritage: the Magazine of History" (American Heritage, $2), by the chief of the folklore section of the Library of Congress. Accompanying the article are pictures of many present-day cattle brands. There are 15 other stories embracing American history in the hard-cover magazine, including coverage of a colorful event which pointed the way to today's jet travel and the true story of the capture of a small white girl by Comanche Indians on the Texas plains 100 years ago.

HAWAII IS DIFFERENT and so is a gay little volume that has come out of the Mid-Pacific Isles. Written by Dorothy Gale, travel writer and longtime resident of Honolulu, "Pulling the Stops on Hawaii" (Honolulu Star Bulletin Press, $2) is as refreshing as a freshly picked pineapple and as spicy as a dead-ripe mango. Hawaiian history, customs and ways of life, ancient and modern, are given a tongue-in-cheek treatment that still incorporates much informative material—something like attending school with Jerry Lewis as the teacher. And there's even a lesson on how to play "Aloha Oe" on the ukulele. Miss Gale's work is made as gay as a Hawaiian shirt with the color caricatures of Frank Turek, the "beach-comber artist."

THE GREATEST MYSTERY of 1955 is quite roundly ignored by "Collier's 1956 Year Book" (Collier, $10).

A city of 315,000 completely disappeared from the scene that year. The city is (or was) Long Beach, Calif., which was quite tidily reported upon in the 1955 yearbook on 1954, by the same publisher. This year—pouf!—it's gone. Even the Miss Universe contest, reported last year, vanished this year, although Miss America continued on.

What other omissions were made, we don't know. But the volume is the usual addenda to the Collier series, and otherwise very complete and well done. About 400 articles by experts on special fields, and the customary summary of a year in the world.

Considering the attention the last days of Pompeii received, the disappearance of Long Beach might have been worth a mention. Maybe even under the heading of subsidence?—G. C. F.

HOW TO Wax Your Floors; Choose Right Wax, Use Correct Tools for Best Result

1. ASPHALT AND rubber-tile floors look best when self-polishing wax is used. Pour right on floor; spread evenly with long-handled chenille applicator, let dry. Avoid use of polishing liquid or paste wax on asphalt or rubber; solvents in polishing wax may soften these floors. Your safest bet in all cases is to follow directions given by manufacturers of wax and tile.

2. PASTE WAX is dandy for hardwood floors, and wears a long time. No elbow grease is needed with an electric polisher. It brings out the shine in short order. For brighter luster, place the polisher over a chenille buffing pad that comes with the set. Scrubbing brush is also included. Hardwood floors take nicely to liquid polishing wax, too—it dry cleans as it waxes.

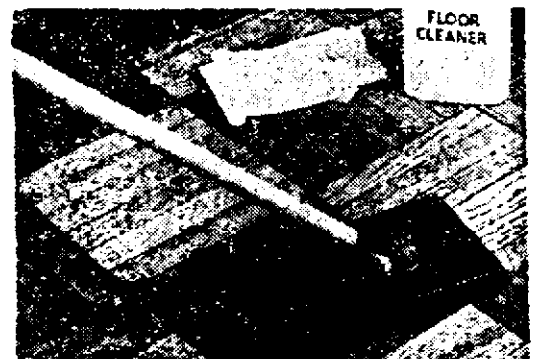

3. "THE LESS WASHING, the better" is the rule for linoleum. Go over it with a vacuum cleaner or dry mop; damp mop for freshening. Wipe up spills immediately. When washing is needed, use a linoleum cleaner, or mild soap or synthetic detergent; then rinse. Finish with a self-polishing wax.

4. SPRAY SELF-POLISHING wax on man-made-fiber rug to help preserve its rich colors, and restore its luster. Use the spray attachment of a vacuum cleaner. Do not, however, wax any natural-fiber rugs. Spraying wax on smooth-surface floors is not recommended. Results may be uneven.

5. HARDWOOD FLOORS frown on water, so clean with waxy commercial floor cleaner. Pour small amount on floor, and spread it with an applicator that has a steel-wool pad to loosen dirt. Wipe up soil and excess liquid with a cloth placed under the steel-wool pad. When dry, attach a wool pad; buff.

Wisteria: Pea Family Aristocrat

Author's Photo

Wisteria often makes an item of beauty when planted in a container, providing an amazing display of blooms.

By Gladys Diesing

AN ARISTOCRATIC member of the pea family is the deciduous wisteria. Spring finds the still leafless branches draped with long clusters of pea-shaped flowers in shades of blue, pink or white. After the flowers have disappeared the long, compound leaves come out, each composed of numerous leaflets, the number varying with the species.

The vine is especially appealing when growing over an arbor where the blossom clusters may hang down overhead. It may also be trained on a trellis, where it may bloom almost from the ground up, giving a sheet of color in the spring. It is easy to train the vine to a standard form by tying to a stake, removing side shoots and cutting back when dormant. It also is attractive as a pot specimen.

MOST COMMON wisteria in the Long Beach area, is W. Sinensis or Chinese wisteria. This has flower clusters of slightly fragrant violet-blue flowers about 12 inches long. There is also a white form, alba. W. floribunda or Japanese wisteria has longer flower clusters, growing to three to four feet, and has pink or rose-colored, as well as violet flowers. W. venusta or silky wisteria is similar to W. sinensis except the leaves are velvety.

Gardening Tips

GARDENING TIPS for the week... Shasta daisies such as the comparatively new Marconi daisies and Esther Reed daisies will do a lot for your garden, possibly even more for your home. The glistening white petals will highlight any garden scene. The plants thrive in this area, requiring very little care or attention.

Give your roses plenty of water and food during the immediate future. The plants are heavy feeders and drinkers. Plants that are congested towards the center section should receive a light pruning; cut to the outside bud to produce a more attractive plant.

DOROTHY DIGS in the garden

Many people ask me what to do for the whitish substance they find in their soil, which is generally what we call ground mealy. It is similar in appearance to another garden enemy called woolly aphids. But it isn't important for you to identify the enemy because the remedy is the same for both.

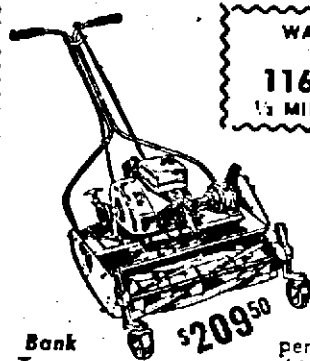

Disinfecting the soil with a dichlorethyl ether product is always a safe and constructive remedy for either one of these pests. Water the area you're going to treat, thoroughly; mix the ether product according to directions on the bottle and sprinkle it over the soil where the whitish substance is found. This treatment will not injure the plants growing there because, being thoroughly satisfied with moisture, their fiber roots will not take up any of the ether contents. The treatment will not injure the soil and will prove beneficial to the plants. Furthermore, it destroys not only these two enemies I mentioned but other destructive insect life that may be there as well.

Coltness hybrid dahlias, grown from seed, produce almost any color except blue and in dwarf form.

Grow Dahlias From Seed

By Walter Finch

GARDENERS generally regard dahlias as specimen plants that require staking and special winter care. But there are dahlias that are remarkably fine bedding or border subjects, growing only 1½ to two feet tall, and that you can grow readily from seed instead of tubers.

A single packet of seed costing from 15 to 25 cents can give you as many plants as you can find room for, and at the same time yield a fascinating assortment of colors and flower types.

THREE TYPES are generally available in seed racks. The rarest, and in some ways the most novel, are the small, single-flowered Coltness hybrids. These flowers have only eight petals, but they cover the dwarf, compact plants with a never-ending display of 3¼ to 4-inch blooms, and the color range is a joy to behold.

More often seen is the Unwin dwarf hybrid mixture. This is a series of semidouble flowers, also in many colors, which is produced on vigorous, two-foot plants.

THERE IS also the Unwin Ideal bedding mixture. Here the tendency to doubleness is still stronger, with nearly all flowers either semi-double or double in character. The plants are distinctly smaller than the Unwin dwarf hybrids, growing only 1½ feet tall. Along with this compact growth goes a tendency to mass the blooms closer together, making this an ideal border or bedding subject.

Grow a Garden in a Box

WHETHER or not the term, "outdoor living" was coined in California is a matter of debate (Floridians say otherwise) but certainly Californians enjoy a maximum of outdoor living and in this outdoor living, many extend their gardening area to include planter boxes containing a great variety of shrubs and flowers.

While they eat, sleep, read and loaf outside in patios and terraces, Californians have a great opportunity to enjoy plants close at hand. Plants grown in containers can be moved about on a patio and become as familiar a part of the outdoor living room as the furniture is of the indoor living room, the California Association of Nurserymen says.

Probably one of the brightest and cheeriest plants is the Bougainvillea and as such it is wonderful grown in high planter boxes so that the vine can spill over the sides attractively. A sun lover, the Bougainvillea blooms in gorgeous shades of red, pink, purple and scarlet. It should be planted in a frost-free area.

PLANTER BOXES are extremely attractive containers for an outdoor scene and in such containers the familiar and friendly morning glory in bush form (Convolvulus cneorum) also makes a lovely planting. Its foliage is silvery gray and the flowers white or pinkish.

Another low, training shrub outstanding when grown in a container is the lotus. Blooming in scarlet, crimson or yellow flowers, it has a lovely, contrasting foliage of silver. Plant the lotus in sun or partial shade.

WHICH "LAWN TYPE" ARE YOU?

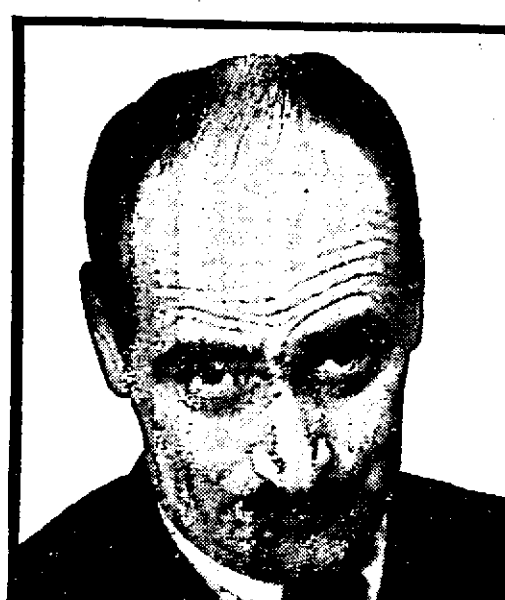

...and which Northrup King Lawn Seed is best for you?

"LAWN PROUD"

You want a showplace. You dream of thick velvety turf, lush and resilient... a lawn total strangers will stop to admire, that will be the envy of the neighborhood. So plant Northrup King GOLF Brand Lawn Seed. It's a blend of finest perennial grasses, including well known Kentucky bluegrass... along with new improved fescues. Given the regular care a fine lawn deserves, it will grow more luxurious and beautiful every year!

For a truly superior lawn plant NORTHROP KING GOLF Brand Lawn Seed.

"LET'S BE REASONABLE"

You care enough to want a lawn definitely superior, but it doesn't have to be a "show" lawn. Your goal is an attractive, permanent lawn. It must stand plenty of day-to-day living, and need only reasonable attention and care. So, plant Northrup King FORE Lawn Seed. It's a blend of good perennial grasses, including quality bluegrass. And because it contains hardy fast-sprouting fescues, your FORE lawn will become quickly established!

For a sturdy attractive lawn plant NORTHROP KING FORE Lawn Seed.

"I JUST WANT GRASS"

And you want it in a hurry, right? What's more, you need the kind of grass that can survive rough treatment... from pounding feet, dragging clothesbaskets, kids, dogs, more kids, wagons, trikes. So, plant Northrup King PAR Lawn Seed. It's a blend of hardy fast-sprouting grasses. These are grasses that quickly produce a thick sturdy turf, with a minimum of care. Count on PAR to grow a rugged lawn for work and play.

For a quick economy lawn plant NORTHROP KING PAR Lawn Seed.

NORTHROP KING LAWNFOOD...feeds your lawn 2 important ways. It contains fast-acting chemical nitrogen for immediate growth and color, plus slower-working organic nitrogen for season-long growth and root development. 50 lbs. covers 5000 sq. ft. Goes further, so it costs less!

NORTHROP KING WEED KILLERS. Spray away lawn weeds, using your garden hose! No complicated mixing or measuring. 2, 4-D WEED KILLER kills most broadleaved weeds. Pint covers 2000 sq. ft. CRAB-GRASS KILLER kills crab-grass, also controls many common lawn weeds. Pint covers 1200 sq. ft.

REANEAU E. MON
Cut It With a Fork

HAVING BEEN the "food host of the coast" for un-teen years now, Reaneau E.
Mon has excellent ideas on what people like to eat.

He knows that Southern Californians have a terrific yen for prime rib and steaks and will drive many miles out of their way to find a restaurant that specializes in the careful preparation of such treats. He has found that people really rave about the quality of the prime rib and steaks he serves at his new, beautifully redecorated
Mon's restaurant, 2116 Pacific Ave.

The house specialty at Mon's is roast prime rib of choice eastern beef, served for $2.95 with a scrumptious complete dinner.
The prime rib is tender enough to be cut with a fork, juicy and swimming in hot, clear meat juices. Mon accompanies it with a shrimp boat "starter," choice of his famed onion soup or soup du jour; a huge salad with choice of dressing, baked potato with cheese sauce and chives, choice of beverage and choice of many tantalizing desserts. (That boat "starter," incidentally is a make-it-yourself cocktail, consisting of fresh shrimp and a tangy red sauce).

MON'S STEAK specialty is a New York minute steak that is thick, juicy and absolutely tender. It's also priced at $2.95 and includes the same big complete dinner, plus a topping of golden French-fried onion rings on the steak. Mon, who opened his new restaurant last Feb.
2, offers an assortment of other fine steaks, at varying prices, and numerous other excellent entrees, priced at from $1.75 on up.

The restaurant offers complete banquet room facilities and a daily luncheon menu.
Luncheon entrees include three jumbo fried shrimp, $1.10; veal cutlet, $1; liver, bacon and onions, $1.25. Each luncheon includes soup or salad, potato, another vegetable and choice of beverage.

Luncheon is served from 11:30
a. m. to 3 p. m., dinners from 3 p. m. to midnight daily.

"It's like a dream how much cleaner I get clothes with Dash in my Bendix Automatic!" says MRS. MAURICE SAVIN of New Haven, Conn.

Shown in this picture is the new Bendix Duomatic Combination Washer-Dryer with patented Hi-Lift Deep Surge Tumble-Action Washing and Fluff and Tumble Drying. Economical to operate, it saves on the amount of water you use—saves wear and tear on clothes with its safe yet thorough wash-rinse-and-dry action. See this new Duomatic Combination now at your nearest Bendix Washer dealer.

DASH is Procter & Gamble's great new detergent for automatics... gives you low suds that really clean!

Important news! The makers of Bendix Automatics tested all leading detergents in their famous Tumble-Action Automatics at their Home Laundry Institute and enthusiastically recommend Dash. Dash gets clothes cleaner in these Bendix Washers than any other product—cleaner than any high-sudsing or any other low-sudsing! That's why Bendix named Dash as number-one choice for use in their automatic washers. Think what that means to you and your automatic! Dash is the only low-sudsing detergent with so much cleaning power... gives really high level cleaning with low level suds for best machine action.

Yes, DASH gets clothes cleaner in these Bendix Washers than any other product known!

With Dash you get cleaner, cleaner clothes than with any other detergent especially made for automatics. And Dash has the low suds your machine needs to work freely... won't smother washing-rinsing action and cause poor cleaning as high sudsers can. This great new Dash is the result of years of research by Procter & Gamble. So try Dash. You'll love those cleaner Dash washes!

"My new Tumble-Action Bendix washes like a dream!"

"What a thrill to see how clean my clothes come out of my new Bendix," says Mrs. Savin proudly. "Its Tumble Washing and Triple-Rinse Action are just two of its many exclusive features. I never had such complete washday freedom until I got this new Bendix!"

HI-LIFT, DEEP SURGE TUMBLE ACTION EXCLUSIVE WITH BENDIX

OTHER BENDIX OWNERS GIVE DASH THEIR HEARTY OKAY!

"First time I used Dash in my Bendix, I knew it was just the product I'd been waiting for. My clothes look so much cleaner even my husband is bragging!" Mrs. F. L. Mitchell, Ingles, Calif.

"If you could see how wonderfully my Bendix and Dash work together you'd know why I am so pleased with them. I'm so proud of my clean, bright washes!" Mrs. D. G. Friel, Rochester, N.Y.

Dash ... NUMBER-ONE CHOICE OF MAKERS OF BENDIX WASHERS AND PACKED IN EVERY NEW BENDIX AUTOMATIC WASHER!

What's New in Colgate Dental Cream that's MISSING-MISSING-MISSING in every other leading toothpaste?

It's GARDOL!
And Colgate's with Gardol gives up to 7 TIMES LONGER PROTECTION AGAINST TOOTH DECAY and a CLEANER, FRESHER BREATH ALL DAY with just one brushing!

Any toothpaste can destroy decay- and odor-causing bacteria. But new bacteria return in minutes, to form acids that cause tooth decay. Colgate's, unlike any other leading toothpaste, keeps on fighting decay for 12 hours or more! So, morning brushings with Colgate's help protect all day; evening brushings all night. Gardol in Colgate Dental Cream forms an invisible, protective shield around your teeth that lasts for 12 hours with just one brushing. Ask your dentist how often to brush your teeth. Encourage your children to brush after meals. At all times, get Gardol protection in Colgate Dental Cream!

MINUTES AFTER BRUSHING WITH ANY TOOTH PASTE

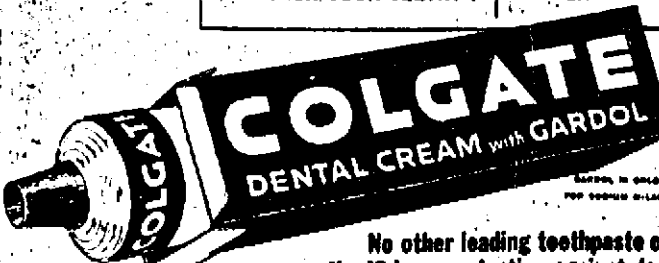

DECAY-CAUSING BACTERIA RETURN TO ATTACK YOUR TEETH!

12 HOURS AFTER ONE COLGATE BRUSHING GARDOL IS STILL FIGHTING THE BACTERIA THAT CAUSE DECAY!

Cleans Your Breath While It Guards Your Teeth

No other leading toothpaste can give the 12-hour protection against decay you get with Colgate Dental Cream with just one brushing!

"I love this Double-Duty idea!"

why buy TWO detergents... when ONE will do!

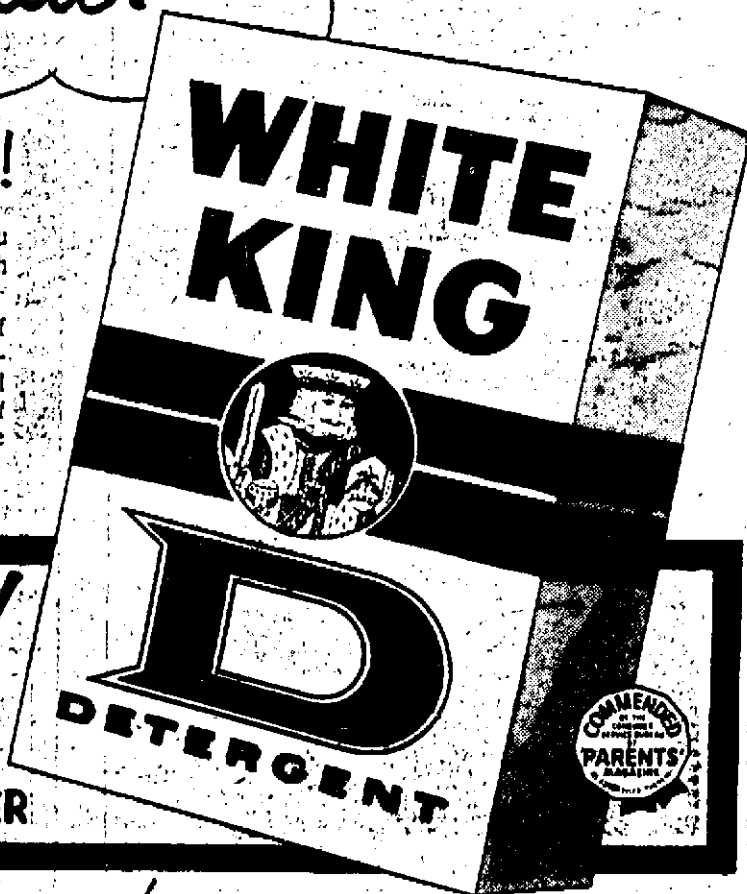

If you have been buying a "heavy duty" detergent AND a "light duty" detergent, you don't need to any more! Get WHITE KING D, the new "Double Duty" detergent with balanced power. The story is simply this:

The washing action of WHITE KING D has the thoroughness of the finest kind of "heavy duty" detergent combined with the gentleness of the finest "light duty" detergent! That's what we mean by "balanced" power. And that is why WHITE KING D will give you such satisfying results in (1) your washer, and (2) in your wash basin, and (3) in your dishpan! In fact you can use it for everything you wash—even in the hardest water!

Why buy two detergents when one—the right one—will do.

GET THIS!

SGT. BLAZE

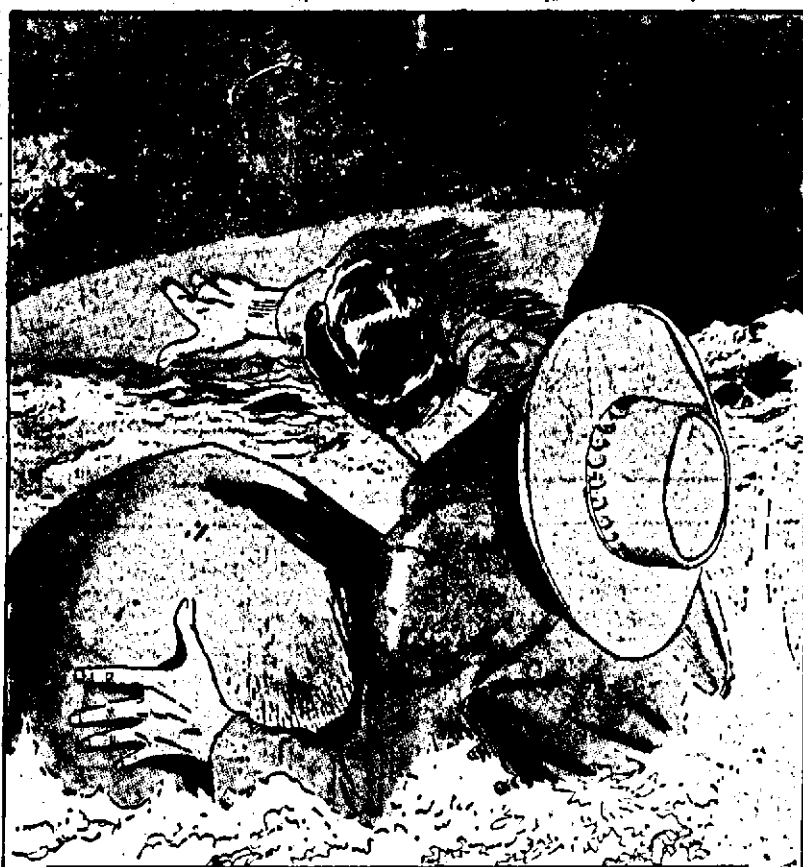

The marauding Blackfeet close in . . . Lance, Blaze, and the Arapaho guide jump for their lives . . .

. . . A hundred-foot drop. Lance hits the water with a crack that knocks him senseless.

He slams against a rock . . . and holds on . . .

When his brain clears, Lance looks around in vain for Blaze and the guide. Then he gets rid of his cumbersome carbine and lunges for shore . . .

Lance backtracks to recover his carbine. . . Then he heads for the best landmark within a mile radius. His companions will do the same if they are able.

But it's a long and heartsick night for Lance. Blaze and the guide fail to show.

TH' POSIES 'FROM LITTLE ANNIE... WHIN I CAN SMELL 'EM, NOT AETER... AND HER DROPPIN' IN, IVERY DAY...

INSPECTOR GROGAN TO 'SEE YOU, SOR...

"IN DOING WHAT WE OUGHT WE DESERVE NO PRAISE, BECAUSE IT IS OUR DUTY"—ST. AUGUSTINE—MAC'LL BUY THAT ONE!

HI, MAC! D'YE REMEMBER WHEN YOU AND ME WAS ROOKIES TOGETHER?

GIT TO TH' POINT, GROGAN... SURE, I IGNORED YIR ORDERS AND TOOK CARE O' CANDY, PERSONAL!

IF IT'S CHARGES Y'WANT T'PREFER AGAINST ME, GO AHEAD... I'M JUST A COP, DOIN' ME JOB, INSPECTOR! DO YOUR JOB!

Y' HOTHEADED MICK! LOOK! Y'RE A HERO! I GOT ORDERS FROM TH' MAYOR...

THIS PAPER SAYS YE'RE A LIEUTENANT O' D'TECTIVES... ALSO Y' GET A MEDAL AND FIVE HUNDRED REWARD... AND I SAY IT SHOULD BE A MILLION!

YEAH? WELL, YOU LISTEN T' ME!

I DON'T ACCEPT ANY REWARD! I'M NO LIEUTENANT O' NOTHIN'... I'M JUST A COP... SEE? "I SEEN M' DUTY AND I DONE IT," AS THE ILLITERATES SAY...

THIRTY YEARS, SINCE I WAS A ROOKIE, I RUN MY DISTRICT! I KEEP IT MODERATE CLEAN... I GOT ALL KINDS... MOSTLY FINE FOLKS... I GET TROUBLE? ME, PERSONAL, I HANDLE IT!

YOU SURE DID, MAC!

O.K... ALL I WANT, GROGAN, IS MY BEAT BACK... I'M JUST A COP... TH' BEST COP I KNOW HOW TO BE!

Y'SHAME ME, MAC! Y'RE A FINER COP THAN EVEN TH' CHIEF BETWEEN YOU AN' ME—

MAYBE THAT'S WHY HE'S TH' CHIEF!... AND MAYBE THAT'S WHY I'M HAPPY WITH MY PATROLMAN'S JOB...

HM-M-M...Y' KNOW, MAC... I WISH WE HAD A THOUSAND LIKE YE...

Y'MEAN, VIC, YOU ADMIRE MAC! BUT HE'S A COP... I THOUGHT YOU...

BUY 'EM OR BREAK 'EM... SURE... COPS ARE A DIME A DOZEN...

BUT NOT MAC! HIM I GOT RESPECT FOR! Y'NOTICED WE NEVER TRY NOTHIN' RAW IN HIS DISTRICT... WE GOT PLENTY OTHER PLACES T'OPERATE...

YEAH! LUCKY FOR TH' SYNDICATE THERE AREN'T TOO MANY MACS, EH?

MAC'LL BE BACK ON TH' BEAT SOON, SALLY... BUT I THOUGHT YOU HATED COPS...

LOOK, ANNIE... MAC'S BEEN LIKE A DAD TO ME... ONLY SMARTER! COP? HIM? MAC'S JUST MY PARTICULAR FRIEND IN A BLUE SUIT... Y'UNDERSTAND?

HOW DO THEY FASTEN THEIR NESTS TO THE CHIMNEY?

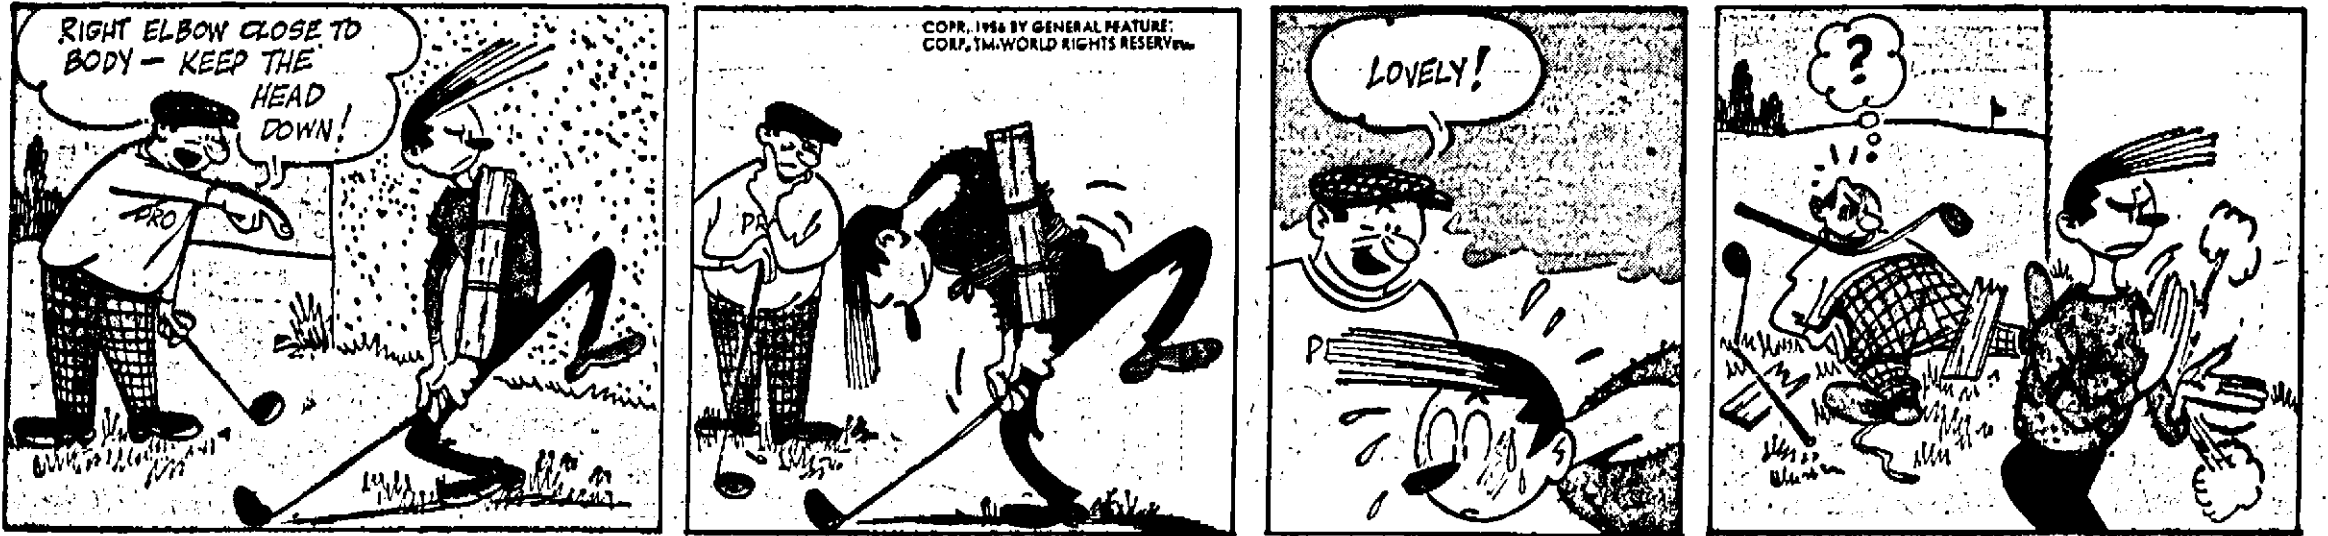

SALIVA GLANDS IN THE BIRD'S MOUTH PRODUCE THE STICKY GLUE THAT HOLDS THE CUP TO THE WALL

THE CHINESE MAKE "BIRD'S NEST SOUP" FROM NESTS OF A CAVE-SWIFTLET THAT BUILDS ENTIRELY WITH THIS "HOMEMADE CEMENT"

THE CHIMNEY SWIFT'S FEET ARE SO TINY AND WEAK THAT HE CANNOT PERCH ON A HORIZONTAL SURFACE, BUT MUST CLING TO VERTICAL WALLS

VEL*

MAKES DISHES SHINE

WASHING

"VEL SOAKS DISHES CLEAN — SAVES YOU ALL THE HARD WORK!"

Don't Wash — JUST SOAK
Dishes soak grease-free in seconds! No washing is needed. If food clings, a touch of the dishcloth gets it off. No greasy dishwater with Vel.

Don't Wipe — JUST RUB
Just soak and rinse. Dishes dry without wiping! Even grease in pots and pans is so completely dissolved no hard scouring is needed.

Package for package — VEL CUTS GREASE BETTER

- ① Better than liquid detergents
- ② Better than the leading washday detergent
- ③ Better than soap

—and yet NO
'DETERGENT
BURN' TO HANDS!

PROVE IT YOURSELF!
"HAND-HEAT TEST" shows why:

Dip hands in water. Then put a tablespoonful of any leading washday detergent in one hand — put a tablespoonful of VEL in the other.

FEEL THE HEAT from washday detergents, indicating irritating alkalis and harsh chemicals that cause "Detergent Burn"!

FEEL NO HEAT with Vel because Vel contains no irritating alkalis or harsh washday chemicals to cause "Detergent Burn"!

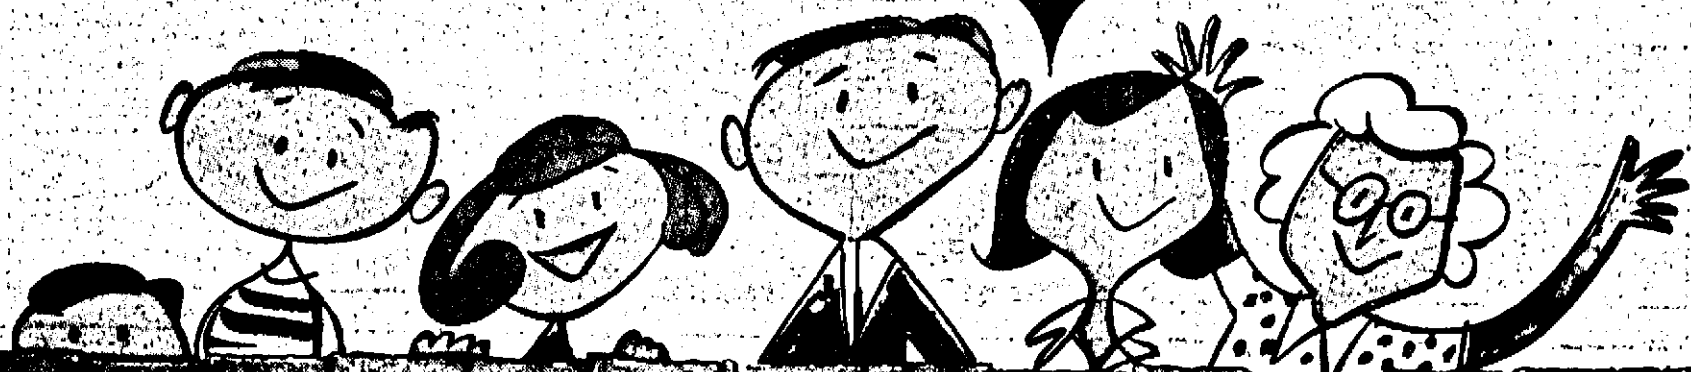

VEL is a miracle of mildness! Vel helps you avoid rough, red hands — causes no "Detergent Burn"!

Max Velours for dishes and finest fabrics
